

FRENCH GUNS BATTER DOWN DOOR TO LAON

French Troops After Battering Down the Back Door to Laon in Six Miles of Stronghold.

GERMANS MAKING STRONG ATTACKS ON FRENCH

Situation in Hungary is the Outstanding Feature of Day's News Behind the Battle Line.

(By Associated Press.) French guns have battered down the back door to Laon and French troops are now within six miles of the German stronghold.

One formidable barrier lies between them and the goal—the Ailette river—but from captured heights the French guns look down over this stream.

The Ailette runs east and west parallel with the French line. It is hardly worthy the name of river, but its bed is a deep gorge which makes it a grave obstacle. Laon will not be captured except with great sacrifice, but the French victory has brought capture much nearer.

The developments on the battle front are chiefly valuable for the possibilities they open up and the same may be said of the battles behind the line of fighting. In Germany there is much talk which would curtail the power of the Emperor and make the ministry responsible to the parliament.

The putting forward of these reforms tends to check the rising tide of popular discontent, but the extraordinary measures to prevent the outside world learning anything of the true situation makes adequate judgment impossible.

Startling reports come from Austria-Hungary regarding conditions in the Dual monarch, and apparently Count Tszar and his fellow reactionaries have the upper hand and are determined to crush the party of the democracy with the same ruthlessness as has heretofore been the rule. There are rumors that martial law has been established in Bohemia and Hungary, but the suppression of the newspapers leaves no line for news to reach the outside world as to conditions in the Austrian Empire.

The Russian riddle remains unsolved but for the time being at least the provisional authorities seem to be safe. Reports of demoralization in the Russian army revealed the uncomfortable condition by a proclamation by General Gurko, commander on the west front, ordering the soldiers to stop fraternizing with the German troops. General Gurko declares such fraternizing has become a common practice and the lull on the Russian front has permitted the Germans to concentrate troops against the English and French.

In spite of the peaceable ending of May Day demonstrations in Sweden the international troubles in that country seem to be rising rather than ebbing. Riots and food demonstrations are reported from various points and from such partial reports as are received the authorities are confronting an ugly situation.

Ballicourt, directly on the Hindenburg line has been entered by British troops who this morning are fighting the Germans in the town for its possession, giving the Germans no time to bring up reserves from the hard pressed front where the French are driving for Laon by the backway to that stronghold.

General Haig's troops began today to widen the breach they made in the Hindenburg line in Ballicourt region. Counter attacks of extreme violence, rapidly repeated, failed to make the British grip on the line here and have not prevented them from striking again when they were ready.

Ballicourt has been hemmed in on all sides except on the north and the British have worked well to the east of the village. Driving back toward it they fought their way into the place, pressing back the desperate resistance of the Germans.

On the French front northeast of Soissons the Germans have been forced to employ fresh troops in an effort to stem the French advance. Last night they drove masses of men against the line all along this front but were unable to shake General Neville's line hold upon valuable and hard won ground on the plateau overlooking the Ailette river. Everywhere the French hold is fast moving down the Germans with their fire.

EVIDENCE HAS ENDED IN VAWTER-HETH TRIAL

Debate Over Instruction to the Jury to be Next Feature in the Celebrated Virginia Case—May Go to the Jury by Thursday.

(By Associated Press.) Christiansburg, Va., May 7.—After having devoted practically all of Saturday afternoon to inspecting the home at Blacksburg of Chas. E. Vawter, on trial here for the murder of Stockton Heth, Jr., the jury today was prepared to hear closing evidence. Indications are that the taking of testimony will end late today or early tomorrow morning. Then will come debate over instructions. Marked difference of views are expected to develop over this phase of the trial and probably nearly all of Tuesday will be consumed in shaping instructions to be brought forth and presented to the jury. Argument in the case will not begin until some time Wednesday and it is not probable that the case will reach the jury before Thursday.

Tragic and sensational features of the case have ended so far as evidence is concerned. All that remains that may rouse public interest are the features of attorney's argument and the verdict.

THE STATE BILL FOR FEED LAST YEAR

Secretary Lucas Gives Some Figures That Ought to Be Read With Great Interest.

COTTON AND THE FEEDING OF PEOPLE AND CATTLE

The People are Beginning to Realize That the South Must Grow Its Feed.

Raleigh, May 7.—North Carolina's bill for food and feedstuffs last year exceeded the value of its cotton crop by $20,000,000, according to an estimate by Secretary Lucas of the State Food Conservation Commission. Figuring cotton at $100 per bale 900,000 bales would have been required to pay the West and other sections for the meat, breadstuffs and feedstuffs the State imported. The crop production in the State was under 700,000 bales. "At present prices of food and feedstuffs," declared Mr. Lucas, "the same amount of food and feedstuffs would cost us approximately $200,000,000, or 2,000,000 bales of cotton. If North Carolina should, by a miracle, produce this amount of cotton and the South in proportion the staple would sell at five or six cents a pound and we would be worse off than ever if we would at the same time neglect to raise our own food and feed. It is a certainty, however, that regardless of the price and quantity of cotton we raise we will not be able to get the vast amounts of food and feed we have heretofore imported because they will be requisitioned by the government."

Mr. Lucas states that, while a tremendous amount of work is yet to be done, the people of the State are beginning to realize that real necessity and not hysteria is behind the government for greater acreage and production of food and feedstuffs. The business men and live farmers of the State are working shoulder to shoulder in the campaign and the co-operation of the business man and banker is going to prove a very considerable factor in the campaign.

Mr. W. E. Borden, a banker at Goldsboro has issued a rather striking letter to his customers and other farmers in Wayne and adjoining counties showing that cotton, even at 20 cents a pound, is relatively the cheapest farm product upon the market today and is lower in price, considering the prices of other commodities, than it was at a normal price of 12 cents a pound. The following shows the contrast, which is even greater now than it was when the letter was issued:

In an average year with 12c cotton, a $60 bale can buy: 89 bushels potatoes at 70c, or 75 bushels lard at 8c, or 22 barrels flour at $4.50, or 375 bushels bacon at 16c, or 100 bushels corn at 60c, or 30 pairs shoes at $2.00, or 720 yards cotton goods, at 8 1-2c. This year with 20c cotton, a $100 bale can only buy:

500 bushels potatoes at $2.25, or 89 bushels lard at 20c, or 8 barrels flour at $13, or 333 bushels bacon at 30c, or 74 bushels corn at $1.50, or 20 pairs shoes at $5.00, or 660 yards cotton goods at 15c. "Enlarge your food crops and intensify their cultivation," urges Mr. Borden. "It will not only pay you better in dollars and cents, but in no other way can you serve the 'Stars and Stripes' and the woe of humanity so well."

Many merchants in every section of the State have refused to advance supplies and fertilizers to farmers who persisted in planting too large a proportion of cotton or tobacco as compared with food and feed crops. In many instances bankers have followed the same course, lending ready assistance to the farmer who is planting the usual acreage or more of cotton and tobacco. In almost every community in the State the banks are lending money in small and large amounts for the purchase of seed and fertilizer for food and feed crops.
