NEW SERIES--VOL. IV .-- NO. 15.

WADESBORO, N. C., THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1890.

WHOLE NUMBER, 518

Dyspepsia

after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregu-

Distress some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus Sick overcoming the local symp-toms removes the sympa- Headache headache, and refreshes the tired mind. "I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me Heartlittle good. In an hour after eating I would expe-burn

rience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling. as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a Sour room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsa- Stomach rilla-took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar

LEE D. ROBINSON

ATTORNEY AND COUNCELLOR-AT-LAW, WADESBORO, N. C. Office over E. A. Covington's & Co.'s Drug

Store. All business given prompt attention

Money to Lend!

AT EIGHT PER CENT. For further information apply to T. B. W YATT, Sec. and Treas.

ANSON BUILDING & LOAN ASSO

W. A. ROSE.

GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT

Represents the leading Fire and Life Insurance Companies. Office-Martin Street, Wadesboro, N. C. 6

W. F. GRAY, D. D. S., DENTIST, (Office Over L. Huntley's Store,)

Wadesboro, North Carolina. ALL OPERATIONS WARRANTED.

W. L. Steele,

SURGEON DENTIST. Rockingham, - N. C., Offers his services to the citizens of Anson county. Office fitted up in first class style with all the latest improved instruments. Operative Dentistry a specialty. Upper or lower set of teeth for $10.00. All work war

Anson Institute

WADESBORO, N. C. D. A. MCGREGOR, A B. PRINCIPAL,

THE SPRING TERM MONDAY, JAN. 6TH, 1890

TUITION IN LITERARY DEPARTMENT-$2 $3 and $4 per month.
No deduction made for lost time.

G. W. FORT.

Builder, Contractor & Millwright ADESBORO, N. C.

-0-

all kinds of buildings, from the cheapest to be kissed. Get up. Correspondence solicited. References furn shed on application.

WADESBORO Shaving Emperium.

My Barber Shop is now furnished with the FINEST and most COMFORTABLE Chairs of any town in this section, and all who wish a nice, bloodless shave will find me always at my post, with a steady hand and a desire to please. Hair cut or trimmed in all the latest 'Peggy. please. Hair cut or trimmed in all the intest styles, and we guarantee to please the most fastidious, George Molland is now with me and will be pleased to serve all his old patrons.

Respectfully, RAPH ALLEN.

T. J. INGRAM Corner Wade and Rutherford streets.

WADESBORO, N. C.,

BEEF, Mutton, Pork, Poultry, Butter, life depended on it.

Eggs, Fresh Oysters, Fish, Fruits and Vegetables, And whatever else can satisfy the appetit of a gentleman-always giving the best the market affords.-I will pay the highest market price for Cows Hogs, Sheep, Chickens, Eggs, &c., &c.

I have this day duly qualified before uperior Court of Anson County as admi eater of the estate of the late James dom, Sr., and hereby notify all per as so quiet in de cabin, while ole Hannah could hear de crickets chirpin', eben de ole clock tick.

A LOSS TO THE CABIN.

my feet, de music f'um de kittle ole houn' dog was sleepin'

But jes fo layin' down in slumber, I Hannah ax in prayer,

'Send me down dem guidin' angels, ter light me up de stair;" At fus' I tho't her dreamin', but heard her say,

'Good-bye, ole man, Ise no longer stay. Den I axed de Lord ter spare her her f'um my side; too late, her life had bright angels wid sweet 'round my cabin home, bo' ole Hannah's spirit ter 'er seat at Heaven's throne.

wid de tide.

The End of Peggy Piggot's Courtship.

BY AMANDA REED WILLETT.

We lived in a lonely Western place when Ebenezer courted me. Wild animals were plenty-wolves and bears and deer and panthers. did all our own work, spinning, knitting, weaving, tailoring, every- love Ebenezer. I tried to think why, thing but shoe-making. I was a for there was no denying that he was very 'capable' girl. There was little lean and lank and had red hair. I that I couldn't do, and though I was couldn't give myself any answer. fond of Eben, I was very independent. Women were scarce, and were valued wasn't rich, and he wasn't handsome, accordingly, and I had just as good a but the thought that he would never time as I cared to have. Plenty of come back again nearly broke my work to do; baking, brewing, dyeing. heart. First I cried and then I want Father's clothes, all our dresses, din - ed to beat myself for doing as I'd ners for troops of farm hands in sum | done. I gave the wheel a push that mer time. Plenty of fun, too; bees overset it and sat down before the and parties and singing schools and fire, in mother's rocking chair, with straw rides. More beaux than I could my elbows on my knees, and my chin count. I didn't want to give it all up in my hands. and marry and settle down. I told ben I'd have him some time, and thought he ought to be contented, offer them and some apples and cake though I'd kept him off and on for before he went off. five years. I was five-and-twenty.

I was the sort of wife they wanted been cross; he'd played with the there, and I knew it. So it seemed to me Ebenezer had and agreed with father about politics, no business to be impatient. I'd said and listened to mother's descriptions I'd have him some time; that should of the style she used to live in when have been enough. He courted hard, she was a girl. He'd given me a lot for he was in earnest. He was al- of candy and he'd whispered all sorts ways bothering, and I don't call my- of sweet things in my ear, and there

One Sunday night, he had come with a nasty speech for him to think over early, and he'd been staring at over. me all the evening. I was spinning, No need of it particularly, but it kept | for!' him from talking. I sat in the sitting room, though we might have grew hot with my thoughts. I shoved had the parlor, pretending that work up the window to cool my face, for pressed. It was as dark as Egypt I'd never felt so in my life, except out of doors; neither stars nor moon, once, when I had a feyer. The marks and the snow a foot deep; but the big of Eben's feet going away from me we had lots of lamps and candles. light from the room fell out on the About nine o'clock, the children went packed snow. Beyond, all was dark up-stairs. About ten, mother took a ness; the sky dark; the bare treelamp and went off, and father smoked branches blacker lines on its darkout his pipe and followed. We were ness. The wind was rising: I heard alone, Eben and I; and that minute, it moan, but I heard another sound where I sat, kneel down beside me, A low, long, dreadful sound that I

'Peggy Piggot, what do you think you five years to-night. When will you marry me?'

I pushed him away. to be a married woman, good and hadn't a pistol; he hadn't even a stick; ready, too, and that time hasn't come and the wolves had killed more than yet. Everybody says that courting one man, on hungry winter nights, days are twice as pleasant as married on Hawkleigh Acres. life, and I believe what everybody furnished for the construction of says must be true. There! I won't me later, the beasts would have pass> over pleasant,' he said, 'and I want as I thought what would happen, to settle down. We're neither of us Then I made up my mind to save him very young; I'm thirty and you are if I could, and I ran to the hearth. A twenty-five. Do stop spinning!

> 'Oh, yes; I'm an old maid,' said I. while before was blazing at one end 'You'd better go and find some girl in like a torch, and father's pistols were her teens, don't mind me, I have on the wall and always loaded. plenty of chances when I choose to

> 'Peggy, you know how dearly I love you,' he said. 'I never look at window and pull to the door, for the another girl, but I don't like to be wolves might come that way. Then made a laughing stock of, to be jilted away I went, led on by the black after all, perhaps, for you are a flirt holes on the white snew where Eben's as you know well, Peggy.'

> Now I was fond of Ebenezer. At leigh Acres. hears I did not believe his equal was to be found west of the Rocky Mountains, but I was not to be forced into making myself cheap. My idea was and now I was in the midst of it. A that a man values more what is hard est to get. I went on spinning as if he

'It's according to the way you behave, I said, 'whether I jilt you or with which he flashed the light in her husband have his own way in not, remember that.' 'I behave well enough, I'm sure too It was Eben, well, said Eben. 'I care for no one I was at his side in a moment. else. I come five miles to see you flourished the blazing log over my every night, horse or no horse. I head, and showered the sparks to-Administrator's Notice. for you; I'm ready to furnish it, and were held in check by it. Eben ready, and, as for your exertions in Be on your guard! T

It was hateful of me, but Eben had no time for words. We dared not brought it on himself, by being so turn our backs. Facing the horrible ready to coax me into good nature creatures—how many I shall never again when I was cross. He had know-we fought our way backward never resented anything before. through the deep snow, firing among This time I'd gone too far. He just them, and flinging the fiery sparks got up, took his lantern from the into their red eyes. One or two corner and lit it at the fire; put his dropped, but the rest kept on, angrier hat on his head and went to the door, and more determined than before, Then, without so much as a good- until we stumbled and nearly fell bye, he shut it after him. I laughed, over the edge of the old porch at expected that he'd come back to beg home, burst the door open, and dashpardon in a minute, but I heard his ed the burning brand in the face of steps crushing away through the the beast who strove to follow us, snow until the sound died out; he slammed it to, and were safe. was not coming back; I had done it, this time. I ran to the window and side, but the bolts were strong, and saw far away the light from his lan- soon they rushed away to the chicktern fading into a little speck of red, en coops and the sheep-fold, where and all my pride and vanity and sauciness seemed to die within me. What if Eben never should come back! It looked like it. A thing was seldom lightly done with him.

clerks at the store. 'Rich, old men with forty cows to pockets lined with silk;' but you see I didn't love one of them, and I did Somehow he was my choice. He

The pan of boiled chestnuts was resting on the hearth. I'd meant to

I'd really intended to have a good big and strong, with black eyes and time, but the old boy was in me, kinky black hair, and cheeks like tempting me, and I'd spun, without a peaches. A beauty, they called me. | word hardly, all that evening. Queer All I had to do, if I wanted to settle, spells like that come to folks, you was to say 'Yes' to any one of twenty. know, sometimes. And he hadn't children and told them conundrums, self an angel. It put me out of tem- I'd gone and packed him off without a good word or a mouthful to eat,

'Oh, Eben,' said I, 'what did I do it It was cold, winter weather, but I wood-fire blazed on the hearth, and were plainly to be seen, where the what did he do but come over to also, that made my blood run cold with his arm about my waist, and knew only too well. The howling of a pack of wolves. The weather had been cold and ev-I'm made off I've been courting erything frozen of late. The wolves were fierce with hunger. The wind brought their voices down toward me. I knew which way the wind 'Dear me,' said I, 'when I'm ready blew. Eben had gone that way. He

Had I been kind, had he sat with ed on; but he had just gone out to He got up and sat down in ma's meet them. Blundering on, angry and thinking only of me, he would 'You don't make my courting days | meet them, and then- I gave a shriek good, long brand I had only put on a

> I buckled the belt around my waist stuck them both into it, seized my torch and only stopped to shut the feet had been set on toward Hawk-

The howling of the wolves grew louder, nearer I heard a man's voice. now I saw a little gleam of red light, great crowd of the lean, famished who faced them and still kept them a say so. little at bay by the swinging lantern about. There is Mrs. Smith; she let their eyes as be walked backward, everything.'

We heard the fiends howling outthey found easier prey than we had

Nobody had been a hakened. The fire burned on the hearth, the lamp was alight, there lay my spinning-And if he had gone, I could marry if wheel on its side. Had it really all I liked. I had my choice-Doctor happened, and was it all over?

Crane and Lawyer Lynn, the hand-I was not a girl who often cried. some music teacher and organist at but the thought of what might have Tallahee, and either of the three been the end of it set me sobbing. I looked at Eben, pale and panting, with a great scratch on his hand that milk,' and 'poor young men with a wolf had given him with its teeth, and I forgot all my airs, and fairly threw my arms about his neck.

'Oh! Eben, darling,' I cried; 'what should I have done without you?' 'You do care for me, then?' he said: and he sat down in the rocking-chair, been a little child. We sat there until the gray dawn never teased him again, and a hap pier couple never lived. I think, than he and I. At least, I never knew one.-N. Y. Ledger.

Domestic Uses of Ammonia.

Scientific American. A little ammonia in tepid water will soften and cleanse the skin. Spirits of ammonia will often relieve a severe headache.

Door plates should be cleansed by rubbing with a cloth wet in ammonia If the color has been taken out of silks by fruit stains, ammonia will usually restore the color. To brighten carpets, wipe them with warm water in which has been poured few drops of ammonia. One or two tablespoonfuls of ammonia added to a pail of water will clean windows better than soap.

A few drops in a cupful of warm water, applied carefully, will remove spots from paintings and chromoes, Gresse spots may be taken out with weak ammonia in water: lay soft white paper over, and Iron with a hot

When acid of any kind gets on clothing, spirits of ammonia will kill Apply chloroform to restore the

Keep nickel, silver ornaments, and mounts bright by rubbing with woolen cloth saturated in spirits of am-

Old brass may be cleaned to look like new by pouring strong ammenia on it, and scrubbing with a scrub brush; rinse in clear water.

gallon of warm water will often restore colors in carpets; it will also remove whitewash from them. Yellow stains left by sewing machine oil, on white, may be removed

A tablespoonful of ammonia in a by rubbing the spot with a cloth wet with ammonia, before washing with Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing. even if it be hard and dry. Saturate the spot as often as necessary, and wash out in soap suds. Put a teaspoonful of ammonia in a quart of water, wash your brushes and con.bs in this, and all grease and dirt will disappear. Rinse, shake. and dry in the sun or by the fire. If those who perspire freely would use a little ammonia in the water they bathe in every day, it would keep their flesh clean and sweet, doing away with any disagreeable odor. Flannels and blankets may be soak ed in a pail of water containing one tablespeonful of ammonia and a little suds. Rub as little as possible, and they will be white and clean and will not shrink One teaspoonful of ammonia to a teacupful of water will clean gold or silver jewelry; a few drops of clear aqua ammonia rubbed on the under side of diamonds will clean them immediately, making them very bril-

How Women Ruin Their Husbands. What do you think of this idea of omen ruining their husbands? 'Oh! I think it is quite true.'

'Why, I am shocked to hear you

'Well, she rained him by doing so. He went to the dogs.'

work hard. I've built a pretty home for you; I'm ready to furnish it, and I put by all I can. I do all I can.'

'You really do too much,' said I.

'Don't be so very economical for my sake. You know I have a home alw shrick of:

'And showered the sparas to ward the beasts. For a moment they is everywhere recognized as the is everywhere recognized as the standard building up medicine and blood purifier. It has won its way to the front by its own intrinsic merit, and has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Any honest

VANCE AND THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER. Meckelnburg Times, Alliance Organ.

The last two issues of the Progres sive Farmer contained criticisms on Senator Vance for his attitude towards the Sub-Treasury Bill. The criticisms of the Progressive Farmer have not met with public favor. The newspapers of the State have almost subject, and as the Progressive Farmer circulates largely in this section of the State we deem it our duty to say something on this important subject. As we have before stated in this paper the Sub-Treasury Bill was framed by the Alliance principally to call attention to the condition of agriculture in the United States to the end that some relief might be had However, the bill has won many enthusiastic supporters, and to look at it only on one side it seems to offer the relief farmers want. But any wise man must see that it involves some of the greatest questions of political science that have ever perplexed a statesman. It involves the question of constitutionality and this is a question of vital importance. No measure involving these questions should be hastily considered. The Sub Treasury Bill is a new measure and has only been before the public a short time. Public sentiment has not crystalized on the subject. Citizens inside and outside the Alliance are divided as to being discussed fairly by all and in due time we will know the popular broke, and then he went away; and I | verdict. In the meantime it behooves the advocates of the measure not to be unreasonable.

Senator Vance has carefully considered the bill in reference to its effect upon the welfare of his constituents would benefit the farmer if it should ways been a friend of the people and he has not turned against them now in his old age. In opposing the Sub-Treasury bill he is doing what he considers is for the best interests of the farmers. We advise our readers who are supporters of the Sub Treasury bill to suspend their judgment over Senator Vance until the bill is further discussed and better understood by the public. It may be that we will all agree with Senator Vance after mature consideration. It is often argued that if distillery warehouses, etc., are constitutional why not the Sub-Treasury bill? But it must be remembered that Senator Vance is and has always been opposed to these other unconstitutional measures, and that these other unconstitutional measures were enacted by the Republican party. No man in the Senate of the United States has worked harder to relieve the farmeas from the burdens of taxation than Senator Vance. He is the leading tariff debater in Congress today. He fights for the people in the Senate during the day and at night writes articles for reviews, magazines, and newspapers illustrating the evil effects of the tariff. He has grown gray and worn out one eye in the service of the people and the people are not going back on him now, unless they have gone crazy and lost all sense of gratitude. Of course we don't expect everybody to agree with Senator Vance about everything, but we do expect them to have good sense enough not to condemn him until it is certain that he has done wrong. Let us keep cool on the Sub-Treas ury bill until/the public better understands its merits and demerits.

If all public servants were as true to the people as Senator Vance, the farmers of the country would be pros perous and have nothing of which to

How Grady Got an Advertisement. Rome (Ga.) Tribune

Yeais ago, when Henry Grady was struggling to bring the Rome Commercial into front ranks, he called one day and asked the Rounsaville Bros. for an advertisement. J. W. Rounsaville replied: "Why, Mr. Grady, nobody reads your paper; it is of no use to advertise in it," went to his office and wrote the fol lowing advertisement, which appear ed next morning in the Commercial: HANTED-FIFTY CATS. Liberal price

Well, the picture that presented itof all ages and sizes-boys of all tints, from the fair haired youth to the sable Ethiopian-barefoot boys and ragged boys-redheaded boys, freckle faced boys-town boys and country boys-boys from all parts of Floyd county, blocked up the sidewalk, doorways and streets with bags full 'Well, I know what I am talking of cats-cats of every description, name and order-house cats, yard cats-barn cats, church cats-fat cats and lean cats-honest cats and thievish cats. Well, to make a long story short, the Rounsavilles told Mr. Grady to reserve a column for their advertisement as long as his paper continued.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kulney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 2a cents a vial.

MURDERED BY HIGHWAYMEN. An Inoffensive Citizen Assaulted, Killed and Robbed on the Highway Near Wilmington.

From the Star of 17th inst The community was shocked yesceived of the murder of Mr. Nathan Fails, an inoffensive white man who lived with his family on Masonboro unanimously spoken adversely on the Sound, a few miles from Wilmington. Mr. George Alford, a neighbor, light yesterday morning on his way to his fishing boat, and seeing the mule and cart standing at the gate, looked into the cart and saw the body of the murdered man. Mr. Fails' family were called up and a messenger was at once sent to the city to notify the county authorities. Coroner Jacobs went out and summoned a jury and made an examination of the body. It was found that Mr. Fails han been shot in the top of the head, it is supposed while he was asleep. with his head resting on the side of been cut out and the other turned inside out. The murderer is supposed to have robbed the body of seven or eight dollars. Mr. Fails came to the city Wednes day with a cart load of fish to sell. He had, his family say, four dollars with him, and it is known that he and took me on his knee, as if I'd its practicability. But the matter is sold his fish for three dollars. It was late in the afternoon when the unfortunate man left for home, and from indications he was murdered and robbed between eightand nine o'clock, the cart. His pockets had been rifled, and one pocket of his pants had just beyond the city. It is believed that the murder was committed by some of the colored highwaymen whose depredations and he has expressed his opinion in have so alarmed our country people the farmers of the South need. Give us more plain words and he does not think it and whose continued presence has money-and how? By abolishing the tax on been a reproach to the county author | State banks and the free coinage of silver, sand, an increase of three hundred

> Mr. Fails was about seventy years of age, good natured, harmless old man, small of stature and of slight more of my rights in the hands or keeping a reasonably correct estimate of the value of land after a short examination of it. He observes carefully certain signs which indicate fertility or barrenness of soil. in an article recently published by the chief of the Agricultural College at Downton, England. They constitute a guide by which even the inexperienced agriculturist may judge with some degree of confidence of the productiveness of land. Black indicates barren soil, as the color is in most cases caused by an excess of vegetable matter or peat. White soil is also poor, as it is thin and chalky, or contains white sand near the surface. Yellow also, whether dark or light, light gray, blue, a piebald or variegated color are indicative of pov Good soil should be from twelve to eighteen inches deep. A clearly cut furrow, or a footprint made when the soil is moist, which shows clear, sharp to lose his time, but you canedges and the nail marks, indicates tenacity, a necessary quality in productive soil. In loamy soil the footprint is indistinct, the edges crumble The herbage, which of one kind or another usually covers land, must be taken into consideration. The quality and quantity of this gr. wth is a sure indication of the yielding power

Good and Poor Land.

Plenty of timber is a favorable were rich and their money was in the bank. sign. Large spreading oaks, elms, but one partner referred him to another, and mulberry, walnut, apple and quince trees grow only in good soil. A vigorous growth of ash, sycamore and chestnut indicates a very good

Larches grow on barren uplands and soil which can hardly be put to any other use. Beeches thrive on the get his work, He should bunt him up and out its own destruction. For twelve thinnest of limestone, and birch will grow in unfertile soil. The evidence of plants is impor tant. Chickweed denotes fertility.

Nettles, dandeloins and buttercups do not grow on poor land. Thistles also indicate good soil, Certain wild grasses denote barren ness. Grass land which seems covered with dead, unkempt stuff, like poor. They pay, but it is too late. "Does he self at Rounsaville's corner next badly made hay, is always barren. morning beggars description. Boys The state of the crops should be observed also, though that may indi- de streets and about de postoffice and gets in cate more as to the character of the his way sometimes and den he pay. His

> Is Consumption Incurable? Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, lewark, Ark., says: "Was down with Ab-

Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Ab-scess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says. "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Laug Troubles. Was given up by doctors Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at McLendon & Parsons' Drug Store.

A man's reformation always dates from the last time be was caught .-Atchison Globe:

Zebulon Baird Vance and the Farmers of North Carolina. Cor. Messenger and Intelligencer.

Let him who questions the zeal, integrity or patriotism of Vance, look well to his own ecord. For to Zebulon Vance North Carolina today owes a debt this generation can terday morning by intelligence re- never pay. I ask, who was it that led the forlorn hope, when the fates seemed al against us in our darkest hours of peril when to us it seemed there were none able to rescue us from the terrible maelstrom? I ask who was it that stepped into the turbid current to rescue our almost stranded ship of state from was first to discover the body. He the fate that seemed inevitable? Shall we passed Mr. Fails' place about day- ever prove recreant to him who alone was able to deliver us; a thousand times no, say we. Let those who would malign him or who would question the honesty of his intentions look well to self. He has never occupied on which side the fence to look for him, and when we needed him he was not to look for Who among us so pure as to question the motives that have actuated so pure and incoruptable a patriot. Let my tongue be palsied when it would atter anything derogatory to the standing or influence of such an individual. Take Vance and his influence from us and where will North Carolina be. Back in the dark days of Radical rule and misrepresentation—ready for the iniquitious election law of Reed and his minions. God deliver our people from such a fate and the time when we shall be ulon B. Vance. You, who would malign him, show in only one single instance where even you claim he has proven recreant to the trast reposed in him by the right thinking people of this State. Would that we may may ever have as wise a Statesman to steer our frail barque into the haven of peace Treasury bill. Vance introduced the measure two to thirty five thousand.

but where is the authority that he ever approved it. He did not wish to ignore the will of his constituents; he knew to whom he was endebted for the position he occupied, and he complied with the demands of the Armer and introduced the measure, without at the time committing himself, and when asked for his opinion honestly gave it. I, with Vance, say the Sub-Treasury bill is not what monied rings to contract, and we will be all right. I am bitterly opposed to placing any of the general government. The disposition of the times is too much to centralization althe people of the South to warehouse their cotton allows the Northwest to warehouse The experienced farmer can make the food supplies of the country, which would militate against all hands in factories and machine shops, saying nothing of the classes who inhabit our cities and towns engaged in ture. Farmers, you are more fanatical than I once thought you were. There was a time Some of these indications are given when I gloried in your conservatism; now I say to you, beware of your would-be leaders, lest your last state be worse than your form > cel of the vicious and the hands of our would be friends. Yours for wisdom and peace. LITTLE BROWN CREEK.

Bill Arp's Philosophy. I heard a young man say to his employer. 'Mr. Jones called again to get his money, but couldn't wait, and has gone back to his work. He said he had called three times and you were not in." "Well, let him call again. I can't stay here all the time just to accommodate him. I wonder if he expects me to take his money

Yes, my friend, that is just what Mr. Jones has a right to expect. He ought not to have been forced to call at all. You hired him to do the work. He did it, and it was your duty to have hunted him up and paid him. You are rich and he is poor! He can't afford

This is the tyranny of capital over labor. and this is the cause of the conflict between them. Money is the king and labor is the subject. Just let a man get rich and he gets tyrrannical. There are few exceptions to pend upon the rich for his living! His manhood is crushed, and he feels that he is helpless. Not long ago I saw a struggling young man writhing under this tyranny. He had worked hard in the broiling sun for a month him three weeks to get it. His employers turned said he would attend to it as soon as he had time, and after several failures the ulate its speed, so that when he had young man was referred to the boss of the work for a certificate, and so his patience was tried for days and weeks.

This is all wrong. A man should be just as auxious to pay the laborer as he was to pay him. The sewing woman ought not to have to wait a week for her money. The wash woman out not to call but once. If you have not got it or are not at home, then send it to her as soon as possible. Labor is just as good as money. Honest labor is full scattered in a hundred directions, equivalent for money, and is entitled to as much consideration. Indeed, there is some_ people that is sacred. It is a sin against heaven to withhold their just reward. know men who keep back the wages of the pay you for your work, Uncle Sam!" yes, sir, he pay. He pay when he get 'shamed farming than the quality of the money mighty good money dey say. It draws intrust in his pocket."

A Maid who Prays for Her Husband

A young lady resident of a Western city, not engaged to be married, and unmistakably fancy-free, stated with an air of the most charming Ingeniousness that she prayed every night for her husband, "because you know, if I am to be married my husband is living somewhere in this world, and I pray always that he may be delivered from all temptations, be kept in good health, and be successful in whatever path of business he has "And is this all you pray for

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

Striking Growth of Southern Cit of Southern Cities.

One of the most encouraging, as one of the most surprising res of the census returns is the grow

We are prepared for surprises fro the West. That is a new and rapidly growing section. Immigration from abroad and from other parts of th country has contributed steadily an liberally to the swelling of its popu

But in the South we have not look ed for any exceptional or striking advances in urban population. Such, however, are now disclosed by the returns-increases which far surpass those of many flourishing Northern and even Western towns.

St. Louis, whose population increased from three hundred and ten thousand in 1870 to three hundred and thirty thousand in 1880, now shows more than four hundred and forty eight thousand, an increase of twenty eight per cent. Louisville has grown from a hundred and twenty three to a hundred and eighty thousand; Memphis from thirty three to seventy five thousand; Nashville from forty three to seventy two thousand; Atlanta from thirty seven to sixty five thousand; Savannah from thirty to forty five thousand; Dallas from ten to thirty aise thousand; Galveston from twenty

In the census of 1880 Chattanooga is credited with a population of less than thirteen thousand; it now has, with suburbs, forty five thousand. Birmingham, Ala., then had three thousand; it now has twenty seven thousand, or including suburbs, fifty five thousand. Fort Worth, Texas, has risen from six to thirty one thou-

Such evidence of Southern progress are matters of national congratulation. We trust that the full census returns will show a degree of industrial and commercial prosperity ready, and besides the same law that allows in the South that will surprise the Perpetual Motion.

In a Bangor (Me.) foundry and machine company's machine shops there the various callings of life outside of agricul- has been at work for few years past a well educated Russian, who was forced to leave his native country for political causes. This man, whose name it is thought best not to mention, claims to have discovered not er. The good Lord deliver us from the counonly a perpetual motion, but a motion of ever-increasing velocity, and capable of furnishing power not only for smaller purposes, but the inventor > claims his machine may be constructed so as to furnish power to run the What this machine is like the owner retuses to disclose, but he solemnly asserts that everything is as he says, and he is only now waiting to procure funds to enable him to perfect his invention, procure a patent, and then the whole world may see the machine in operation and judge for themselves of its worth. From such meagre description as has been gathered from the crumbs let fall by this strange wizard of the machine shop the thing consists of the oft-tried wheel, with its swinging" weights and spring; but the method of construction and the action differe this rule. Woe unto the man who has to de- from any yet tried in that the weight, after carrying the wheel down, is sprung back with such force as to drive that side of the wheel up with much more force than that with and had well earned his money, and it took which it comes down, and thus the speed is ever increasing, unless check-

> The wizard said that the first model perfected by him had nothing to regit once started he could do nothing to stop it, so great had become the velocity. Much to his sorrow, he was compelled to leave it and let it work long hours it kept up its ever increasing velocity, when there came a sud den crash, and the inventor rushed into the work-shop to find his model pieces of it having struck the wall with such force as to have imbedded themselves in the wood and mortar. This was several years ago. He new model, which he says will far excel the old one in power. It will be fitted with a governor, though, It is now nearly completely, and ere long Bangor and the world may prepare themselves for a grand surprise. The Russian machinest will then, if his story be true, leave his place at the lathe and take his stand in advance of such scientists and inventors as Franklin, Edison, Steven and others.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known All who have used kloctric Bitters sing same song of praise.—A purer medicina not exist and it is guaranteed to the all the claimed. Electric Bitters will cure a sases of the Liver and Kolneys, will repringles, Boils, Salt Rheum and other tions caused by impure blood.—Will Malaria from the system and prevent as cure all Malarial fevers.—For the datache, Constipution and Judicel.