

UN-CH Recruiting High School Sophomores And Juniors

High school sophomores and juniors are now being recruited to attend Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics, a group of residential institutes being held on five university campuses in North Carolina.

Offered by the University of N.C. and administered by the N.C. School of Science and Mathematics (NCSSM), Summer Ventures consists of five-week programs for students with talent or special interests in science and mathematics. The institutes will be held June 23 through July 26 at Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, East Carolina University in Greenville and N.C. Central University in Durham; July 7 through August 9 at Appalachian State University in Boone; and July 7 through August 11 at the University of N.C. at Charlotte.

Students may attend Summer Ventures only one year. They will live in dormitories under the supervision of a residential staff, which will also be responsible for recreation and co-curricular activities. No tuition will be charged and room and board will be provided without fee.

Students, parents or teachers who want more information about the program can reach Dr. Martha Jenner, Summer Ventures state coordinator at 919-683-6164.

If a high school student is interested in forestry there are slots for 125 to learn more by spending a week at the North Carolina Forest Resources Camp.

The camp is intended for students who may wish to follow a career in forestry, those who may help manage family-owned woodlands and other students with an interest in forestry, stated Thomas S. Rhyne, acting director of Division of Forest Resources, Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.

Cost to campers is $15 plus spending money and transportation to and from the Penn 4-H Center. Any high school student from age 15-18 at the time of the camp may apply. Applications and information about the camp are available from high school vocational agriculture instructors or local county forest rangers.

Applications must be received by the Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh by May 6, 1985.

A tour of Raleigh, N.C., will be sponsored by the McCrorey Branch YMCA on Friday, April 15. There are limited seats and all ages may attend. Bring your own bagged lunch and money for fast food dinners. The cost is $15 per person and the bus departs at 7 a.m. from the McCrorey Branch YMCA located at 3801 Beatties Ford Road (call 394-2356 for more information).

The Beatties Ford Rd.

and West Trade St. Merchants Association will meet at McDonald's Cafeteria (I-85) March 25 at 7 p.m.

For further information, call Nasif Majeed at 399-0345 or Eleanor J. Washington at 399-1672.

Free income tax preparation services will be provided for low-income persons by the National Association of Black Accountants (NABA). Bring W2 Forms to the Student Union Building of Johnson

C. Smith University from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. every Saturday until April 6.

Charlotte Uptown is fast becoming a "little New York." Take, for instance, the February 25 Charlotte City Council street vendor ordinance and regulations for the Tryon Street Mall.

The ordinance will permit the sale of certain foods, flowers, balloons and certain other merchandise from pushcarts located at specific sites along the 11-block Mall.
