MCC Status Of Women

Establishes Job Bank

Post Staff Writer

The Mecklenburg County Commission on the Status of Women recently established a job bank

It provides referral services for women who have specific problems finding jobs in female dominated fields(ie. social work) according to staff counselor, Sandy Feibelman.

Listings of mostly entry level positions in office work, sales and construction trainees among others, are available at the office located at 316 E. Morehead Street, Suite 303. Open from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Monday through Friday, no fee is charged for services.

jobs," Ms. Feibelman said, 'although secretaries and receptionists are in demand."

'The job bank serves people with no skills to those who have PhDs, commented Fay Skidmore, Administrative Coordinator of the Women's Three hundred women have registered with the job bank since its inception as a pilot project in July 1979. The Women's Commission was established in 1974 by the Mecklenburg County Commission. Nine volunteer staff members were appointed.

"There's a mixture of women in the job market," Ms. Feibelman said. Applicants range from "women who have six months to one year's experience to those returning to the work force after a lapse of time," she continued.

Responding to women's needs not being met by the larger, more impersonal Employment Securities Commission is a function of the job bank, Ms. Feibelman said.

"The Employment Security Commission mainly helps people who are unemployed," she continued. "The job bank helps people regardless of whether or not they have a job."(Men are not discriminated against and may also apply for positions, although the service is mainly for wo-

Some career counseling is provided at the job bank but more is offered through WO-MANSHARE, which the Woman's Commission jointly sponsors with CPCC.

The Commission also combines effort with state officials to update information on the employment situation for wo-

"Salaries for women in North Carolina are half of those for men," Ms. Skidmore said. "An average salary for a woman is $7,000.-$8,000. and that's poverty level. Women earn $3,000 less than a man for doing the same job," she added.

Through the job bank the Mecklenburg County Commission on the Status of Women hopes to improve employment opportunities for

Mecklenburg

The PAL-North Mighty Mites concluded their 1979 regular season with a 25-7 win over North Mecklenburg.

North Mecklenburg tallied the first score of the game with an interception return for a touchdown. The extra point was good.

The Raiders charged back with touchdowns from Marshall O'Neal, Kenny Parker, and Daimon Rawlinson. Parker added the extra points.

The Raiders take their 7-1 record to Gastonia on November 24 to take on the Noon Optimist Pee Wees in the High Noon Classic

FOR COUNCIL — AT — LARGE

It is vital that our at-large Council members be well able to analize facts, weigh issues, and act in the best interests of the total population. This is especially important as Charlotte enters an apparent new growth surge. Rudy Hendricks' background and experience well qualify him for this office as he has been active in Charlotte's total community for many Educated at Stillman College, Johnson C. Smith's Theological Seminary and at Princeton Theological Seminary, Reverend Hendricks is now Minister of the South Tryon Street Presbyterian Church. A guest speaker at many churches throughout the city, he is especially well known for his work with young people. Rudy and his wife, Barbara, have three children.

Rudy serves on the Charlotte Civil Service Board and the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Community Relations Committee. He was formerly on the Boards of the Mecklenburg Mental Health Assn., the N.C. Mental Health Assn., The American Red Cross, and the Charlotte Council on Alcoholism. Rudy is a member of the Dilworth Rotary.
