In Report to Secretary McAdoo, Captain Ballinger Recounts Harrowing Experiences in Ice-Like Grip of Ice Packs.

Washington, Sept. 21.--The revenue cutter Bear, moored to a menacing iceberg and completely wedged in by heavy floes of Arctic ice drifting in a swirling current towards the North Pole, narrowly escaped destruction on her annual cruise from Nome to Point Barrow, Alaska, America's most northerly settlement in the frigid zone.

"No apparent damage was done to the vessel in the pack," reported Captain Ballinger, "but she encountered the tremendous swirls of the current and narrowly escaped destruction against the ground ice four or five miles north of Point Barrow. She was entirely unmanageable and her situation for a short time seemed extremely critical.

ASKS FOR BUTTONS.

College Boy Wants to Help Boost Week.

The following from one of the Salisbury Booster boys, who is away at college will show for itself:

September 20th, Salisbury Industrial Club, Salisbury, N. C.

Dear Sir:--Please send me by mail at least one half dozen of the "Salisbury Booster Buttons." I am from Salisbury and want to help the Gem City. There are several other boys here from Salisbury and they want the buttons also.

I read of the buttons in the Salisbury Evening Post.

Yours very truly, C. F. PHILLIPS.

The Industrial Club wants to state that if any other boys away at school want to wear buttons that if they will drop a card to the Club, buttons will gladly be sent. The time to begin boosting is early in life, so let the school boys boost and by the time they are out in the world the spirit will be dyed in the wool.

Among the letters received at the Industrial Club office today was one from a firm in Westport, Conn., stating that they would send a man here some time soon to look the situation over with the view of installing a hat making and clothes renovating establishment. Several people will be employed, and they will do a business to cover considerable territory.

The Industrial Club received a letter today from a man in Amawalk, N. Y., stating that he and three or four men in their families would move here if they could find employment. They are high grade workmen, builders and mechanics.

FROM PARIS TO N. Y. IN BOTTLELIKE BOAT

Two Men Working on a Wood and Tarred Cardboard Craft in Which They Will Attempt to Cross the Atlantic--Hope to Build Another to Develop a Speed of 100 Miles an Hour.

Paris, Sept. 22.--From Paris to New York in a bottle--such is the latest sensation. Under one of the archways of the Pont St. Michael, on the Seine, two men are working in the greatest mystery on the construction of a cylindrical, bottle-like craft which is to take them across the Atlantic.

The master of this curious craft is turned seventy, and wears a blue suit with no shirt underneath, and no shoes. His long curls have evidently known no barbers shears for many a long year, for they reach to his shoulders and mingle with his patriarchal beard of snow white.

"The new craft is the slip," declares Panjotti, "is only a model. Later on I promise to build another measuring 325 feet and driven by three 15 h. p. motors which will develop a speed of 100 miles an hour.

"The secret of my invention lies in the action of the propellers, which will enable by bottle to revolve on its axis at a dizzy rate. The persons inside will be on a floor fitted with rollers, which will remain completely stable. My pupil and I intend to go from Paris to Havre, and thence to New York.

"My boat has no keel. If by a shock or any other cause a leak is sprung, a stroke of the propellers causes it to turn upside down, and a leak can be repaired without the least danger.

The trains were both made up of all steel cars of four coaches to each train.

ADDITIONAL CHARGES DEPEND ON JUDGES

Point of Contention Made by Sulzer's Lawyers Figure Prominently in Case.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.--Whether there will be additional articles of impeachment against Governor Sulzer forced through the Assembly under party lash depends on the decision of judges today on the point of contention made by Sulzer's lawyers--that the court could not take cognizance of the truth or falsity of the Governor's sworn expense account.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21.--Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, whom Governor Sulzer accuses of having instigated his impeachment, will be forced to take the witness stand practically in his own defense before the impeachment trial is over, in the opinion tonight of the Governor's close friends.

They say the governor will take the stand and that his story will compel the attorneys for the impeachment managers to call the Tammany leader.

What revelations the Governor may make is unknown. All attempts to interview him on his expected testimony have been futile. But his friends profess to know that no influence can prevent him from testifying in event the constitutional objections raised by his attorneys to prevent the case from coming to trial are overruled.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.--With rumors current that Governor William Sulzer would resign in event that his attorneys lose their fight to prevent him from being forced to defend himself before the high court of impeachment, statements forthcoming from his counsel today seemed to indicate that he has every intention of fighting the case out to the end, be it bitter or sweet.

The statements were inspired by the general interpretation placed on the letter which Mr. Sulzer sent yesterday to Lieutenant Governor Glynn turning over to him for signature requisition papers for the extradition of a prisoner. The letter was taken to mean that the impeached executive thereby recognized the right of Mr. Glynn to act as governor, pending the outcome of the trial. This, his counsel--Valentine Taylor and D. Cady Herrick as well as the governor's secretary, Chester D. Pitt--all emphatically denied.

Sale of Brown Property.

The Post learns that no sale was made today of the former handsome home of the late P. W. Brown. It is stated that a bid larger than the one received today had previously been offered for the place and in consequence of this no sale was made today. As to the result of the lot sale near the fair grounds nothing has been learned.

The case of the negroes who robbed the Arey Hardware Store some nights ago and which was set for trial this morning has been postponed until next Monday. Son Brice, who was shot over a division of the spoils, and who has been in a serious condition is better and it is believed now that he will recover.

You always have to look out for some fellows, and others will bear looking into.

It is already indicated that people will be pouring into the court house and that this will be filled long before the meeting at the school auditorium is over.

Rev. J. L. Viperman will probably introduce the speaker at the first meeting, though no one has yet been definitely selected to present him to the audience at the court house. It is announced that the Public Service Company will operate additional cars this evening and will also operate cars immediately after the close of the meeting at the court house should the regular cars have gone in by the time the address is over.

Without Dissenting Voice Attorneys Declare There is Perfect Agreement as to Presentation of Prisoner's Case Tuesday.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 21.--Eleven lawyers from four States and the Dominion of Canada were in Concord today and more are supposed to be on the way here to help Harry Thaw resist the efforts of the State of New York to obtain his return to the Matteawan Asylum. Jerome of New York, will appear before Governor Felker in behalf of the petition for extradition.

While no official statement was made by Thaw or any of his lawyers tonight, it is understood that the principal if not the only argument in Thaw's case will be made by Judge William M. Chase, of Concord. Besides Judge Chase Thaw's legal array today included W. C. McKeon, of Montreal, former Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, Messrs. Grossman, Olmsted of New York, Joseph O'Connell of Boston and Vorhaus and Zelig of New York, Messrs. Martin Shurtleff and Donigan of New Hampshire.

CONCORD'S WHISKEY.

Our Neighbor Seems to Be Getting Her's Through the Drug Stores Yet. Says the Tribune of Saturday: Spiritus fermentum came unto its own as a medicine in Concord last month, the local physicians depended upon its curative powers in the largest number of cases on record here in any month. The task of separating all of the prescriptions has not been completed but Chief of Police Boger states that the number will reach 1,800 to 2,000. They will range in quantity from a half pint to a quart. One drug store filled 1,210, the largest number ever filled by a single drug store. In speaking of the prescriptions, Mayor Hartwell recently stated that hereafter he was going to have the prescriptions separated and each physician's number and have the list published monthly. City Attorney Maness has also given the matter attention, sending a letter to every physician in the county containing a section of the law governing the giving of prescriptions. The law holds that it is unlawful for a physician to give a prescription for vinous or malt liquors to any person other than his regular patients.
