

S.S. EMERALD SEAS - Mary J. Hollins of Charlotte, NC, with Mary Starkley and daughter Kim recently enjoyed a cruise aboard Eastern Cruise Lines' S.S. Emerald Seas. Sailing from the Port of Miami, the Emerald Seas' SUPERCRUISE visited the Bahamas and its own private out island, Little Stirrup Cay. As one of the main features of SUPERCRUISE, the out island offers not just a beach, but an island with four beaches: a beach for snorkeling, a beach for swimming, a beach for sailing and a special beach to be alone. Passengers also enjoyed a barbecue buffet, three outpost bars, a Calypso Band and a host of family activities. Aboard the ship, passengers find the largest staterooms afloat, a variety of entertainment and non-stop food. Featuring an American cuisine, the Emerald Seas has its own master chef who oversees all meal preparations and the bountiful midnight buffets. Entertainment includes live nightly shows and bands and a full casino complete with craps, blackjack, roulette and slots. SUPERCRUISE sails every Friday at 7 p.m. to Nassau and Little Stirrup Cay and Monday at 3:45 p.m. to Nassau, Freeport and Little Stirrup Cay from the Port of Miami.

RJR Nabisco, Center For Creative Leadership

Sponsor Scholarships For Community Volunteers

Winston-Salem - RJR Nabisco, Inc. and the Center for Creative Leadership will jointly sponsor 10 scholarships for North Carolina volunteer community leaders in programs designed to improve leadership skills and working relationships.

Recipients for the RJR Nabisco Scholarships for Community Leadership will be those who give their time and talents to school boards, town councils, county commissions, or other organizations that affect the quality of community life.

A selection preference will be given to women and minorities or to those working with minorities or minority programs. Applications for 1986 programs are now being accepted.

Two scholarships will be awarded in each of North Carolina's five major geographic regions, one scholarship per region for the Leadership Development Program and the other for the program

Working With Others: A Management Process.

Both programs are offered at the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro. The participant or sponsoring organization will be asked to pay 10 percent of program related expenses, approximately $33 for the Leadership Development Program and $120 for Working With Others.

The Leadership Development Program is a week-long workshop designed to help individuals to identify, practice, and improve their leadership skills. Participants learn by experiencing first-hand the demands and challenges of leadership. Through an assessment and constructive feedback, they become more aware of their abilities and areas that need improvement.

Working With Others is a three-day workshop for supervisors, managers, or team leaders who want to build productive working relationships. The workshop addresses three critical areas of supervision: getting peak performance from workers, leading work groups, and handling interpersonal relationships.

The Center for Creative Leadership is a nonprofit educational institution founded in 1970 in Greensboro. Its mission is to encourage and develop creative leadership and effective management for the good of society overall.

RJR Nabisco, an international consumer products corporation with headquarters in Winston-Salem, is the parent company of Nabisco Brands, Inc.

For more information or to obtain application forms, contact Katie McLeod at the Center for Creative Leadership.
