

Public Library Plans Children's Book Week Activities

Celebrate Children's Book Week this week by joining in the activities planned for the Public Library of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County.

The national theme for the week is "Good Books, Good Times." The countrywide celebration is part of a national and statewide observation which emphasizes the importance of children's reading.

Children have been invited to participate in designing a bookmark to be used in Charlotte-Mecklenburg during National Library Week, April 14-20, 1986. Keeping with the theme, children, grades K-6 will draw a picture representing a favorite book, one that showed them the good times to be found in books. Entries will be turned in to their branch library or to the children's room, Main Library starting November 7, 1985. Pictures will be displayed in the branches from November 11-17. The library will accept entries through November 14 for the bookmark judging. First, second, and third place buttons for grades K-2 and for grades 3-6 in each branch will be awarded. The two first place winners at each branch will also receive a children's book poster. Winners will be selected by Saturday, November 16. One winning picture will be selected from the first place winners to be made into a bookmark.

Main Library is planning a special celebration during the week. Jean Johnson, a local Charlotte author and photographer, will present her Community Helpers Series book, "Fire Fighters A to Z," on Wednesday, November 13, at 3:30 in the Main Children's Room. Mrs. Johnson will read her book, which is aimed at pre-schoolers to second graders, and will tell of her adventures while writing it. The book uses an alphabet format, large photos of Charlotte firefighters, and simple text to look at the men and women who serve their community as firefighters. Following the picture-book selection is an illustrated narrative which provides material dealing with responsibility about fire. Mrs. Johnson is currently writing a book on postal workers.

The week concludes with storytellers from the Public Library telling folktales, especially from the North Carolina mountains.

AOA Cites Dr. Paula Newsome As Success Story

Dr. Paula R. Newsome of 1028 W. Fifth Street, a local optometrist and the only black female optometrist in the state of North Carolina, was chosen by the Urban Optometric Committee of the American Optometric Association to share her success story with new optometric graduates and optometry students at the Hyatt Regency on Capitol Hill on Sunday, October 27, 1985.

Dr. Newsome told of her decision to make Charlotte her home and the intricacies of establishing a new private practice in a city that is dominated by male optometrists and where she had few ties before moving here.

Dr. Newsome was an assistant professor at the University of Missouri St. Louis School of Optometry and a staff consultant at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in St. Louis prior to making Charlotte her home.

The October 27 speaking engagement concluded a two-month week-end speaking tour for Dr. Newsome.

American Education Week will be observed November 17-23 and has adopted as its theme, "America's Public School: The Subject Is Excellence." According to District 6 director, Hlawatha Foster, the emphasis this year has been placed on informing the public school about the lesser known facts concerning the school system. "Education is big business," explains Foster. "Taxpayers deserve to know where their money is being spent. We want the public to be well informed stockholders." One such fact is that there are 334 school buses that travel a total of 7,655,000 miles during the school year and transport 45,500 students.

God said, "Am I a God at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God afar off? Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? Saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth?" Saith the Lord.
Jeremiah 23:23 & 24
