Diggs is the pastor of Mayfield Missionary Baptist Church. He is currently serving on the executive board of the General Baptist State Convention of North Carolina and the Community Relations Committee of Charlotte. Scholarship

A new scholarship for studying criminal justice is available to students at Central Piedmont Community College for the 1984-85 academic year.

The $200 scholarship is possible because of a $10,000 donation from the North Carolina Sheriffs' Association to the N.C. Department of Community Colleges. The scholarship is for students enrolled in criminal justice, juvenile justice, correction science or police science programs.

To qualify for the scholarship, students must be residents of North Carolina and must maintain a passing grade average. First priority will be given to the son or daughter of any deceased law enforcement officer, according to the criteria set up by the Sheriffs' Association.

For information about the scholarship, call Audrey Hardy at CPCC, 373-6884.
