

County Commission Terminates CETA Programs

The Mecklenburg County Commission voted recently to terminate all of its CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) programs.

Although the board was requested to fund the continuation of these administrative positions, it voted to fund them only through September.

Commissioners also voted to withdraw applications for grants that would fund continuation of CETA programs in county government.

While most Vietnam era veterans agree with a majority of the public that America should have stayed out of the Vietnam War, these veterans said they were proud to serve and would do it again if asked. This was among the findings in a survey conducted by the Veterans Administration.

Some other findings reveal that three-quarters of the Vietnam Era veterans felt the government should do more for them.

Employers' commitments to hiring Vietnam Era vets have declined during the 1970s.

Most educators report that age, military experience nor discrimination has been a problem for Vietnam Era veterans at their schools. They rate the veterans frequently better than other students.

Despite success in meeting the demand for higher production, more efficient cows, and milk lower in butterfat and higher milk solids, serious challenges face the dairy industry.

"The most immediate pressure on dairy managers is inflation," according to Anson Bertrand, a director of science and education with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Bertrand said energy cost are forcing the dairy industry to rely more on solar energy and substituting some gasoline for alcohol.

A growing world demand for food may be the strongest pressure Bertrand said.
