

SCSC Names $1 Million Planetarium For Stanback

Special to the Post
ORANGEBURG, S.C.—A $1 million museum-planetarium at South Carolina State College has been named for the chairman of its Trustee Board and a learning resource center has been named for the retiring chairman of the college's department of education.

President M. Maceo Nance Jr. announced at the 83rd commencement Sunday that the soon to be opened museum-planetarium will be named for I.P. Stanback who has served on the board since 1966 and has been its chairman for the past 10 years.

The learning resources laboratory in Turner Hall will be named for Dr. Alba M. Lewis who retires in June from the position of professor and chairman of the department of education.

Stanback, a native of Chester, S.C. moved to Columbia in 1939 to serve as assistant district manager of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co. In 1972 he retired as district manager after 40 years with the company.

The chairman was graduated from Brainerd Institute in Chester and from Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N.C.

He is a member of the Jones Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church; NAACP; former president of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Columbia Chapter; Cairo Temple of Shrine House of Masonry; Thirty-third degree Mason; and is a member of the Executive Committee of the U.S.O.

 He received an outstanding service award from the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.
 Mrs. Stanback was Ada Leathers of Chester.
 Dr. Lewis received both her B.S. and M.S. degrees in education at South Carolina State College and her Ed. M. in education at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She supervised teaching in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades at Felton Laboratory School on the campus from 1950-1964; was an instructor of the summer workshop for elementary school teachers; and directed the workshop in 1956. In 1968 and 1969 she supervised the teacher corps program at the college and was associate supervisor of directed teaching from 1968 until she was named director of Felton Laboratory School in 1970, a position she held until she was named head of the department.

Dr. Lewis is active in professional organizations and is a consultant in her field. She is a member of the Links, Inc.; Trinity United Methodist Church; United Methodist Women; the League of Church Women United; Women's Auxiliary, Orangeburg Hospital; Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.; NAACP and Kappa Delta Pi. She will be presented with an award from the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education at the National Convention in Chicago this year.

Dr. Lewis is married to Alexander C. Lewis, supervisor of attendance in the Orangeburg City Schools. They have a son, Alexander Jr.

In Woolworth's Expansion Program Shifting Patterns Of Growth Remain Determining Factors

by Susan Ellsworth
 Post Staff Writer

"We maintain our own census all over the United States and Canada. It is kept up to date so that we know continually just which towns are growing, which ones are standing still and which ones are dwindling."

Are these words of an industrialist before a security analysts group of the seventies?

No. That was Frank Winfield Woolworth's response when asked back in 1916, "How do you analyze where new stores should be opened?"

Woolworth's answer 63 years ago still applies, as much now as when he founded the company.

"Shifting patterns of growth remain determining factors in the company's expansion program," asserted Harold Sells, vice president for store development.

"...The patterns of population growth and decline are quite different from where they were in Frank Woolworth's time," Sells emphasized.

During the early 1900s a retailer could move in ahead of a city's development and await the coming inhabitants. Few new towns arise in present times.

"What we will see developing will...be an extension...of long established population centers," Sells said.

"We view future growth through programs designed to upgrade, enlarge and better merchandise existing stores," Sells pointed out, "...as well as through a selective approach of establishing new stores..."

To illustrate his strategy Sells emphasized, "A small, downtown Woolworth store in a medium-sized community may no longer be viable.

"The customer traffic just isn't there. It's moved to the suburbs and so have we."

Yet, Woolworth continues to operate more downtown stores than any other retailer in the country, Sells commented.

"All of those stores Frank Woolworth had in 1916 are still in operation (except one) in the same location," Sells remarked.
