BUSINESS

Creative budgeting

Ways to save

Complete a spending plan worksheet to take a look at where you're spending your money over a three-month period. Start taking notes about where your money is going, or consider using your debit card to help you keep track You'll be amazed at the waste patterns you spot, and recognizing them is the key to changing.

Before you start investing your new savings, make sure you have an adequate emergency fund Most experts recommend that you set aside three to six months worth of living expenses in a money market account or CDs that will be easily accessible in an emergency.

sible in an emergency.
Then be creative about ways you can save; view it as a challenge and you may find you're having fun along the way. Here are a few relatively painless ways to tighten your belt a notch or two:

Raise your insurance

en your belt a notch or two:

Raise your insurance
deductibles (and drop the towing on your auto insurance - it costs more in increased premiums over time than you'll pay to the tow truck operator). With what you'll usually cover any cash outlay you might have to make.

to make.

• Don't over-withhold on your taxes. As nice as it is to get a refund, the government is using your money interestifies with the you could have been investing it. If you got a refund last year, adjust your withholding to eliminate it and allocate the extra to your IRA or 401(k). Just be sure not to under-withhold, or you could be liable for penalties and interest.

• Use your 401(k) to save or you could be hane for penalties and interest.

• Use your 401(k) to save money by cutting taxes and accumulating assets tax deferred. For example, if you're in the 28% tax bracket, one dollar out of every four dollars you put into a pre-tax retirement account is paid for by reduced taxes not reduced take-home pay. Also be sure to take full advantage of your employer's match by investing enough to qualify for that important benefit

• Avoid late fees on credit cards or video rentals. It's just money down the drain.

• Avoid ATM surcharges. Use your debit card, plan ahead to use your own bank's ATM or get cash back when you greent selections.

tead to use your own mk's ATM or get cash back men you grocery shop.

Shop around for the lowt long-distance telephone mier - or better yet - use emill when you can carrier or better yet - use e-mail when you can.

• Comparison shop among airlines. Watch for sales and utilize e-saver online spe-cials. If possible, be flexible about your departure/arrival cities — 30 miles or less between cities between cities can some-times save you hundreds of dollars in fares.

• Pay your bills online or use auto-withdrawal to save on the cost of postage.

These are just a few money-saving strategies, and you're sure to come up with many more Talk to your friends about ways they budget without truly deny-ing themselves.

Vashit Hari is a financial adve

Vashti Hurt is a financial advi-sor with Wuchovia Securities in Charlotte. Phone: (704) 27-2770 or (866) 411-0899.

Tap into business mindset

Understand that the first order of any entrepreneur is to make and leverage money

Understand that the first orde.

In order to build the right infrastructure, you must think strategically – that's having a business mindset. Before you make any decisions in business think about the outcome on all levels:

1. Having a business mindset is knowing that the purpose of business is to make money. Sometimes your hobby is just a hobby. Either you're going to have a hobby that makes you a little extra money or you're going to have a business that requires a higher level of development in order to acquire a higher level of development in order to acquire a higher level of fincome.

2. Having a business mindset means thinking for yourself vs. letting other people think for you. Don't allow the experts to control your destiny or your dreams, let them help you get there. Take some time to think, document, research your own idea before asking for help—if you do—you will be better equipped to ask for exactly what you want.

3. Having a business mindset means being a larger of the properties of the pro want.

3. Having a business mindset means being more strategic about your business activity. Don't just go to any networking event or take on any job, know what results you want before you invest in business activity.

n business activity. For example, do you know how much it really costs you to attend a training session or a networking event – money, family, time, babysitter, gas, etc? In order to recoup your investment your reasons for investing in the training must be things other than meeting people and "Tjust want to learn something" Why? That's a given when you go to networking (meet people) or training (learn something).

4. Having a business mindset is knowing that we need to connect with our businesses and that connection is. profitability. How do you connect with your profitability? By knowing your profit margin, cash flow, competitive advantage, sales goals, and your key profit indicators.

ESE

5. Having a business mindset is understanding strategy and implementing it into your business practices. These days we tend to focus on the day-to-day mundane tasks and deadlines, solving short-term problems, and implementing marketing tactics that aren't a good fit for our businesses."

6. Having a business mindset is being open to multiple streams of income and multiple businesses. I met a lady at a conference a while back, and I will never forget what she told me — "I have one business that's my passion that makes me a good income and I run it I have another business that generates substantial profit for me and I have someone else to run it." The point, you don't have to put all your eggs in one basket

7. Having a business mindset is understanding your emotional ties to your business. Understanding the emotional ties to your business will allow you to break through your personal barriers that prevent you from doing what you say you're going to do and also doing what you want to do say you're going to do and also doing what you want to do

The point: Every business decision you make today affects your business today tomorrow, and in the future – so become a good strategist. A good strategist books at all facets of their business today in context of where they are trying to go A good strategist reacts to problems positively instead of negatively. A good strategist also welcomes change and turns it into an opportunity. A good strategist can react quickly with the unexpected.

A good strategist has a business mindset

Small business consultant and coach Sherese Dunct of president and CEO of Efficio, Inc. a small busine ducation and consulting firm in Charlotte. For mo aformation, go to www.efficio.biz or e-mail asks.

Carolinas HealthCare System, which operates and manages hospitals throughout the Charlotte region, wants to add a 50-bed facility in Mint Hill.

Extra care in Mint Hill

CHS petitions state to build a 50-bed facility

By Herbert L. White

Carolinas HealthCare System wants to add a hospital in Mint Hill. The non-profit corporation has filed a certificate of need application with the N.C. Department of Facility Services, to build the $70-million Carolinas Medical Center-Mint Hill.

Carolinas Medical Center-Mint Hill. The facility requires state approval. "Mint Hill is a vibrant community poised for significant growth," said Dennis Phillips, CHS's senior vice president for operations. "CHS has been providing healthcare to this community for a long time, and we have spent more than a year assem-bling land inside the town limits on which to build this new hospital, as well as physician offices. We're very excited about the prospects of continuing to be an integral part of this community's future."

The proposed hospital would be near the intersection of Highway 51 and Truelight Church Road. CMC-Mint Hill will be located adjacent to a 60,000-square foot medical office building. The facility would include:

38 acute care medical surgical beds including six Labor-Delivery-Recovery-Post partum maternity beds

12-bed emergency department

beds

• 12-bed emergency department

• 10 observation beds

• Radiology, including a 64-slice CT scanner, radiography, fluoroscopy, ultrasound, nuclear medicine, stress testing, portable x-ray and other complementary services

• Two exterior pads capable of MRI, PET scanner, and mobile diagnostic heart catheterization

Three operating rooms, one OR dedicated to labor and delivery, and one endoscopy suit
Laboratory services
Nursery
Pharmacy
Respiratory therapy
No new or additional beds are in the state health plan, so the Mint Hill facility would move 50 beds and the endoscopy suite from CMC-Mercy Operating rooms will move from Carolinas Surgical Center on Randolph Road.
"Were primed and ready to begin a kinker leafer suite of the control of the contro

Randolph Road.
"We're primed and ready to begin a higher level of medical service to Mint Hill," Phillips said. "Our interest in this community is well known.
Carolinas Medical Center-Mint Hill will bring the caring of our providers and the service of Carolinas Medical Center even closer to and more con-venient for the people of this com-

Survey: Expect hiring boom

By Herbert L. White

Charlotte area businesses are expected to be in the mar-ket for more workers in the fourth quarter, according to a study.

From October to December, 35 percent of Charlotte companies expect to hire more employees, while 2 percent expect to reduce payrolls, according to the Manpower Employment Outlook Survey. Charlotte's anticpated increase was the fourth-highest in North Carolina, trailing High Point (47 percent), Rocky Mount (48) and Greensboro (40). Sixty-three percent of Charlotte companies expect to maintain current staff levels.

"Charlotte-area employers have softer hiring intentions than in the third quarter when 43 percent of the companies interviewed intended to add staff, and 3 percent planmed to reduce headcount." said Manpower spokeswoman Jessica Juba "Employers have more positive hiring intentions than they did a year ago when 38 percent of companies surveyed thought employement increases were likely and 15 percent intended to cut back."

Job prospects appear best in construction, non-durable goods manufacturing, transportation, public administration and wholesale/retail.

Nationally, employers expect to close the year with steady hiring, according to the survey. Of the 14,000 U.S. employers surveyed, 28 percent expect to add to their payrolls during the fourth quarter; compared to 8 percent who expect reductions. Fifty-eight percent expect no chance.

For 52 years, entrepreneur a fixture for food and hospitality

If you search traditional lists of suc-cessful black-owned businesses in Charlotte, Rudean's is probably not on any of them. Yet, Rudean Harris, the restaurant's owner, is considered by many a black business icon whose legacy spans 52 years of service. On Oct. 8, Harris friends, family, col-leagues, business associates and com-muity leaders are going to pay trib-tute at the Ramses Temple on Beatties Ford Road. Harris, commonly known as Miss Rudean or Rudean, was the second oldest of six children, and the oldest girl. She was 8 years old when her mother died and she committed her-self to helping her father raise her sib-self to helping her father raise her sib-lings.

"When my grandmother died, mama became the 'little woman' of the house doing all the cooking, deaming and helping the others with their school-work," says Harris' daughter, Nichelle, who is organizing the tribute

"She was also the disciplinarian while granddaddy was out working the farm."

Harris had just finished Teamer High School at age 16 when she start-ed her entrepreneurial legacy With the help of mentors including nowretired Charlotte policeman William füll" Covington, she began selling hot dogs, hamburgers and sodas at the same location where she is currently located at 2228 Beatties Ford Road. It was called West Charlotte Drive-In.

Harris would ultimately change the name and relocate to at least five other locations over the years before returning to the original West Charlotte Drive-In site in the 1990s.
Wherever Rudean's was located, it quickly became a popular social hot spot for a predominantly black clientele.

spot for a predominancy tele.

Ida Johnson has been with Harris longest – 15 years as a cook, cashier, manager, and close personal friend.

"I know Rudean has a special soft spot in her caring for people," Johnson said. "She has been through some of the problems they face and she truly understands them She listens or whatever she can do and her client base loves her dearly."

Jeannette Robinson was Harris' first landlord and she is again at the current location.

"She has been very businesslike and very cooperative," says Robinson. "She has rented from me many years and there has never been any difference or problem with her."

THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY AND THE PARTY AND