Churches Lining Up for Post's "Churchwoman Of Year" Contest

By Loretta Manago
Post Staff Writer
There are only two weeks remaining before The Charlotte Post kicks-off its third annual "Churchwoman of the Year" contest. Program coordinator,

Anita Robinson and assistant coordinator, Michele Dorsey are working at a hare's pace to contact the area's churches to ensure that not one interested church is omitted from the exciting campaign.

The contest begins May 27 and will conclude on July 8. The first official reporting date has been set for June 4.

On Saturday, May 12, the churches that have definitely committed themselves to the contest, will send a representative to McDonald's Cafeteria, where the rules and regulations of the contest will be discussed.

Because of the nearness of the date, churches are encouraged to contact The Post of their intentions to participate in this year's heated race. Editor and publisher, Bill Johnson promises that the contest will be full of prizes and incentives for the contestants and their committee members to win during the six-week campaign.

Those churches and pastors who have thrown their hats in the ring include: East Stonewall A.M.E. Zion Church, Rev. Bernard Sullivan is the pastor. Ebenezer Baptist Church, Rev. A.B. Sutton is the
