Dr. Dorothy C. Yancey, who received an A.B. degree in history at Smith in 1964, became the first black woman to receive Georgia Tech's Outstanding Teacher Award this year.

"Not only was I the first black woman to receive such an award, but I was the first black person. I was speechless, and usually I'm a talker," she remarked.

Dr. Yancey received $1,000 and a plaque at a luncheon, which was followed by a reception sponsored by her students and colleagues.

"It was quite exciting to receive an award for something I like to do," she said. "Teaching to me is a lot of fun.

"It felt good that my colleagues and friends chose me," she added. "I accepted it on behalf of my former professors and students. If I'm a good teacher, it's because of them, for they made me the teacher that I am."

Dr. Yancey was featured in the "People" section of the August issue of Jet magazine. "I was very excited about being in the magazine, and I received a lot of nice notes and letters from all over the country," she said.

Dr. Yancey received an

M.A. degree in history from the University of Massachusetts and a Ph.D. in political science from Atlanta University. She is an associate professor and associate director of Georgia Tech's School of Social Sciences.

Harold Winston Heads Charlotte Alumni Chapter

By Walter Hill
Special To The Post

Harold B. Winston, president of the Charlotte alumni chapter, is a 1959 graduate with a major in psychology and a double minor in economics and sociology.

He is assistant training coordinator for the Pre-release and After-care Program in the Adult Probation and Parole Division of the North Carolina Department of Corrections.

The pre-release program puts an inmate through four weeks of training. "Our primary goal is to get the offenders paroled and to keep him from returning to the penal system," Winston explained.

Following graduation, Winston moved to New York City, where he worked for the city Welfare Department for six years. He started as a counselor in the children's center and later served as social investigator and supervisor.

Winston returned to Charlotte in 1966 to become director of both financial aid and career planning and placement for JCSU. He relinquished the financial aid post in 1970, but remained placement director until 1978.

"Our sphere of influence extended far beyond our campus during those years," he noted. "I was chairman of the Career Planning and Placement Consortium that included all predominantly black colleges in North and South Carolina. These associations allowed us to have placement reciprocity with every predominantly black college in the country."

Winston was president of the New York alumni chapter from 1964 to 1966. He is active in the JCSU 100 Club. As president of the Charlotte alumni chapter, he said, "It is my goal to continue the good work that this chapter previously started."
