BRAZILIAN STEAMER ASHORE.

Ran Into Trouble On the New England Coast in a Fog—Believed to Have Been Escaping From a Submarine.

(By the Associated Press)
 An Atlantic Port, Aug. 13.—A Brazilian freight steamer ran ashore on the New England coast in a heavy fog today. The tide was receding at the time and observers believe the vessel to be in a dangerous position. One report was that the steamer evading a German submarine.

PREPARE FOR THE HOT WAVE.

The hot sun is doubly dangerous if there is a mass of undigested food in the stomach, causing distress and auto intoxication, casting congesting poisons throughout the system. SANCTIFIED PEOPLE APPEAR IN COURT

One Colored Sister Objects to the Practice of Members of Congregation Kissing Husband.

CONGREGATION UPHEAVAL RESULTS IN CASE ASSAULT

Trial Brought Out Some Strange Practices by This Sect, One of Which is the Holy Kiss.

An unusual and most interesting case in the county court yesterday, running into the afternoon, and one attracting the largest attendance in many months, the great majority being colored people, was one in which the congregation of the colored Sanctified church, located in the extreme western section of the city, figured. It had to do with matters pertaining to the operation of the church and congregation and gave promise of being a knotty problem. However, it turned out rather tame, a nol prosequere resulting in one case and the other winding up with a nolo contendere.

After the case was completed there was some little excitement among the colored people present when one colored woman, who is not affiliated with this peculiar sect, became engaged in a controversy with the leader of the Sanctified flock, a large mulatto woman, who came here from Asheville. This woman remonstrated with the Sanctified leader about kissing her husband and emphasized her remarks by the use of a parasol. This brought the two back into court this morning when the non-affiliated woman answered to a charge of assault. The case was certainly an interesting one and brought out some of the strange beliefs and practices of the Sanctified people, one of which is the promiscuous kissing of the men and women of the flock, being what they term the Holy Kiss. The defendant's husband is a member of the congregation and took prominent part in the kissing bees and it was this that brought on the trouble.

Attorney Price, who defended the female defendant, was severe in his denunciation of the practices of the members of this strange sect and his descriptions of their ways and actions caused much amusement among the court officials and spectators. During the progress of the trial the female Sanctified leader had a "spell" an unusual shouting experience and had to be taken from the court room by some of her "sisters" and "brethren."

The trial resulted in a conviction of the defendant on a charge of simple assault and she was put on good behavior for a period of three months and judgment suspended on payment of costs.

Then there arose the question as to how the offended negro woman could put a stop to the affectionate practice the sisters engage in of kissing her husband, and it was suggested that an injunction might be procured for this is hardly possible as the state throws long protection around religious worship without regard to the kind or sect practicing it.

There was an expression among some of the white spectators and the court officials that a white congregation carrying with it the teachings and practices of this colored Sanctified church might be organized here, and the assurance was that it would get a large following immediately. Incidentally His Honor intimated that he might name a leading lawyer who participated in the case this morning and a newspaper man to form such an organization here. But nothing definite has been undertaken and prospective applicants for membership will do well to wait awhile before handing in their names for membership. Provision will be made to take care of the rush in this line should such an organization be started.
