UNDER THE BANNER WHAT'S GOING ON IN AND AROUND BLACK COLLEGE SPORT

THE BUCS X-SPANN: Gregory Spann, the former Jackson State wide receiver, has signed a two-year contract with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Spann, was drafted by the expansion Jacksonville Jaguars last year with the 19th pick in the seventh and final round. He was one of three black college receivers drafted by the Jaguars. Tennessee State's Clarence Jones and Alabama State's Ken Barlow were the others. Barlow made the team which made it to the AFC finals. The Jaguars also have former Jackson State receiver Jimmy Smith, who had a breakthrough season this year (82 receptions, 1,282 yards, six TDs)

DID UDC WHAT THEY DID?: In order to close an $18.2 million budget deficit, the University of the District of Columbia (UDC) is abolishing its athletic department. The university, which competes in eight NCAA Div. II sports, will let its basketball teams play out the season and honor its scholarships for the rest of the year. Acting university president Julius F. Nimmons Jr. said the action will save the school $450,000 annually. "This is a farce," said head basketball coach Wil Jones, who has coached at the school for 13 years. "These kids take the subway to come here and play basketball, and for someone to pull the bottom out of it is wrong. Athletics has turned out to be one of the school's best programs." UDC suspended its football program after the 1989 season

▼ WONDER WOMEN: Favorites for women's titles in the respective conferences are easy to spot. They have zeros in the conference loss column. Bowie State, ranked 23rd in last week's Div. II poll, is 6-0 in the CIAA North, Fayetteville State is 9-0 in the South. Howard leads the MEAC with a perfect 9-0 mark. Grambling (8-0) is the class of the SWAC. Fort Valley (8-1) and Kentucky State (9-1) lead the SIAC East and West respectively

▼ THE TRIALS OF JOBE: Former Southern head coach Ben Jobe is finding tough sledding in the SIAC now that he has moved to Tuskegee. He has yet to get a conference win (0-10) while his young Tiger squad struggles along at 5-15.

▼ PANTHER PRIDE: Just when you thought it was safe to count the Va. Union Panthers out of the CIAA men's race they jump up and prove you wrong. Head coach Dave Robbins' troops posted wins over N. Division leader Elizabeth City, perennial division power Norfolk State and Virginia State to move into third place in the North. Though Robbins lost his first six players to graduation and has no preseason all-conference picks on his team, the Panthers are positioning themselves for a run at the tournament title they have captured four out of the last five years.

Five black college grads make list of NFL players with top salaries

The National Football League has released their list of the top ten paid players according to position and among the five from black colleges are two not on the list just two years ago.

The NFL issues the list at the end of each year, naming the top five by position called "franchise" players and the next five by position called "transition" players, to determine what the average salaries will be for the 1997-98 season. Two years ago five black college players were on the list.

The new names include Denver tight end Shannon Sharpe, a Savannah State product who has moved up into fourth place amongst players at his position. He joins New England Patriots tight end Ben Coates, who played at Livingstone. The elite tight ends average salaries of $1,470,000. Aeneas Williams, a former Southern University defensive back, signed a new deal with the Phoenix Cardinals last year that places him as the seventh highest paid player at that position. His second-five 1995 salary of $1,550,000 was fifth highest among safeties. grouping commands salaries averaging $2,079,508.

Dropping out of the top ten and out of the league this season was former Southern University defensive back Maurice Hurst. Two years ago Hurst, then with the New England Patriots, was the third highest paid player at his defensive back position. Hurst was injured during the 1995-96 season and was eventually released by the Patriots. He was picked up by another NFL team and released again. Also falling out of the listing was Miami Dolphins safety Gene Atkins. The former Florida A&M star did not fit into new Miami coach Jimmy Johnson's plans and was benched. His

The former Mississippi Valley State star is second position that averages over $3 million ($3,0552,000).

The highest average salaries belong to quarterbacks. Franchise players at this position average $4,083,997 while
