...Charming fourth grader

Leroy Minor Is 10-Year-Old Head Chef

By Cynthia Bell
Post Staff Writer

Leroy Minor is the 10 year old ace "Head Chef" at Richard's Grill located inside of Benson's Rexall Drug Store in the Westover Shopping Center.

Leroy and his father, Jimmy Minor reside at 1701 Remount Road.

A fourth grader at Selwyn Elementary School, Leroy's favorite subject is spelling. He says, "my real favorite is reading. I make A's in reading." His outstanding work in school can be partly attributed to the assistance of his teacher Ms. Harrison.

Leroy has been helping out at Richard's Grill for over seven weeks. When not at work, he loves to play with his best friend Stanley Jones. They enjoy bicycle riding and playing baseball.

"I'm going to work here 'til I get big and drive a Trailway bus. That way I can take my girlfriend to dinner," chattered Leroy.

When asked the question of what he does with his money, Leroy replied, "My dad is putting it up and when I get enough I'm going to buy a Cadillac."

His boss, Richard Cartledge feels that he's going to do just that.

Davis Wants To Turn

Drawing Into An Occupation

By Sidney Moore
Post Staff Writer

Terry Davis, 25, of 1367 Bethel Road, wants to turn cartoon drawing into an occupation.

The aspiring artist has been mixing chemicals for Radiator Specialists for the past seven months. In his off hours, he mixes inks in such a way as to convey ideas.

He acquired his hobby from his mother, who also draws. Although he has had no special training, her example and his interest keeps him active as an artist.

In addition to cartoon drawing, Davis occasionally writes songs and paints on velvet. His paintings often depict his cartoon characters.

Born in Charlotte, Davis moved to New York City before completing elementary school at Billingsville. Although he was drawing then, he did not develop an interest in cartoons until six or seven years ago. He returned to Charlotte two years ago.

One of his scripts, "Reba"

Commitment To Action Is Goal Of PTA Convention

When the PTA speaks out about something, it isn't just talk -- it's ideas in action!

And that's the whole concept behind "PTA Speaks Out!" as the theme for the National PTA's 82nd Annual Convention, set for June 11-14 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Atlanta, Ga. The 1,500 delegates from around the country and Europe who are expected to attend are also expected to act upon what they've seen and learned when they return home from the convention.

"We want delegates to be thoroughly versed in the current issues that affect education, the schools, and the health and welfare of children and youth, so that when they speak out on these concerns in their local communities, their voices will be heard and their actions will bring change," said GRACE BAISINGER, National PTA president.

The convention offers a variety of speakers, workshops, business sessions, attractions, and entertainment. At the opening session on Sunday, June 11, Lt. Gov. Zell Miller of Georgia, Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta, Dr. Charles McDaniel, Georgia state school superintendent, and Mary Ann Mosely, Georgia PTA president, will greet convention delegates (7:30 p.m., Regency Ballroom.)

Major speakers during the convention will be:

CAROLYN WARNER, Arizona state superintendent of public instruction. Mrs. Warner's keynote address, entitled "Parents are the Key," will be given at the General Session on Sunday, June 11, 7:30 p.m., in the Regency Ballroom.

THE REV. JESSE L. JACKSON, president of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity). "Parental Involvement in the PUSH for Excellence Program" is the title of Jackson's speech, to be delivered at the General Session on Tuesday, June 13, 7:30 p.m., in the Regency Ballroom.

REAGAN V. BROWN,

Texas state commissioner of agriculture. Brown will speak at the convention banquet on Wednesday, June 14, 7:00 p.m. in the Regency Ballroom. His topic is "The Middleman and the Food Chain" and concerns the sharp rise in food prices in the past few years.

A multi-media presentation is planned for the "President's Report," which Mrs. Baisingerg will give on Monday, June 12, 2 p.m. in the Regency Ballroom. The report will summarize PTA activities and accomplishments during the first year of her two-year term and will highlight areas of emphasis for the coming year.

All delegates will attend a symposium on the accountability movement in education and minimal competency testing called "Schools for Students or Students for Schools," to be held on Wednesday, June 14, in the Regency Ballroom. The panel of experts participating in the symposium include DR. TOM TOMLINSON, senior associate in the Basic Skills Group,

National Institute of Education, who will discuss "Federal, State, and Local Roles"; DR. ANDREW C. PORTER, professor of counseling, personnel services, and educational psychology at the Institute for Research for Teaching, Michigan State University, who will discuss "Relationships Between Testing and Curriculum"; and DR. DAVID HORNBECK, Maryland state superintendent of schools, who will speak on "Missions for Education."

Convention delegates will also attend five one-hour long informational "Back to School" sessions on Tuesday, June 13. Some of the subjects are legislation, a "Speak Out" to national leaders, and television violence. DR. WILLIAM YOUNG, director of the PTA's TV Project, and MARION YOUNG, project associate, will lead the latter workshop, entitled "Effects of Television on Children and Youth," discussing new directions the project is taking. Twenty-five "Action Clinic" workshops will be offered during the four-day meeting. Among them are "Energy and Our Schools"; "Handicapped Legislation: Is It Working? Are the Needs of All Children Being Met?"; "A Child-Rearing Clinic: Positive Ways of Dealing with Children"; and "Kids Can't - So Parents Should - Demand More and Improve Teacher Training in Reading."

Awards for the winners of the PTA's ninth annual cultural arts contest, "Reflections," will be presented Monday, June 12, 7:30 p.m., in the Regency Ballroom. Now in its ninth year, the contest offers elementary and secondary school students the opportunity for creative expression in the visual arts, literature, and music. This year's theme is "Love is..." and cash awards will be given to the top 12 winners in the three categories. In addition, 40 honorable mention awards will be made in each category. Sponsors of this project are the BALDWIN PIANO COMPANY, READER'S DIGEST, BINNEY AND SMITH (manufacturers of Crayola Crayons), and the WORLD BOOK ENCYCLOPEDIA.

A special award will be presented for the visual arts entry selected as the most outstanding interpretation of the theme. The prize is a three-day summer trip to Chicago for the winner and an adult, made possible through a special grant from the Lila Acheson Wallace Foundation of the READER'S DIGEST.
