

Pineville Theatre Play

"How The Other Half Loves" Opens July 4

The Pineville Dinner Theatre takes great pleasure in presenting Henry Jones in "How The Other Half Loves;" opening July 4 through July 30.

Mr. Jones won both the Tony Award and Variety's New York Drama Critics Poll Award for his performance of Louis McHenry Howe in "Sunrise at Campobella." To millions of American viewers, however, Mr. Jones whose television career has spanned 20 years and more than 300 productions is probably best known for his affectionately wry and witty characterization of Judge Johnathan Dexter on the CBS series "Phyllis."

Henry Jones (Frank) has the starring role of the senior executive at his office but low-man away from business, since he can't find anything he needs in his house when he wants it, from a screwdriver to his wife, and can't fix anything that needs fixing even when he gets his hands on the screwdriver and his wife.

This is a role that starred Phil Silvers, ever memorable for his Sergeant Bilko portrayals on TV, when "How the Other Half Loves" had its first New York presentation. Ann Gardner (Fiona) will be seen as his barely tolerant wife, and Anne Paul (Teresa) will have the role of an equally disorganized lady, who is married to a subordinate of the senior executive. James Rebhorn (Bob) will portray the subordinate, driven by a diet of peanut butter sandwiches, plus dust, dirt, and disorder in his home, to a secret tryst with his boss' wife.

It is the effort of this erring pair to explain on a Thursday, Friday and Saturday where they spent so much of a Wednesday evening while their respective spouses were left at home, that involves still another couple, to be played by Tom Bade and Lynn Wienke (William and Mary Detweiler) and sets the comedy spinning on its merry way.

While in most farces the fun stems from a too-quick and often unjustified jealousy on the part of the husband, the comic point of "How The Other Half Loves" is sharpest in depicting the ready willingness of Mr. Jones (Frank) to accept the various explanations on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Miss Gardner (Fiona) about her whereabouts on the Wednesday night of her absence from home.

Michael Heaton is the director guiding the fast-paced slapstick action of "How The Other Half Loves."
