Essence Awards Honor Six Outstanding Black Women

New York, NY - The 17th Anniversary May issue of ESSENCE features a special section on six women of accomplishment and achievement who embody the winning spirit of black women everywhere. ESSENCE, the na-

MINITHON

The WDAV MINITHON begins on Wednesday, May 6, and will run for just over three days, until noon on Saturday, May 9. "The MINITHON is a fast, fun way to raise $30,000," said station manager John Clark. "With program syndication plans and a major investment in the new digital technology, WDAV intends to be the best classical station in the Southeast. A successful MINITHON is crucial in order for WDAV to continue space."

tion's leading black women's magazine, has honored these women with the first annual 1987 ESSENCE Awards. The awards, sponsored by Essence Communications, Inc., will pay tribute to the women who have made significant and profound contributions to their profession and their community.

One has literally told the drug dealers in her neighborhood, "We're not going to tolerate you anymore." Another is the first American black and first woman to be elected to the International Olympic Committee; a woman who is a veritable legend in the making in the television industry; one's blind, yet her disability has not diminished her achievement as a remarkably proficient musician; another is a minister who heard the voice of God at 19, was cured of tuberculosis and is founder of one of Atlanta's most influential institutions; and one is a woman who is well-known for her TV roles, yet more proud of her little-known role as a contributor to her community.

Each of these women (respectively, Georgette Watson, Anita DeFrantz, Oprah Winfrey, Valerie Capers, Rev. Barbara King, and Marla Gibbs) is making history--a breed apart, yet part of a continuing tradition. The women will be honored at a gala dinner on November 21 at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles. The dinner will be sponsored by Eastman Kodak, Coca-Cola and Seagram's and proceeds from the event will benefit an important national institution.

ESSENCE is one of the fastest growing women's magazines in the U.S. It has a monthly circulation of 800,000 and over three million readers.
