

Livingstone Professor Completes Summer Research

Special To The Post
 Dr. You-Wan Hung, associate professor of chemistry at Livingstone College, has spent the summer of 1986 conducting research in yttrium-90 labeling on DTPA-coupled antibodies at Oak Ridge Associated Universities in Oak Ridge, Tn. Her research was supported by the Faculty Research Participation program of the U.S. Department of Energy.

Gifted And Black
 "To Be Young Gifted and Black" (A Portrait of Lorraine Hansberry in Her Own Words), will be presented by the Communication Arts Department of Johnson C. Smith University as its fall production on October 9-12, 8 p.m., in Biddle Auditorium.

Boldly contemporary in form, this play is the story of Lorraine Hansberry. Its content was woven together by her husband, Robert Nemiroff, from letters, notebooks, and portions of her plays including "Rain in the Sun" and "The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window."
 This is a free flowing but chronological play with not one single member of the company playing Miss Hansberry, rather all in turn portray her, her characters and the people who most affected her. The cast is comprised of nine students from various majors within the university.
 Tickets may be purchased through the Communications Arts Department or at the door. Prices are $1.50 for students and $3 for all others.

For further information, contact Charlotte D'Armond, 378-1177.

explained that DOE's faculty programs provide a vital source of strength to the nation's schools. "How better could we educate university faculty in ongoing research and development than to put them in the laboratories where it's happening?" The faculty members who return to the classroom then pass on to both students and fellow faculty members information from the cutting edge of science, influencing the direction of university research.

Faculty members can apply for three types of energy-related Faculty Research Participations. In addition to summer research appointments, sabbatical leave appointments of up to nine months can be made. Faculty members can also participate on a part-time basis, up to two days per week, during the academic year at certain facilities. Last year, a program for faculty members from historically black colleges and universities, supported by DOE's Office of Health, and Environmental Research, was added. Participants chosen for these programs receive a stipend that is based on, but does not exceed, their university salary.

The application deadline for next year's appointments is January 20, 1986. Applications can be obtained from the University Programs Division, Faculty Research Participation, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, P. O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, Tn. 37831-0117.

Oak Ridge Associated is a private, not-for-profit association of 49 colleges and universities. It is a contractor of the U.S. Department of Energy, conducting research and educational programs in the areas of energy, health, and the environment for the Department, ORAU's member institutions, other colleges and universities, and other private and governmental organizations.

Southwest Regional

The Southwest Regional of Las Amigas was held recently at Ramada Inn, East Independence Blvd.

Hosted by the Charlotte chapter of Las Amigas, the meeting was conducted by regional director and Gastonia chapter president, Annette Cowan.

Dora Johnson was the luncheon speaker.

Following discussion of club business, the regional meeting conducted four workshop: planning a successful year, parliamentary procedures, community service projects, and bookkeeping.

The southwest region consists of six chapters - Charlotte-Mecklenburg, Gastonia, Kannapolis, Greenville, S.C., Mooresville, and Salisbury.

Durante To Compete For Title

Ernestine Durante, a teacher assistant in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System, is one of four contestants who are competing to be crowned Omega Psi Phi Mardi Gras Queen for 1985-86.

Asked to participate in the contest by Archie Haywood at the Omega Fraternity House, Durante says the young woman who raises the most money by November, when Mardi Gras is held, will be made the Queen.

A graduate of West Charlotte High School, Durante moved to Durham, N.C., where she attended North Carolina Central University and graduated from Durham Business College. She has worked as a secretary at Duke University and with the IBM Research Triangle Park in Durham.

Her hobbies include bird watching, which she took up in Little Rock, Ar., where she lived for awhile, boat riding, reading black-oriented magazines, and traveling. Durante has visited such places as New Orleans, to see the Ali vs. Spinx fight, and to California. She admits to be a lover of the Western states.

Now that she lives and works in Charlotte, Durante attends Mt. Sinai Baptist Church. She is the mother of one daughter DaWanna DeLynn.

Johnson C. Smith University recently received a grant for $39,000 from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. The grant will allow JCSU to participate in the Integrated Systems Approach to Improving Management (ISATIM) under the auspices of the United Negro College Fund (UNCF).

The 18-month grant was made available to JCSU in accordance with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation's commitment to UNCF to continue funding the ISATIM program for the purpose of improving the governing and management of its 42-member private colleges and universities.

Dr. Robert L. Albright, President of Johnson C. Smith University said, "I am delighted that JCSU was one of a few, select institutions to receive a second phase of ISATIM funding which was clearly based on JCSU's performance and achievements. We anticipate even more significant achievements with our new funds - and we thank the Kellogg Foundation and UNCF for their continued support and confidence."

Funds from the grant will be used for technical assistance in fiscal affairs; and for extraordinary needs in data processing, long range planning and development.

Mountain Retreat

A mountain retreat to study natural science is planned for students, parents and teachers Monday through Friday, October 14-18, at Wildcres near Little Switzerland.

Some spaces remain for interested persons to participate in this event which is sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Charlotte's Office of Continuing Education and the Math and Science Education Center in cooperation with Iredell County Schools.

Twelve UNCC faculty members and experts from the community will provide the program.

Subjects to be covered include geology, plant and animal life, and astronomy. Participants will learn to collect, record, explore and keep a journal.

Cost for four nights' lodging is $75. For further information, contact Ken Burrows at UNCC, 597-4446, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
