

Committee To Discuss Beatties Ford Road's Future

Thirteen residents or business people in the area of Beatties Ford Rd. make up the Study Group which is now in the process of planning for the future of Beatties Ford Rd. and the areas around it.

Jack Daniels of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Planning Commission, stated that the Study Group has been meeting every other week since January. "It usually takes about six months to complete the plans. This week we will talk about the Market Analysis involving the businesses on Beatties Ford Rd. We will deal with suggestions to improve the Beatties Ford quarter and discuss the streetscape plan to beautify the area."

The meeting will be held at University Park Baptist Church, 2348 Keller Ave., 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 31. The public is cordially invited to these meetings to listen and learn what is being planned for their area. Sometime in June, according to Daniels, there will be an open hearing. Residents and local merchants can then express their opinions.

"About 10 other small area plans have been submitted to the Planning Commission and the City Council. Each has been approved with very little changes," stated Daniels.

The planning study of the Beatties Ford Rd. area should be completed by July, Daniels concluded.
