

Youth Club Entertains Senior Citizens

Thirty senior citizen residents of the Hall House were entertained recently during a festive affair sponsored by the Charlotte Youth Club of the National Association of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Ronette Wallace, Youth Club member, presided over the program participated in by senior citizens and club members. Warmth, love and patience was apparent as the 21 young ladies of the Youth Club presented owl-shaped memo pads to each Hall House resident. The young ladies worked diligently and enthusiastically handmaking the memo pads for special gifts backed with love.

"There are a lot of young people who care," Geraldine Powe, second vice president of the Charlotte Club stated. Ms. Powe also advises the Charlotte Youth Club along with Victoria Cleaves and Clara Mitchell. Donnell Stroud is president of the Charlotte Youth Club.

Senior citizens who participated in the festive affair included Mrs. Ruby

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Edgerton (l) and Walker, member of The Charlotte Youth Club presents gift. Ivory Davis (r) delight as Shannon

Wilkinson, who read the scripture. The Invocation was given by Mrs. Emma Tanner and a solo was rendered by Mrs. Sadie Neluns.

Youth participants included Michelle Jones, Robin Maxwell and Yolanda Warren, who gave piano selections. Poems were read by Margaret Cleaves and Tonya Waldon. A dance-jazz creation was presented by Inger Anderson and Elizabeth Richmond and a timely skit was performed by all the members of the Youth Club.

The Charlotte Youth Club of NABPWC was founded in April, 1983. This affair was the second one in association with senior citizens.

"Diamonds Are Forever" Is WSOC-TV Movie

Sean Connery stars as James Bond who must deal with a mysterious billionaire whose international influence is felt but never seen, a fortune in diamonds hidden in a coffin, the threat of nuclear subs and nuclear missiles, and a laser beam designed to conquer the world, in "Diamonds Are Forever," airing as "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," January 22, at 9 p.m. on WSOC-TV, Channel 9.

As is only natural for the super-suave super-agent, Bond's accomplice in crisis is the gemlike Tiffany Case, played by the lovely and talented Jill St. John. The perennially preposterous Ernest Stavros Blofeld (Charles Gray), a long-standing object of Bond's righteous wrath, is down to his old tricks as he plots the domination of the entire world and environs.

Lana Wood (as Plenty O'Toole), Jimmy Dean (as the elusive billionaire) and Bruce Cabot (in his last film appearance) are also involved in Blofeld's plan to declare open season on all the world's governments.

After Bond smuggles a diamond-filled coffin into the United States for delivery to a Los Vegas crematorium, he is accosted by two thugs who attempt to feed him in an incinerator. Angered and confused, the out-tricked trickster calls upon his arsenal of wit and weapons to regain his cool, and proceeds to a space research corporation in search of the diamonds that are forever eluding him. What he finds is the arch-villain Blofeld, who needs the diamonds for his ambitious plan to use a space satellite to aim a laser beam at all the capitals of the world.

These alternatives are not acceptable to world leaders. Bond's new assignment (and he has no choice but to accept): make Blofeld stop.

"Diamonds Are Forever" airs Sunday, January 22, at 9 p.m. on WSOC-TV, Channel 9.
