

Charlotte actor touring with 'Annie'

Continued from page 1D while the play is going on. Benjamin said parents make sacrifices when they have a child in show biz, but it's worth it. "When you see that your child wants to (act) it's up to us as parents to cultivate it," said Benjamin, who is also Jaida's manager and agent. "I wear three hats," she said. "It's more than just saying my kid is cute. This is bigger than what people think." "Annie" opens September 17.

New 'Transformers' film celebrates the return of the 1980's TV classic

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES—The Police and the Stray Cats are on tour. Leggings, pegged pants and wide belts are in style. "Transformers" are the hottest toys on the market. What year is it?
It's 2007, the year the '80s came back.
It used to take generations before trends reappeared. The hippies of the '60s turned to fringed cowboy jackets and Native American beads from hundreds of years earlier. In the '70s, pop culture turned back the calendar two decades, with '50s-inspired shows like "Happy Days" and groups like Sha Na Na. In the '90s, the flowery, flouncy clothes of the '70s came back big time, as bell-bottom pants, hip-hugger jeans and halter tops re-emerged as hot styles. One of the bigger TV hits that began in the '90s: "That 70s Show."

Experts say trend recycling happens much more quickly now, driven by nostalgia, technology and marketing. "This embrace of styles from the past, at least for people of a certain age who are in the position of social arbiters, has to do with a social equivalent of comfort food," said Alice Echols, a professor and cultural historian at the University of Southern California. "The '80s ... was before terrorism, before any kind of 9/11 consciousness. People didn't worry about terrorist attacks. It was a somewhat tranquil time," she said. Given the state of the world today, it makes a lot of sense that that kind of escapist fare would be very attractive. The Transformers, a line of toys that change from robots into vehicles, were born at Hasbro Inc. in 1984. Shortly after their introduction, the Autobots (the good guys) and Decepticons (the bad guys) inspired cartoons, comic books and a 1986 animated film, "Transformers: The Movie." "Transformers has a huge dormant fan base," said Hasbro's Samantha Lomow, global vice president of marketing. "It goes back to that emotional connection. ... A lot of people now who are having kids are looking to share experiences across their families." Executive producer Steven Spielberg is one of them. He's been a fan of the toys since their debut. "I'm not talking about buying the toys for my kids," he said in studio production notes. "I'm talking about reading the comic books and buying the toys for myself. I'd play with them at home with my kids, but I'm the one who was enthralled with them." While today's generation is too young to remember the original Transformers, all things retro are cool with young people, said Kevin Jones, historian at the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising. "It's the post baby-boom generation that's driving today's products, and it's brand new again because we ourselves are bringing it back for this youth market," Jones said. The United States' "baby boom" generation was born in the mid 1940s through mid 1960s. But the Transformers, as Spielberg emphasized, aren't so childish that adults can't still enjoy them. "You feel good talking about the Transformers as a grown man," said Tyrese Gibson, one of the film's stars. "It doesn't make you feel like you're talking about the Care Bears or something." Advanced computer-generated graphics keep the cool-factor high and help modernize the story, which involves 30-foot-tall robot aliens interacting with a human cast that includes Shia LaBeouf, Josh Duhamel and John Turturro. Technology has caught up and finally a studio has the opportunity to bring this property to life in an ultra-realistic manner," Lomow said. "This property is being reinvented for the long term." Many of the movie's writers, actors and artists are "hard core" fans of the original Transformers, said producer Lorenzo di Bonaventura, and the film taps into the same qualities that made the shape-shifting robots popular in the first place. Their mythology is about good versus evil on a very basic level," he said, adding that in that regard 2007 is the perfect time to retell the Transformers story. In the '80s, "the world didn't seem quite as threatening a place, but from a creative point of view, it ... was a decade when people seemed to want to explore larger-than-life characters and take them to a place they had previously not been doing," he said. "It was a time period that was searching for its own identity, much as we are now." On the Net: www.transformersmovie.com www.hasbro.com/transformers/

Community

The Charlotte Post 704-376-0496

JOSEPH-BETH WELCOMES

Omar Tyree
signing
The Last Street Novel

Beloved bestselling African-American romance author Tyree delivers the gritty story of a beloved African-American romance author who strays from his comfort zone in order to write a gritty street novel.

Monday, July 9 • 7:00PM

SOUTH PARK MALL
345 BARCLAY DOWNS DRIVE • 704.602.3800
www.josephbeth.com

The Historic Excelsior Club

Open Tuesday-Sunday
921 Beatties Ford Rd. • 704-334-5709

"Wednesday Night Live - JAZZ"
With Our House Band "PORTERHOUSE"

Featuring
Michael Porter, Andrew Williams,
Tommy Green Steve Gordon
and Gerard Benson
Doors Open at 7pm..

"Adult environment, 30 and over"

- TUESDAY ... "FISH FRY" 6 pm. - Only $5
- "Whist" as long as you can see! • Disco at 9pm
- THURSDAY "DIRTY THIRTY THURSDAY" Lets get this party started right now!
- FRI. & SAT. The Best "DISCO" In Town
- SUNDAY ... A Relaxing Evening!

CHECK US OUT!
www.excelsiorclub.net

At 70, Wilson 'an angel' of jazz

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK—Nancy Wilson is hardly the retiring type, even though she is trying to spend more time with her grandchildren these days. Last year, the singer retired from touring, but she continues to record—her last album "Turned to Blue" won the Grammy for Best Jazz Vocal Album earlier this year—and perform selected concert dates. On Friday night, she found herself sharing the Carnegie Hall stage with many old friends—including three of the top vocalists on the current jazz scene, Nnenna Freelon, Dianne Reeves and Kurt Elling, as well as guest musicians such as violinist Regina Carter—for a concert called "Nancy Wilson's Swinging 70th Birthday Party," a highlight of this year's JVC Jazz Festival. "It's really fine to let everyone know what 70 can be," said Wilson, whose birthday actually was Feb. 20, at the start of a program celebrating milestones in her 55-year career. "It doesn't get much better than this." After Freelon spiritedly swung her way through "They Can't Take That Away From Me," the younger singer took the opportunity to thank Wilson for mentoring her years ago, calling her "an angel in my life." Turning to the svelte, silver-haired Wilson, she quipped, "If this is what 70 is all about, I can't wait." Elling paid tribute to the 1962 "Nancy Wilson/Cannonball Adderley" album, considered among the best jazz vocal recordings of all time, by performing the soulful "Save Your Love for Me." Pianist Herbie Hancock completely reharmonized Cole Porter's romantic bal-

Now Open!

Indulge SPA & NAILS

1704-2 Harris Houston Rd. • Charlotte, NC 28262 • 704-547-0804
(Off Hwy. 49, Past 1485)

Come "Indulge" Yourself
... We're Premiering the Finest in Massage, Waxing, Manicure & Pedicures, Gel Nails, Silk Wraps, Designs & Relaxation

- Regular Prices -

Full Set	$18 Up
Fill In	$12 & Up
Manicure	$8 & Up
Pedicure	$18 & Up
Gel Nails	$38 & Up
Eyebrow Wax	$8

"Massages" by appointment only
Swedish, Deep Tissue and more $60.00 Up

Grand Opening Special!
Indulge SPA & NAILS
1704-2 Harris Houston Rd. Charlotte, NC 28262
$3.00 OFF Except Massages
Good Only July 5 - July 31, 2007

"Employment Opportunities"

Coca-Cola COMMUNITY CONNECTION CALENDAR...

The Music Ministry of St. Mark's will host their 2007 Annual Youth Gospel Explosion
July 27 - 28, 2007.

The group ages 12 - 18 is comprised of members of the congregation as well as youth from the community and Triad Area.

For information call
Louretta Howze (704)4289

Former residents of the Charlotte "Brooklyn" Neighborhood are planning the 2nd Annual Brooklyn Neighborhood Heritage Reunion at Pearle Street Park (1200 Baxter Street) August 4, 2007 from 1:00 pm - 7:00 pm. Theme is "Good Times In The Old Neighborhood".
Frank J. Manago, Chairperson, Brooklyn Neighborhood Planning Committee (704)598-0544 or fmanago88@yahoo.com
Mary Ellison, Co-Chairperson, Brooklyn Neighborhood Planning Committee (704)536-5795 or ellisonimp54@yahoo.com

"KEEPING IT REAL WITH FRIENDS AND FAMILY COCA-COLA REAL"

"Here's How You Can Be Connected"
Submit, in writing, on your organization's letterhead, the title of your event, date/location, contact person and telephone number for your activity to:
Coca-Cola Community Connection
801 Black Satchel Rd., Charlotte NC 28216
Attn: Dwain Smith - Phone 980-321-3542 • Fax 980-321-3566 or Email dwain.smith@cebc.com