

People In The News Enjoy Reading About Themselves?

People are always in the news because others enjoy reading about them. Accomplishments are presented and activities, positive and negative, are reported.

It's not necessarily conceded to want to read about yourself and most people like to do that. Therefore, this column is dedicated completely to people, in hopes that their accomplishments and endeavors will inspire someone else.

North Carolina's "Visions" magazine recently featured several disabled volunteers. These volunteers give freely of their time, their energies and their knowledge of how it feels to have some portion of the body or a sense missing.

Jimmy Pelzer was one young man featured. Each Monday from 6-8:30 p.m. Pelzer is at the Charlotte Rehabilitation Hospital's recreation room. Once there he encourages patients to play bingo, volleyball, and watch movies. He has organized talent shows in the past and goes with patients on recreational trips. One of his favorites is helping to coordinate discos.

At the age of 11 Pelzer was hit by a car while riding his bicycle. One of his legs was amputated and the other one cannot be used. Perhaps you have seen him around Charlotte wheeling his gurney. He propels himself by turning the wheels on the stretcher.

Pelzer is an intelligent young man and is now a student studying accounting. He wishes one day to enter this field. In addition to his intellect, he is one with a big heart and encourages others to volunteer also.

the employees of Charlotte Memorial Hospital and Medical Center. But there is one nurse who stands out. Omega Green, R.N., an assistant head nurse was honored when one of her surgical patients wrote a pleasing note about her.

A portion of the note stated, "In particular I would tell you of Ms. Omega Green, who truly exemplifies the very best of her profession. She possessed not only the exceptional qualities of skill, competence and dedication, but is one of the most genuinely caring human beings that has ever been my privilege to know...In her hands, nursing is more than an exemplary profession—it is a ministry."

Congratulations to Ms. Green -- one caring person.

George E. Hill, president, Chief Executive Officer, Winston Mutual Life Insurance Co., Winston-Salem, was elected President of the National Insurance Association (NIA) during the association's annual meeting in Atlanta, Ga., recently.

NIA, a trade association representing minority-owned insurance firms in 34 states, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands, is known as a strong economic force in Black communities. President Hill plans to enlarge this image.

"We need to foster a better working relationship with other black organizations and industry," he stated recently.

"Our member companies principally serve black consumers who are strongly affected by the economic climate and President Reagan's budget policies," Hill continued.

services for parents, offering an array of support services to child care providers, and serving as a conduit for child care subsidies.

Parker is a retired employee of Duke Power Company where he served as President and Chief Operating Officer from 1976-78.

Other appointments to the steering committee include Rev. George Battle, Charles J. Cooley, Ta Fisher, Cynthia Marshall, Jeffrey Miller, John A. Tate Jr., and Sandra Townsend. Patricia Lloyd is the Coordinator for the Council for Children. Call 372-7170 for more information.
