The Everlasting

Gospel Of Rev.

Montgomery

by Sherleen McKoy
Post Staff Writer

"After the Preaching, the Praying and the Shouting, What Then?" is a unified collection of thirty-two radio sermons compiled by Alexander Montgomery, a devout and dedicated Christian, who received his "calling" in 1962 and has since been preaching the gospel for sixteen years.

In his book, Montgomery tries to convey the fact that God is very much alive today and that He is a rewarder of them that do good and seek His will for their lives.

"A man can want no greater reward than when Heaven is revealed to him," Montgomery stated.

God revealed Himself in Montgomery's life in Pontiac, S.C. 1976, when a cross appeared in a Mrs. Frank Harley's window. Montgomery said that the cross was predicted through a quiz that he ran in his hometown newspaper in Cherryville, N.C. He offered $1,000 to the person who would provide the answer to the scripture found in 2 Corinthians 3:18. Ten thousand people flocked to see the miracle from heaven. It was then that he petitioned God to give him a similar miracle to promote his Everlasting Gospel Ministry. Three months later in his hometown, a face appeared in a bush.

Montgomery said of the miracle, "God constantly reveals himself in a physical way, such as the cross in Pontiac, the bush in Cherryville or in some other purely physical way. The reason most people can't see it is because of lack of faith in God's Word and a commitment to do good to one another."

Montgomery's sermons expound on the existing relationship between God and the church, the mounting trauma of violence and death sweeping the land, the nature of God and the nature of sin and the glorious hope for a dying world.

The sum total of Montgomery's God-inspired messages may best be summarized in his closing remarks: "We are a part of the everlasting nature of God that we can't get away from. People wouldn't be plagued by man's beginning and his end if they didn't think God was over us, but rather in us, thereby making us a part of Him. He is present with us whether we acknowledge it or not. When we realize this, we know the totality of our existence."

The vibrant message, passed from generation to generation and revealed in the Word of God from the first coming of Christ until His Second Coming, is to repent from all sin and be saved from everlasting damnation.

Born in Lancaster, S.C., Montgomery received his B.A. degree from Johnson C. Smith University and attended Hood Seminary, Livingstone College in Salisbury where he received a certificate in education. He lives in Cherryville with his wife, the former Aline Benson, and his two children.
