Staff Sergeant Tol L. Bishop of Stanley, NC completed the Advanced Noncommissioned Officers Course conducted by the Office of the Adjutant General and the 3280th US Army Reserve School at the North Carolina Military Academy, Fort Bragg, N.C. The course consisted of five weekends of training in many areas, such as Personnel Management, Radio-Telephone Procedures, Land Navigation, Training to Lead and Issuing Platoon Orders. SSG Bishop is a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 1st Battalion, 113th Field Artillery, North Carolina Army National Guard, Charlotte. SSG Bishop is employed by Park Manufacturing Company of Charlotte.

Check-Up On Your Vision

Special To The Post "People have a tendency to be crisis-oriented in health matters - for example, to go to an eye doctor only when they have symptoms, such as eye pain or persistent blurry vision, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness," says Marion Johnson, Executive Director of the Society's North Carolina Affiliate. "Unfortunately, several leading causes of blindness - glaucoma and diabetic eye disease - can get a firm foothold because people put off getting regular eye checkups. "Not only can that part of sight already lost to these diseases never be restored, but effective treatment is strongly linked to dealing with the problems in their early stages," says Miss Johnson.

To call attention to the gift that needs guarding - good eyesight - the Society is introducing a new theme to generate public awareness. "Save the sunsets" is the Society's way of telling Americans to take steps to save sight for a lifetime. The new theme messages, launched during September, National Sight-Saving Month, caution that for half of the 50,000 people who are projected to lose their vision this year, it need not happen. According to the Society, half of all blindness can be prevented.

As a first step toward taking away the guesswork about eye health, the Society urges all adults to check their vision with its new Home Eye Test for Adults.
