For Outing

Members of the C'est La Vie Social Club gathered for an outing recently at Morrow Mountain State Park.

The outing was held for husbands and guests.

Members who went were Barbara Jean McCoy, Mary McDonald, Delores Atkinson, Martha Parks, and May Neely.

They and their husbands and friends enjoyed a steak cook-out and lots of fun.

Members also shared their time to gather for a dinner which was held at the Nakato Restaurant.

The occasion was a different experience for some members and was enjoyed by all.

Both the dinner and outing were held as part of the Club's Do Things Together Project.

Members who went to the dinner were Shirley Fitch, Annie Mae Harris, Barbara Jean McCoy, May Neely, Mary McDonald, Martha Parks, and Delores Atkinson.

The Great Outdoors Needs Cleaning Up, Too!

Comes warmer weather, and everybody hastens to clean up indoors to get that spring cleaning over and done with. But the great outdoors needs a bit of sprucing up, too after a long hard winter.

Garages, walkways, patio areas, tool sheds, terraces—what have you—collect all kinds of dust and debris which need tidying up to accommodate that happy rush, at last, to get out into the fresh air.

That kind of cleaning can be grueling, but luckily there's a handy tool around that has been specifically designed for these outdoor chores. It's the "Slimline" Patio Broom from Stanley Home Products, Inc., of Westfield, Massachusetts, originators of the famous "Stanley Hostess Party Plan." It has tough polypropylene bristles that snap back in place with every stroke, angled so that every bristle touches the surface being swept. It has a full 12-inch brush surface, and the hardwood block that holds the bristles has its own protective vinyl bumper circling it.

Since the patio broom is used with Stanley's 48" long "Slimline" Handle, it can cover a lot of ground with a minimum of work. And the enameled steel handle's plastic hang-up grip makes storage easy.

Another advantage of the patio broom and its long handle is the ease with which it can clean vertical surfaces as well, like foundation walls and stone fences. That's when the lightness of this handy tool will be truly appreciated.

It will be fun to clean up the great outdoors now that winter is behind us.
