Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organs soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

ECZEMA CURED

Many people have tried so many remedies for eczema without being materially benefited that they have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for this most distressing disease. That this conclusion is erroneous, and that Hobson's Eczema Ointment will effect a cure is shown by the following unsolicited testimonial of Mr. Venable Wilson, who for many years was a citizen of Wadesboro. Mr. Wilson says:

"This is to certify that for nine years I suffered with eczema, and during that time tried numerous so-called specifics for it, but without effect. But after a few applications of Hobson's Eczema Ointment I was completely cured."

METEOR DROPS NEAR GAFFNEY

Series of Blinding Flashes Preceded Crash and Deafening Explosion Which Shook Houses for a Distance of Two Miles—Citizens Will Probe Yawning Cavity in Search of the Meteor.

Gaffney, S. C., April 7.—The people of the Aratt section, which is located about ten miles from this city, were greatly terrified last Friday night about 8 o'clock when a series of blinding flashes were seen in the sky, followed by a great crash and an awful report. The houses for a distance of two miles around were shaken and the glasses in the windows became loosened by the report. The whole neighborhood was aroused, but all were too frightened to investigate the matter that night. The following morning a squad was formed and several people went to the place from which the report came and a yawning hole was found, about fifteen feet by twenty feet and a little over six feet deep. Nothing else was found.

It is generally believed by the people of the Aratt section that it was a meteor fell, causing the blinding flashes and the great noise. They are all firmly convinced that it could have been nothing else, and the fact that Halley's comet has now become visible in Gaffney lends color to the opinion, they believing that this may have in some way been responsible for the occurrence. No other theory than that it was a comet has been advanced, as it is the only possible thing that would have come through the air and caused such a disturbance.

No effort has been made to see whether or not it has buried in the hole and the speculations as to whether or not it was really a comet are rife in Gaffney and the above named community. Doubtless an effort will be made at once to dig into the hole and if possible to locate the object and doubtless some interesting developments will then arise. If it be a meteor and is anywhere near as large as is the hole that was made, it must indeed be wonderful. Meanwhile the people of Aratt are much excited over the matter and are very anxious to learn the cause of the peace of the community being disturbed.

A Useful Work.

It was hard work selling books. The volumes, one of which the agent had to carry with him as a sample, were bulky and heavy, and nobody seemed to want them. But the agent was a persistent fellow, and even the stubborn Mrs. Butts could not send him away unheard. "We have all the books we can use," she was saying, and we really can't afford any more reading matter. Why I haven't even opened the second volume of that Roman History you sold us last spring. Now, if you were selling one of those adjustable ironing boards—

"I've got just the thing," said the agent, cheerfully. "There are twelve books in this set, and you can use either one, two or three, and so on up to six, to fit your board any way you want to. And between while, when your iron is heating, you have good literature right at hand."

LITTLE SUFFERER FROM ECZEMA

Grew Worse in Spite of Six Months of Ablest Treatment—Face, Head and Hands Masses of Dreadful Humor.

A SINGLE SET OF CUTICURA CURED HIM

"I feel it my duty to let you know with what success I have used the Cuticura Remedies. When our baby was seven weeks old he broke out with what we thought was heat but which gradually grew worse. He called in a doctor. He said it was eczema and from that time we doctored six months with three of the best doctors in Atchison but he only got worse. His face, head and hands were a solid sore. There was no end to the suffering for him. We had to tie his little hands to keep him from scratching. He never knew what it was to sleep well from the time he took this Cuticura until he was cured. He kept us awake all hours in the night and his health wasn't what you would call good. We tried everything but the right thing. Fine! I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies and am pleased to say we did not use all of them until he was cured. We have waited a year and a half to see if it would return but it never has and to-day his skin is clear and fair as it possibly could be. I hope Cuticura may save some one else's little one's suffering and also their pocket-books. John Leason, 1403 Atchison St., Atchison, Kan., Oct. 19, 1909."

Cuticura comfort for all who suffer from facial eruptions such as acne (pin-heads and blackheads), seborrhea, facial eczema, ringworm, tetter, redness, roughness and oily perspiration is found in gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment followed by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. For preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants, children and adults, Cuticura Soap and Ointment are priceless. Cuticura Soap (25c), Cuticura Ointment (50c) and Cuticura (50c) are in the form of a chocolate coated Pineapple. They are sold throughout the world. Cuticura Drug & Chem. PRACTICAL NURSING PAPERS.

3. THE CURE OF A PATIENT.

Youth's Companion.
When caring for a patient one must always bear in mind the tendency of the skin to break down and form bed sores. This painful complication may be avoided by taking proper precautions. Bed-sores result from continuous pressure, and occur most frequently on the hips, the lower part of the back, the shoulders and heels.

Preventive treatment consists in absolute cleanliness, the removal of pressure, and the use of alcohol and a drying powder.

Do not wait for the hips and back to become reddened and sensitive; rub them gently twice a day with alcohol, and dust thoroughly with some kind of powder which will absorb moisture. The best is stearate of zinc. The elbows, ankles and knees often become irritated from constant friction with the bedclothes. They should be treated in the same manner.

The morning treatment should be given during the bath. Place among the articles for the bath a bottle of alcohol and a box of powder with a bit of absorbent cotton; by using them as soon as a part has been washed the patient is saved extra turning and exertion.

A change of position is advisable. When it is possible the patient should be turned on his side, the back being supported by a pillow well tucked in. If for any reason the patient must be kept on his back a pillow may be slipped under each side, thus relieving the weight under the centre of the back. In this position it is grateful to have the knees drawn up and supported by a pillow, which has been rolled and tied firmly with a strip of bandage or muslin. Pressure may be removed by means of a rubber ring, which can be bought at any drug-gist's, and rings of any size can be made at home by placing a roll of cotton batting in a circle and winding it around with narrow gauze bandage. The whole should come under the tender spot. If in spite of all the bedsores form, the doctor should be told of it at once.

In cases of fever, or where there is much perspiration, a hair pillow is the best kind to use. Several small pillows may always be used to great advantage; they may be tucked under the patient's back in a dozen different ways. White India silk covers are most agreeable to the touch; they do not crush, and have the added merit of being very easy to launder.

A patient who is ill enough to be kept flat in bed should have the night dress opened in the back, so as to have it put on with the least possible exertion. Tear the night-dress up the middle of the back as far as the yoke or neckband; then it can be slipped over the head, the sleeves drawn down on, and the edges smoothed under the shoulders without lifting. Do not hem the torn edges, as they would make ridges under the back. After the patient is well, the night dress can be sewed up again. If a patient complains constantly of feeling cold, outting flannel night dresses may be used. This is much better arrangement than putting on an undergarment.

At the very beginning of illness a woman's hair should be carefully combed. In this way one avoids the tangling and matting which makes the combing of the hair an ordeal, and may even make cutting it off a necessity if it is neglected. The most comfortable way to dress the hair is in two braids, one being taken to draw each well over the side, and to braid low down, just below the ear, so that she will not have to lie on two hard lumps of hair. It should not be allowed to get unclean for more than 24 hours. The brushing or combing should be done gently but firmly; always begin at the ends and work upward, the hair being grasped by the left hand and at some point between the comb and the head. Do not attempt the arrangement of the whole braid at once if the patient is fatigued by it. Comb one braid, and later in the day do the other.

The mouth and teeth are to be carefully looked after, and kept as clean and sweet as possible. Twice a day, or after each meal, attention should be paid to them. Any agreeable mouth-wash may be used. Baking-soda may be added to water; listerin is cleansing; a solution of lemon-juice and glycerin and water is refreshing. Swabs, made by twisting a bit of absorbent cotton firmly on the end of a toothpick, are excellent for cleaning the teeth; or a small piece of surgeon's gauze or cheese-cloth may be wrapped round the index finger, dipped in the wash and inserted in the mouth. These should be burned as soon as they are used. Every portion of the cavity should be gone over—the roof of the mouth, the tongue, the gums, and the inside of the teeth.

These methods are used when the patient is too helpless to use a toothbrush. When he is strong enough to use a brush he may do so without sitting up. He can easily empty his mouth by turning his head to one side, and having a small bowl held close to the mouth. The lips are prevented from cracking by keeping them soft with cold-cream.

The sick-room should never be used as a gathering-place for the family. The air is soon exhausted by the presence of several persons, and the patient is greatly disturbed by talking. Quiet is imperative during the acute stage of any illness. Only the person who is caring for the invalid should stay in the room, and her services are all the more grateful if she carries her work forward without noise or excitement.

Absolute cleanliness is the first principle to observe in the care of all vessels and utensils used about the sick-room. Do not allow them to remain soiled; use boiling water and soap promptly and generously. Disinfectants are imperative in many cases, but their use must be directed by a doctor or trained nurse.

Permanent stains on linen may be avoided by soaking and washing out in cold water and ammonia before using hot water.

It is better to wear a wash dress in the sick-room. If this is not convenient, at least cover the dress with a clean apron, which will serve at once to protect the clothing and to give the look of freshness so grateful to the invalid.

FOR CORPORATION COMMISSIONER.

Card of John H. Pearson Announcing His Candidacy for Corporation Commissioner.

To the Democrats of North Carolina: I adopt this method of making known to the Democrats of the State the fact that my name will be presented to the next Democratic State Convention for nomination as Corporation Commissioner to succeed Hon. Samuel Rogers, whose term will expire next year.

If chosen by the convention, which means election at the polls, I propose to serve every citizen of the State, whether natural or artificial. My object will be to promote the welfare and business prosperity of the people of all classes and conditions, while I shall be watchful to protect the people from oppression. The enormous growth of corporate powers and influence in all things political, social, economical and even educational should warn us that the side of safety for public rights lies in the careful selection of public agents who are at least free from obligation to those whose interests are to come before them for adjudication and control. Without intimating that our convention could mistake its man and certainly without disparagement of any possible candidate, I claim for myself to be wholly free of any alliance with those corporations, for whose regulation it was the purpose of the statute creating the corporation commission.

The two commissioners whose terms will not expire next year both live east of the Coast Line Railway, while the successor of Mr. Rogers should be taken from that section lying west of Greensboro, which is the center of the state. The people living west of Greensboro do not concede the right of Democrats living in the Tenth Congressional District and controlling less than one-tenth of the Democracy of the state to claim the exclusive right to represent the entire section. I live in a congressional district which gives over 3,000 majority to the party, and in a county safely Democratic. We claim reward for electing E. Y. Webb, not for the Waterloo crawl of such a noble leader as Wm. R. Crawford.

TERRIBLE CROUP.

My little boy, who is four years old, has suffered a lot with croup. On several occasions we thought he was gone. After trying all the old time remedies and most of the new, I came home one night at midnight, and my wife said, "The boy has the croup again—suppose you get a bottle of Hyomei." "More junk," I said, "but we will circulate our money so they will get some."

I hastened to an all night drug store, brought it home. In fifteen minutes he was breathing easier. In fifteen minutes he was sound asleep. It broke the croup so quickly it scared me.

Anyone wishing to cure the croup of a child I hope will give Hyomei a trial.

Wishing you the best of success, which you surely deserve, I remain,
Jos. E. Clark, 204 6th St. S. E., Washington, D. C., Oct. 7, 1909.

Hyomei is a remarkably effective remedy in case of croup and it should be in every home where there is a croupy child. Full instructions how to cure croup comes with each outfit.

ANCIENT WEDDING RINGS THE SOUTH AND THE UNION.

Only Form of Jewelry Permitted To The Early Methodists.

New York Times.
In the "Isle of man" the wedding ring was formerly used as an instrument of torture. Cyril Davenport, in his book on "Jewelry," remarks that there once existed a custom in that island, "according to which a unmarried girl who had been offended by a man could bring him to trial and if he were found guilty she would be presented with a sword, a rope and a ring. With the sword she might cut off his head; with the rope she might hang him, or with the ring she might marry him. It is said that the latter punishment was that invariably inflicted.

The wedding ring, which was tolerated by the Methodist, was anathema to the early Puritans, who regarded personal adornment as one of the many snares of Satan. Wesley, who was a high churchman, probably recognized its symbolical value. In the old English marriage service it was the custom for the bridegroom to put the ring on the thumb of the bride, saying, "In the name of the Father," then on the next finger saying, "and the Son," then on the third finger, saying, "and of the Holy Ghost," finally on the fourth finger, with the word "Amen."

The ring was left there, because, as the Sarum rubric says, "a vein proceeds thence to the heart." In the modern marriage service the ring is placed at once upon the third finger, the invocation to the Trinity being understood.

The wedding ring was the only form of jewelry permitted to the early Methodists, and there are people still living who recall how no longer than 40 years ago they were reproved by old Methodist ministers for breaking the rules of membership which forbade (and technically still forbid) Methodist to wear gold, jewels or costly apparel; but with fine courtesy John Wesley knew when to ignore breaches of his own regulations.

In visiting a house one of the preachers drew Wesley's attention to the host's daughter, who was wearing several jeweled rings; but instead of the rebuke which his preacher sought to evoke Wesley only gravely and gently remarked, "A very beautiful hand."

It is just as important that you be clean inside as outside—no so, in fact. Unless your system is entirely cleansed of all impurities, you can not be one hundred per cent healthy, physically or mentally. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is the greatest systemic cleanser known. Parsons Drug Co.

From the Farmville, Va., Herald.

As the war cloud was gathering, Senator Seward, of New York, said on the floor of the Senate in exultant tones, that "the power had departed from the South, and henceforth the great North, stronger in population and in the roll of sovereign States, would take the power of Government and become responsible for its administration."

To these remarks Senator Hammond, of South Carolina, made this splendid reply: "Sir, what the Senator says is true. The power has passed from our hands into yours, but do not forget it, it cannot be forgotten, it is written upon the brightest pages of history, that we, the slave holders of the South, took our country in its infancy, after ruling for near 60 out of the 70 ye rs of her existence, we return to you without a spot upon her honor, matchless in her splendor, incalculable in her power, the pride and admiration of the world. Time will show what you will do with her, but no time can dim our glory, or diminish your responsibility."

Truly, eloquently and convincingly said. Power all gone, but honor remains as fixed as the stars. Lift high your heads, ye sons of the South, and if you never again wield the scepter, rejoice and be glad in the rich inheritance which is yours. Your fathers fought the good fight, kept the faith and placed upon the brow of the nation the crown which still dazzles the world with its brilliancy and splendor.
