Harris Is Grooming Two Candidates To Replace Thomas

By Phil Busher
Special To The Post

There was a collective sigh of relief from CIAA coaches when QB John Henry Thomas and WR Nate McDowell received their degrees from Johnson C. Smith University. Their departure ends a two-year reign of terror upon conference defensive backs whose job it was to stop the CIAA's top passing attack. Will the Golden Bulls air force sputter to a halt?

"Not likely," responds Smith head coach Wylie Harris. "A good passing attack is still the toughest attack to defend against."

Harris has been grooming two candidates to replace Thomas. Senior Hubert Jewsome and sophomore Eddie Glaze didn't get much playing time last season, but each is familiar with the program and have demonstrated an ability to move the offense. Jewsome is a classic drop-back passer with an accurate arm. Glaze is an elusive scrambler who can throw on the run.

Although McDowell is gone, the Bulls are knee deep in quality receivers. Senior tight end Ed McNeely offers experience, size and a strong pair of hands. WR Kenneth White has height to go along with good hands. Speedster Vince Casey has experience. Newcomers capable of earning a starting spot include WRs Marc Strothers, Shelton Johnson and Leon Shipp. The backfield also accounted for 78 receptions, 4 TDs and 654 yards through the air.

"The running game hurt us some last year," admitted

Harris. "We'll be working to improve our effectiveness in this area, but not at the expense of the passing attack."

Darryl Westey, hampered by a series of 1982 injuries, still broke into the 1,000 yard rushing club as a sophomore averaging 4.3 yards per attempt. Additional speed will be provided by newcomer Jeff Easterling who runs the 40 in 4.4 seconds. RBs Tim Newsome, Alvin Glenn, Mike Hoyles and Wilbur Mapp also return adding the key to 1983 success. Starting guard Willie Hughes, tackles Kelvin Davis and Robert Wright and TE Ed McNeely return. Davis may be switched to the defensive line, especially if recruits Kelvin White and Greg Warren develop quickly.

White (6'4", 280) earned N.C. honors while Warren played for South Carolina in the North-South Shrine Bowl. Hughes and McNeely are the only seniors as youth will be a factor in how fast the line improves. The talent available appears deeper and greater than in the past few years.

Still, the Smith offense in 1982 was built on mirrors. Although the Bulls led in passing, they ranked only fifth in scoring and sixth in total offense in the CIAA. Only 150 points were scored in 1982, 18 of those by the defense. Time of possession favored opponents. The Bulls defense allowed only 126 points. If the offense generates a running game and greater time of possession, the chances of a CIAA Southern Division title improve with a rested defense the caliber of JSCU's.

Griertown Open Golf Tournament Tees Off Saturday Morning

By Bill Johnson
Post Editor-Publisher

A strong field made up of the best amateur golfers in the area, including last year's winner Haywood Stevenson and the 1981 winner Donald Littlejohn, will tee up Saturday morning for the annual Greater Griertown Open Golf Tournament at Crystal Springs.

Littlejohn, who captured the title in 1977, 1980 and 1981 and finished second last year, is the ranking favorite in the championship division. He likely will be closely chased by Haywood Stevenson, who is at the top of his game, at the moment. Stevenson edged Littlejohn by a stroke, 144-143, a year ago.

"We expect to have one of the strongest fields ever," tournament chairman John Love said. He believes the addition of several white players will definitely add considerably more strength in the highly-competitive championship flight.

Love lists Rick Power, Larry Tucker, Steven Naso and Tab Hunter, along with James Boulter, Harry Gray, Phil Neely as the players who more than likely will provide Littlejohn and Stevenson with serious competition for the title.

The tournament, a two-day event with 36 holes of medal play, will have five flights. The results of Saturday's play will determine the flights. Love said trophies and awards will be given to the top three winners in each flight.

Entry fee is $45 per person. According to Love, registration will be held Friday night (from 8-11) at the Days Inn and Lodge, 122 West Woodlawn Road and I-77. Love said you can also register by sending a check or money order to his home at 929 Plumstead Road, Charlotte, N.C. 28216.

The entry fee includes green fees, closest to the pin contest and the special gathering. The social gathering will be held Saturday night, from 8-1 a.m., at the Par Busters Golf Group Clubhouse at 1901 Freedom Drive.

Love expects more than 100 players to compete in the meet that has become one of the most popular golf tournaments in the South. "We will have players from as far away as Baltimore, Md.; Atlanta, Ga.; Columbia, Chester, Lancaster in S.C.; Gastonia, Asheville, Winston-Salem, High Point in N.C.; and Danville, Va.

The tournament chairman rates Raymond Mason, William Gill, Bobby Ellis and George Moore as serious threats in the second flight, with Angus Jenkins, Leroy Roseboro, Carl Bailey, Reggie Sellars and Alvin Reed as the top players in the first flight.

For A&T Coach Mo Forte

No Summer Fun And Games

By Drexel Ball

Greensboro, NC - Like a kid with a new toy for Christmas, Mo Forte is eager to start his second season as head football coach at North Carolina A&T.

Forte will greet 85 players to launch the 1983 season. Freshmen reported on August 10 and upperclassmen on August 12. Two-day practice sessions started August 15.

To say Forte is optimistic about his team's potential of reversing last year's 2-8 record is an understatement.

"I feel optimistic about the upcoming season," Forte said while sitting behind his desk and looking at a preliminary depth chart. "We have a lot of talent coming back and we feel very good about our recruiting effort."

Forte is obviously excited about the potential of his first recruiting class. A premium was placed on linemen and the coach is almost grooving over his harvest.

"We believe many of our recruits will make a contribution," Forte said. "We are very pleased with our effort. We got most of the players we went after."

Brian Vick and Ken Canion are typical of the players Forte and his staff went after. Vick stands 6'5" and weighs 260 pounds. A product of North Hampton of Garysburg, N.C., Vick will be seeking a starting berth on the defensive unit.

Canion, who hails from Atlanta's Therrell High, looms a likely starter on the offensive line. Where he will play is now an uncertainty, but he's a quality player who was heavily recruited by a number of major colleges. Canion is listed at 6'3" and 240 pounds.

Greensboro native Russell Goode of Smith is another recruit with potential. Goode (6'2", 220) was a standout tackle for the Eagles last season and could fill a gap on the defensive unit.

The success of the staff's recruiting effort is also reflected by the fact that no fewer than five incoming freshmen participated in all-star games. Among products from North Carolina, nose guard Ernest Riddick of Edenton, Tim Medley of Fayetteville and tackle

James Umstead of Rocky Mount were selected in the East-West Classic. Linebacker Jeff Franklin of Melbourne participated in the Florida Classic and running back Chris Harris of Washington was tabbed for the D.C. Coaches All-Star game.

Forte's optimism is tempered by the fact that his defensive line has to be rebuilt. Gone from the unit are stalwarts Leon Byrd and Cullen Cook, but his worry is slightly eased by the return of an experienced linebacker corps and a seasoned secondary.

The Aggies open the season on September 10, playing arch-rival Winston-Salem State at Wake Forest's Groves Stadium at 7 p.m.

George Pappas Bowls To Benefit Children

Once again, local professional bowler, George Pappas, will give his time to benefit children with lung disease. On Saturday, August 27, from 12-8 p.m. at George Pappas' Park Lanes, individuals can challenge the champion of many professional tournaments or take on the WBT personalities - all to benefit the American Lung Association of North Carolina, Metrolina Region.

Anyone can participate by picking up a brochure and sponsor sheet at local Hardee's Restaurants or your bowling establishment. Prizes will be awarded for raising the most money for the Lung Association including a color TV, weekend for two at Wrightsville Beach and much more. An on-the-air drawing will be held on Monday, October 3, for all those who collect 100 percent of their sponsorship money for a USAir trip to historic Boston. Juniors under 15 will have a chance at an Intellivision. Trophies will be awarded and drawings for bowling ball, bags and shoes will be held hourly. There will be a variety of other special contests.

Lung disease strike people from all walks of life, young and old. Many of those afflicted cannot take 25 normal steps without feeling exhausted. For more information on how you can help "Strike Out" lung disease, call your local American Lung Association, 537-5776.
