Kennedy's Children Opens At AACC

"Kennedy's Children," an adult-oriented drama, written by Robert Patrick and directed by Margaret Freeman, opens at the Afro-American Cultural Center Theatre, on Thursday, July 24.

There will be performances each night at 8:15 on July 24-26, with a 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday, July 27.

This psychological drama, set in 1974, is not recommended for anyone under 18 years of age. "Kennedy's Children" is a two-act play exposing the lives of five individuals who come of age in the early sixties otherwise known as the Kennedy era.

The cast of characters includes a black male Vietnam veteran, a white male homosexual, a white female hippy, a white female with a Marilyn Monroe complex and a black female obsessed with the late president John F. Kennedy.

The play, with its poignant presentations offered by these characters, allows an interesting, though disturbing look at the lives of these diverse individuals as they have lived through this turbulent period in America's history.

Local actors Jacquie Levister, Keith Roberts and Angela Simpson all appear in "Kennedy's Children."

Tickets are $8 for the general audience, $6 for students and senior citizens. They may be purchased at the Afro-American Cultural Center, 401 N. Myers St., or the Undercover Book Source, 115 East Blvd. For reservations and information, call 332-3044 or 374-1565.
