UNCC Names

Tyler Assistant

Dean Of Students

The assistant dean of student residents at the University of California at Santa Barbara has been named director of residence life at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Jack S. Tyler will be in charge of student housing and the living-learning environment for 2,250 students living in dormitories at UNCC.

Tyler replaces Charles (Chuck) Lynch who has been promoted to dean of students at UNCC. At UNCC, Tyler will be responsible for a staff of 37 full time employees and some 80 part-time student employees.

In addition he will be responsible for working with the planning for several hundred new dormitory spaces as the housing program expands.

Lynch said that Tyler was selected from 180 candidates for the position because of his strengths in student and staff development and because he has had considerable teaching experience.

Tyler will begin his duties July 1.

Tyler, 33, holds the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of California. He and his wife have one son. In addition to his position at Santa Barbara he has been assistant dean of students at the University of Nevada at Reno and has taught at Horace O'Bryant Middle School at Key West, Fla.

Local Residents To Express Their Views On Crime Control

Citizens of Mecklenburg County will have an opportunity to suggest changes in the state's criminal laws and improvements in the criminal justice system at a Governor's Conference on Crime Control to be held in Charlotte on Thursday, July 6. The public hearing, to be held in the First Union National Bank Auditorium on South Tryon Street at 9 a.m., is the first of thirty-seven such hearings previously announced by Governor Jim Hunt to be held throughout the state.

Hunt has designated Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety J. Phil Carlton to preside over the hearings and both officials are hoping that many Mecklenburg residents will attend the July 6 hearings to voice their opinions.

The primary purpose of the hearings, according to Carlton, is to give citizens an opportunity to lend their advice and suggestions on ways to reduce and control crime in North Carolina. "This is not one of those opportunities for those of us in Raleigh to come and make speeches," Carlton said. "We will come to listen to any suggestion anyone wants to make about ways and means to fight crime in North Carolina. We are particularly interested in suggestions on strengthening our criminal laws and improving our law enforcement, court and correctional systems."

The suggestions made by citizens will be evaluated for possible inclusion in upcoming crime control legislation. "We will evaluate any suggestions received as we attempt to prepare a package of legislative proposals to be submitted by Governor Hunt to the 1979 General Assembly," Carlton said. Carlton noted that while such public officials as judges, district attorneys, and law enforcement officers have been invited to the hearings, he is particularly interested in hearing from private citizens.

Said Carlton, "This is one of those areas where the average citizen is very likely to have a good idea. It's the average citizen who lives in the communities where crimes are being committed every day, and they know what they want us to do about it. That's what we want to hear."

The Crime Control and Public Safety staff has attempted to allocate sufficient time at each hearing site for interested citizens to be heard. Carlton pointed out, however, that it would be helpful if those wishing to speak would write to him at Post Office Box 27687 in Raleigh, N.C., 27611, and indicate the topic area and approximate length of their presentation.

Carlton added, "I look forward to being in the area and to hearing what people have to say about controlling crime. It's an unusual opportunity, and I hope many will take advantage of it. We will consider every suggestion received and see if it will fit into the legislative proposals to be sent to the General Assembly."

Governor Hunt is expected to attend several of the hearings which will continue throughout the summer and early fall ending in Raleigh on October 19.
