Police Extends Deadline For Award Nominations

The deadline for nominations for the seventh annual Police Community Relations Awards has been extended to Monday, March 31, 1986.

The awards, sponsored by the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Community Relations Committee, recognizes patrol officers from the Charlotte and Mecklenburg County Police Departments who have made outstanding contributions toward improving police community relations in their assigned patrol areas.

Nominations may be made by fellow officers, superior officers, citizens in the patrol area, by organizations or individuals. To nominate an officer call the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Community Relations Committee at 336-2424 or write them at 623 East Trade Street, Suite 410, Charlotte, N.C. 28202.

After a review by members of the Community Relations Committee and personnel from the Charlotte and Mecklenburg County Police Departments, five officers will be selected. These officers will be honored in ceremonies to be held in May during National Police Week.

UNCC Celebrates "Biotechnology Week"

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte will celebrate "Biotechnology Week" February 24-28 in conjunction with a meeting of the Carolinas-Piedmont Chapter of the American Chemical Society.

Supported by a $2,500 grant from the North Carolina Biotechnology Center and Research Triangle Foundation, the week-long celebration will feature leading scientists discussing their work in biotechnology.

Several faculty members from the Departments of Chemistry, Biology, and Civil Engineering at UNCC are involved in biotechnology research.

Biotechnology has been defined as the "careful use of living organisms to make products benefiting society." North Carolina was the first state to establish a biotechnology center, and since its founding in 1981 it has become internationally respected for its research and development.

The featured speaker is Dr. Lee Miller, the senior official in charge of the animal science program with Monsanto Agricultural Co. in St. Louis, Mo. His lecture, free to the public in the Spaugh Rooms of Cone Center at 7:30 p.m.

Seminars are scheduled in the Chemistry Department at 2 p.m. February 27-28 which are open to the public free of charge.

For more information about Biotechnology Week at UNCC, contact program coordinator Dr. James Oliver in the Biology Department at 597-4049.
