Blamed For Higher Costs

"Forcing hospital costs higher seems a peculiar way to achieve economic recovery," North Carolina Democratic Vice Chairman Betty Speir of Bethel said last week.

"We're getting reports from hospitals all over North Carolina that they are being forced to increase their prices for room and board, and other necessary hospital services because of the Medicaid cutbacks caused by President Reagan's budget last year," the Democrat continued.

"This means that people who are able to pay their hospital bill are forced to subsidize those who cannot. The hospitals have to get their money from somebody."

"So even if a middle class family, like so many in North Carolina, have hospital insurance to help with their bill, they still have a problem. If the hospital insurance company has to pay ever-increasing bills, they have no choice but to increase the insurance rates that must be paid."

Speir noted that "for David Stockman and the other advocates of supply side economics - also labeled the 'trickle down' theory - the answer seems to be that if the nation just sticks with Reaganomics, everything will eventually all right."

McRae-Wilson Vows Spoken

Maxie Catherine McRae and Charles Garvin Wilson were recently joined in holy matrimony during a double-ring ceremony. The wedding, which occurred at University Park Baptist Church, was performed by Dr. James E. Palmer.

Unemployment Termed "Bankruptcy"

Representative Al Adams of Raleigh, who heads the Democratic Party's Elephant Watch Task Force, last week pointed to continued high joblessness as a sign that Republican economic policies are "bankrupt."

"The figure in June remains at 9.5 percent, which means that ten and a half million people are out of work. This figure comes from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, part of President Reagan's own Labor Department. The same report shows that 1.5 million Americans are classified as discouraged workers, the ones who have quit looking. Put the figures together and you have 12 million people who want jobs but can't find them.

"Of course, President Reagan and some of his spokesmen, including Treasurer Secretary Regan, like to say that the reason people are out of work is they won't read all those want ads and go get one of those good jobs there."

"But speaking factually, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that one of the fields of major increase in joblessness is among adult males. These are the fathers who have been working hard for their families over a period of years. They don't fit the Republican description of professional welfare people."

Adams noticed that Democrats in Congress have introduced a bill that would provide summer jobs for 203,000 people who would work on such projects as highways, bridges and public buildings, rehabilitate rural land stricken by drought or flood, maintain streams and lakes, and install ramps for the handicapped. "But this bill is not yet passed, and President Reagan would probably veto it because it would cost $1 billion and because it comes from the Democratic House of Representatives."

Recently the Young women of Friendship Baptist Church, 3301 Beatties Ford Road, hosted its 1982 Debutants for Christ pageant. This year's them was "Debutants For Christ: Stepping Stones To Salvation."
