Tutors Needed

The Charlotte Area Literacy League will sponsor a workshop to train volunteer tutors to teach reading to adults on Friday, January 23, from 7-10 p.m., and Saturday, January 24, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at its offices located at 1520 South Blvd. (across from Harris-Hart Clothiers).

There are more than 89,000 adults who cannot read and write well enough to fill in a job application, right here in Mecklenburg County. Thousands more are in school and need help. This is a volunteer, nonprofit group. The prospective tutors do not need any teaching experience. We will show them everything they need to know to tutor effectively. If you need more information, call 375-3433.

Beauty Of Week

Dr. Martin Luther Kings Birthday and it was also the day W.C. was featured in a 40-second segment on ABC news for his racial harmony. "I didn't get a chance to be in front of the camera when they came, but I was excited because they selected my school," mentions Cleaves who is gaining broadcasting experience at a tender age.

"I'm a member of the Black Media Association and I'm responsible for helping with call-in shows we sponsor every month at Cablevision. The programs are good because they deal with teenage issues such as drug abuse, pregnancy and family problems. Since I'm a teenager, I get to choose the topics," points out Cleaves who also models for Carolina Talent Agency. "Through the agency, I get a chance to travel and make money at the same time, but I really like it because it gives me a chance to meet nice people," interjects Margaret, who is on the Freedom Mall Teen Board.

The conscientious young beauty is also president of the National Association of Negro Business and Professional Youth Club (NANBPW). "We do community projects and we raise money to go on trips. The club used to be for girls only, but now it is open to anyone 13-18. Our meetings are conducted every third Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in the Greenville Center.

The daughter of Vickki Cleaves of Charlotte, Margaret enjoys a very close knit relationship with her mom. "She supports me in everything I attempt to do. We have a very open relationship and I can talk to her about all my problems."

When she's not tied down with school work or other career preparations, she likes to cook, write poetry and listen to music. "I like everybody just about when it comes to music. Run DMC is my favorite Rapp group. Rapping is a form of communication that our generation uses to express our feelings. The songs are about situations that we can relate to," she concludes with a sparkling smile.

First Time Home Buyers Can Apply For 8.3% Mortgage Loans

Raleigh - First-time North Carolina home buyers can apply immediately for a limited number of 8.3% mortgage loans from participating lenders as a result of a $6.6 million reallocation of bond funds by the N.C. Housing Finance Agency, according to Interim Executive Director Edwin Caldwell Jr.

The 29-year, fixed-rate mortgage loans are available to low- and moderate-income families and individuals on a first-come, first-served basis through 71 lenders located in 35 cities and towns across the state.

To qualify, applicants need a five percent cash down payment and a sales contract on a new or existing single family house, condominium, townhome or manufactured home. The prospective buyer cannot have owned a home for the past three years. In addition, copies of federal income tax forms for the last three years are required.

For a family of two to four members, annual gross income in urban areas may not top $34,200; in rural areas, $32,000 for single individuals, income limits are set at $25,650 in urban areas and $24,000 in rural regions.

Purchase price limitations, set by the federal government, include: $97,240 for new homes and $90,640 for existing homes in Wake, Durham, Orange and Franklin counties; $91,630 for new homes and $91,850 for existing homes in Cabarrus, Rowan, Union, Mecklenburg, and Lincoln counties; $84,700 for new homes and $75,460 for existing homes in Stokes, Yadkin, Forsyth, Guilford, Randolph, Davidson, and Davie counties; and $79,860 for new homes and $67,549 for existing homes in remaining North Carolina counties.

The North Carolina Housing Finance Agency was created by the state legislature in 1973.
