EVENING CHURCH SERVICES VERY POORLY ATTENDED

Evening services of the churches of the city are poorly attended, according to the Presbyterian church bulletin. The bulletin deprecates the fact that the evening services of the Presbyterian church are not attended by many of its members, but says services at the Presbyterian church are attended as well as similar services at other churches. The bulletin has the following comment: "That our evening services on Sunday and Wednesday are as well attended as those in other churches is a fact, but we should derive no comfort from that fact. The attendance is small and every member of the church should deplore it. He should deplore it sufficiently to add one to the attendance. The church has a right to expect the pastor, ruling elders and deacons to attend every service, unless they are providentially hindered, and their regular attendance would greatly help, but the obligation rests on every member of the church as well as on the officers. Will you do your part? Make a New Year's resolution now that you will attend more faithfully to this duty, and that you will attend the evening services."

Sick Soldiers Appreciative. The sick soldiers in the government hospitals at Asheville were greatly pleased and made happy over the contributions sent thru donations made by the people of Salisbury, as the following letter to Mr. C. W. Andrew, of the Yadkin hotel, who had charge of the soliciting of gifts, shows: Asheville, N. C. 12-29-20 Mr. C. W. Andrew, Salisbury, N. C. My Dear Mr. Andrew: Mere words cannot begin to express to you and the loyal people of Salisbury our thanks and appreciation for all the splendid help and co-operation given up in our Christmas plans for the sick boys at Oteen and Kenilworth hospitals, and if all of them could have seen the joy, happiness and pleasure brought to these boys, I am sure you would have felt more than repaid for your efforts. Every one has said, from the Commanding Officers of each hospital down to the last patient, that this was the happiest Christmas they had ever had.

We are sending you some pictures of the wards to give you an idea how everything looked and also some newspaper clippings to let you read what the Commanding Officers really thought of our efforts. The boys at Kenilworth were so delighted and pleased that a group of them wrote a very nice little article in the paper expressing their appreciation. They had tried to get up enough nerve to tell us in public at the big Christmas party in the Recreational Hall on Christmas Eve afternoon, but did not have enough nerve, so we wrote the article in the paper instead.

Those Kenilworth boys did such a splendid job that I must tell it and I know they were never so happy in their lives. They gave a Christmas party in the Recreational Hall for seventy little orphaned children, from the Buncombe County Childrens Home and other institutions in this vicinity. They had a large Christmas tree, a Santa Claus, and each child received as many gifts as he could manage, many of them made by the boys themselves. The children were loaded down with so many gifts and were simply bewildered by the love and attentions showered upon them by these boys. Some of the boys who were hardly able to get up out of bed, were so determined not to miss that party that they have had to pay up for it since by being confined to their beds all the time, but they all say it was worth it. We took most of the decorations from Salisbury to Kenilworth and I wish you could have seen the interest those boys took in decorating the halls and rooms. Yesterday afternoon when I went to visit some of them, the place did not seem like the same one and there was sunshine and happy faces everywhere.

NEW ROAD IS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Spencer Schools Reopened Yesterday—Local Happenings in the Railroad Town.

(By Alf W. Hicks.) Spencer, Jan. 3.—With the beginning of the new year the new road now under construction between Spencer and Yadkin was thrown open to the public from the town limits to Smith's school house, half way to the Yadkin river. The detour by way of Five Row and the P. M. Nussman farm, which gave so much trouble in bad weather and where something like 200 automobiles were pulled out of the mud, has been abandoned. The section of the new road which is now being used is 16 feet wide and a stretch of seven feet on each side is also to be built. Travelers can now get over the highway with ease with the exception of half a mile near the river where the contractors are now at work.

DURHAM HOSIERY MILLS RE-OPEN ON PART TIME. They Will Run Eight Hours a Day Four Days a Week; To Close Next Monday. Durham, Jan. 3.—The Durham Hosiery mills resumed operation today on a working scale of four days a week, eight hours a day, similar to that in force when they closed for Christmas holidays. It was announced, however, that the mills will be closed down next week for the entire week, and will open the following week on a three days a week, eight hours a day schedule. Further than that no plans have been made. A report that they would cut off 40 per cent of their employees was denied by C. McD. Carr, vice president. The tobacco factories here opened today full time, and the Erwin cotton mills and auxiliary plants opened on a four days a week basis which was in force when the closed down for Christmas.

Puts No Blame for Accident. Charlotte, Jan. 4.—Without placing the blame upon any one for the accident at the Dowd road crossing early Saturday when four persons were killed and one injured, the coroner's jury investigating the mishap yesterday morning rendered its decision with the simple statement that the dead persons came to their death by being struck by a Southern freight train. The jury was in session for more than three hours, meeting in the undertaking establishment of Frank Hovis, the coroner.

STRENGTHLESS SEEMED DYING

So Weak She Could Hardly Move, Says Indiana Lady. One Bottle of Cardui Put Her on the Road to Recovery.

Tangier, Ind.—"Four years ago this summer I was sick in bed," writes Mrs. Lillie McElwee, of this place. "I had been under the doctor's care for five weeks. . . I was pretty bad, and I was just as nervous as I could be. . . I could not sleep at night until 10 or 11 o'clock. When I would dose off and wake up I would be all of a tremble with nervousness. "The doctor called my trouble catarrh of the . . . It gave me such pains that at each one it would seem that I could not bear another one. Then I would chill. . . the pains would just seem to shake me all over, and the next day I would be so weak I could hardly move. I would be so utterly strengthless that it would seem as if I were dying. "After one of my bad spells. . . and I had almost died, I picked up the Home Treatment Book and decided to try Cardui. Before I had taken a whole bottle, I could sleep at night. . . I don't remember just how long, but in a short time I was up and helping with the work. Stored Foods

At certain seasons of the year, nature mothers us in generous lavishness; at other seasons she treats us as outcasts. One great service rendered by Swift & Company to the consumer is in taking some of the surplus of nature's plenty and storing it against the season of non-production. This is a service based upon sound common sense and meets a definite economic need. This enables you to obtain all the year round some foods which otherwise would be so abundant in certain months that the entire supply could not be used, and so scarce at other times that prices would be prohibitive. Swift & Company has equipped its plants and branch houses with refrigerating plants, and has a sufficient number of refrigerator cars to carry a supply of meat foods to its customers. Space in public cold storage warehouses also is used by us to carry perishables until they are needed. We store only enough meat, butter, poultry, eggs, and cheese to supply our customers during the period of scarcity and not to speculate on rising prices. Our storage profits during the last eight years have averaged about one cent a dozen on eggs, and less than a cent a pound on butter and poultry. Storage of food is a world necessity and we regard our part in this as an important factor in our service in supplying the nation with wholesome food. Swift & Company, U. S. A.
