Golden Bulls Basketball Team: A Feast Ready To Be Served

By James Cuthbertson
Post Sports Writer

You begin this feast by beating a piece of prime sirloin to get it ready for cooking.

Heat the Brayboy oven to 100 degrees. Start slowly.

Place the prime sirloin inside the oven.

Place Vinnie Brown, a junior guard from Winston-Salem, North Carolina, who averaged 15.3 points per game while hitting 96 of 114 free throws for the fifth best percentage among Division II athletes in the United States and hit 30 of 48 three pointers for 63 percent, a CIAA top figure, in the Brayboy Bowl.

Add 6-4 senior Dante Johnson, a forward from Summerton, South Carolina, who averaged 18.3 points per game and shot 59.5 percent of his field goals and pulled down 9.4 rebounds per game last year.

Mix in Jeff Ervin from Lenoir, North Carolina, who averaged 10 points per game last year and shot 56.1 from the floor and 66 percent from the line.

Stir in Keith Greene who won the CIAA slam dunk contest two years ago and who can jump out of the Brayboy oven if he is not based down. He is a 6-4 forward from Goldsboro, North Carolina.

Simmer Reggie Moses, 6-3, 170 senior guard from Charlotte, North Carolina, who was All-Everything in high school and averaged 8.3 per game while shooting 50 percent from the field and 67 percent from the line and add to the mixture.

Put in 6-3, 185-pound junior guard from Philadelphia, Rodney Richardson, as the tenderizer. He averaged nine points per game last year while shooting 82 percent from the free throw shooting line.

Add him slowly to the mixture. You can smell the aroma now. Rome! Paris! The crowds are beginning to arrive, because the feast is being carefully prepared for 3,200 spectators.

Give the mixture a little of 6-6 Kevin Hinton, junior forward from Durham, North Carolina, who was the team's best defensive player two years ago, and Ricky McCormick, 5-10 senior guard from Fairmont, North Carolina, who shot 74 percent from the line last year for good measure.

Cook the mixture on the Brayboy burner at the high temperature. It gets hot in the kitchen in January, folks. The steak is in the oven being

Haunted Forest

The Mecklenburg County Park and Recreation Department will sponsor a Haunted Forest at McAlpine Greenway Park, 5711 Monroe Rd., Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, October 29-31, 7:30-10:30 p.m. each evening.

Visitors will follow a half-mile trail through the park and stop at scare stations for a fright.

Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 years and under. For more information, contact Brian Cost, 336-3854.

The Mecklenburg County Park and Recreation Department will sponsor a Halloween Festival for children ages six through 12 at Huntersville Community Center, located on Holbrooks Rd. in Huntersville, Friday, October 31.

cooked at 425 degrees.

Remove from the heat and set aside when done.

This will be the sauce for the prime sirloin that we have cooking in the oven.

On the large Golden Bull stove heat water over high heat until boiling.

Drop in 6-8 senior center Anthony Anderson from New Bern, North Carolina, who has evolved into the team's inspiration. Throw in Martin Cox, 6-7 junior forward transfer from Roosevelt, New York; John Dennis, 5-10 junior guard from Baltimore, Maryland, who once scored 33 points in a Baltimore city game; and Christopher Jones, 6-8, 255-pound junior from Boston, Massachusetts, who was hurt much of last season.

Put in a touch of 6-7, 206-pound freshman guard John King from

Winston-Salem, North Carolina, who was MVP of his East Forsyth team, and Lenny Langley, 5-10 freshman guard from Greenville, North Carolina, who was an MVP at the city's sweet smelling Rose High School with a high game of 26 points, 10 assists, and 10 steals against Wilson Beddingfield in the Big East Conference.

Spread Al Lunsford, 6-9, 240 freshman center from Rockingham, and Roxboro, a man with enough talent to be from two cities, lightly over the mixture.

Throw in 6-3, 193 sophomore forward Jerome McCoy from Miami, Florida, and homeboy, 6-1, 171 sophomore guard Wayne Moulton, in for seasoning.

Sprinkly 6-4, 175-pound freshman forward John Sanders from Washington, D.C., in for good measure.

Add cheese for the smiles that will be coming from the Brayboy faithful when the Golden Bulls win the Southern Division Championship.

Makes about 1,150 servings; enough for the entire student body to enjoy.

Now you have a prime sirloin dinner with a hearty sauce and a cheese mixture ready for a feast.

Place coaches Bob Moore, Ike Fullard, and Clarence Johnson on hold in containers of aged wine and you have prime sirloin of Golden Bull with a hearty sauce and cheese mixture ready to serve at Slug's and ready to deliver to the CIAA Tournament. But the opponents can forget it. You have to be a Bull to enjoy this feast. And in Brayboy, Ain't Nothing Going Down But The Opposition!

This Weekend Could Set Stage

Special To The Post

Hampton, VA - There are three weeks left in the 1986 regular season and both divisional races are up for grabs. This weekend could either set the stage early for the championship game or it could send the race into the final two weeks. The way this season has been full of surprises, I must warn all predictors to be careful on this week's point spreads.

It looks like Virginia Union is in the driver's seat in the North, with the only unblemished record in the conference. Knocking on their door are the Trojans of Virginia St. Winston-Salem State is on the verge of clinching their fourth consecutive divisional title in the South with a 5-0 mark. Breathing down their throats are the Golden Bulls of J.C. Smith and the Eagles of N.C. Central. The bottom line about this weekend's headlines is everyone can hang their title hopes up until next year if Virginia Union and Winston-Salem win their respective games.

The big obstacle that stands between Union and the Northern Division title is their archrival, Virginia State. This match-up in the annual Gold Bowl in Richmond, VA, has more on the line than ever before. It's a game that all records are left outside the stadium anyway and with the battle for first place added to the pre-game hype, this could be the most exciting Gold Bowl ever played in Richmond. According to VA Union's sports information department, last week's convincing 56-24 whipping that was put on Norfolk State is a warning to everyone that the Panthers are real. The Trojans on the other hands are also in the title hunt, and a victory over Union will give them the divisional lead. But the Trojans will have to win their remaining games over Norfolk State and Hampton to win the title.

Winston-Salem State has won three consecutive Southern Division titles and a victory over J.C. Smith will give them their fourth. There might be an unexpected problem facing the Rams this week. J.C. Smith is not the same Golden Bulls of the past two seasons. For starters, the second place Bulls are the CIAA's second best defensive team and the Rams are their homecoming guest. Smith must win over Winston, Central and Fayetteville to clinch the title. Winston must lose to Smith and Livingstone for Central to have any chance of winning the division.

N.C. Central is celebrating homecoming, hosting the Bulldogs of Bowie State. Bowie is still searching for its first victory since November, 1983. Their losing streak has reached 27 games overall and 19 in the conference.

St. Paul's is out to snap a 19 game conference losing streak of their own and they could not have asked for a better weekend. It's homecoming and this year's guests are the Bears of Livingstone College.

In non-conference action, Fayetteville State travels to Elizabeth City State to help the Vikings celebrate homecoming. Hampton travels to Florida A&M and Norfolk State is hosting Howard University in their homecoming game.

WEEKLY HONORS

Offensive Lineman of the Week - Wayne Martin (VA Union) 6-2, 185 JR Washington, DC, WR. Wayne helped the Panther passing game with five receptions for 150 yards and two touchdowns. He had a 30 yard and a one handed 63 yard touchdown pass in Union's 56-24 trouncing of Norfolk State.

Offensive Back of the Week - Kenny Jones (VA Union) 6-1, 175, SO Washington, DC, QB. It was Kenny's leadership that guided the Panthers over Norfolk State as he completed eight of 23 passes for 188 yards and rushed for 72 yards on 11 carries. He also had two touchdown runs for four and three yards and threw two touchdown passes for 30 and 63 yards. His total offensive production for the afternoon was 34 plays for 260 yards and four touchdowns.

Rookie of the Week - Anthony Jones (Hampton) 6-2, 238, FR Bamberg, SC, FB. In his second start, Anthony rushed for 98 yards in 10 carries. His performance helped the Pirates to a 36-12 whipping over UDC.

Defensive Lineman of the Week - Mendall Wilkerson (VA Union) 6-2, 190 JR LB, Sutherland, VA. Mendall was main stay on the Panther line that held Norfolk St. to 26 yards rushing. He finished the afternoon with four unassisted tackles and three assisted, along with one fumble recovery.

Defensive Back of the Week - Darius Robinson (NC Central) 6-3, 196 SO Hope Mills, NC, DB. Finished the evening with three quarterback sacks, one was in the end zone for a safety, along with one interception which was returned 38 yards for a touchdown. Darius also managed seven tackles, six were unassisted. Central beat Elizabeth City St., 31-18.

Coach of the Week - Joe Taylor (VA Union). Coach Taylor directed a massive attack that helped the Panthers to an impressive victory over Norfolk State.

PRO PIX

By Gerald O. Johnson

A 9-5 week brings my standing to 66-45-1. That's a 60 percent ratio, folks! Pretty good for an armchair quarterback!... This week's Pro Pix.

THIS WEEK'S PRO PIX

Atlanta at New England
This is a tough game to start off a tough week. It is a must win for both teams just to keep up. The Pats have not been all that impressive against good teams. The Falcons are a good team. Conclusion - Falcons by 10.

Buffalo at Tampa Bay
Bucs' defense will win this game. Tampa Bay by 7.

Cincinnati at Detroit
Bengals will slay the Lions and they won't need the jawbone of an ass to do it with. Of course, if they did Howard Cosell's jaw is available.

Cleveland at Indianapolis
Colts will eventually beat somebody. Who and when is the question. Browns by 8.

Dallas at New York Giants
The Giants will revenge the early season loss to Dallas. Giants by 6.

Green Bay at Pittsburgh
This is a "who cares" game but it's a tough game to pick. Steelers surprised Bengals last week, but will get surprised by the Pack! Packers by 4.

Houston at Miami
Both teams have asked the President for federal funding. Seems they heard the President was willing to spend funds on building a strong defense. Both teams could use it. Should be a wild offensive battle. Moon over Miami by 2.

Philadelphia at St. Louis
The battle of the birds should go to the Eagles. Eagles by 3.

San Francisco at New Orleans
The 49ers are playing solid football, but the Saints are steadily improving. This is my upset of the week!! Saints by 4.

Denver at L.A. Raiders
This will be an excellent football game. If Denver wins, they will have a lock on the Conference title. The Raiders know this. They lost to the Broncos earlier in the season. They won't lose to them again. Raiders by 6.

Kansas City at San Diego
I've said it before and I'll say it again: The Chiefs don't lose games that they are supposed to win. Chiefs by 6.

New York Jets at Seattle
Excellent football game. This is the fourth week in a row that Seattle has played a very tough game. They don't come any tougher than the Jets. Jets by 6.

Minnesota at Washington
Tough game. Both teams played lousy football last week. Vikes have the potential to beat the Skins, but I doubt if they will. Skins by 2.

L.A. Rams at Chicago
The Rams are still the worst winning team in football. The only thing they know how to do is win. Bears are struggling with internal personnel problems. The game is a toss up, but I will stick with the Bears. Bears by 3.
