

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach.
Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

WILLIAM CLIPPARD COMMITS SUICIDE.

Lost His Money With Show Gamblers Saturday and Killed Himself Sunday Morning.

Maiden correspondence of Newton Enterprise.

One of the saddest tragedies in the history of Caldwell's township, Catawba county, occurred at the home of Andrew Clippard five miles east of Maiden Sunday morning.

Young Clippard and his sister went to see the show that was to be there on that day. Young Clippard was in copartnership with his brother-in-law, Mr. Mark Turbyll, and Mr. Robert Jones in a sawmill. It seems that the company had received a check for $75 which they gave to young Clippard to get cashed while he was in Newton, and while in the show he got into a gambling game and loses all the money, he has with him.

He tells his sister his trouble on his way home, and requests her to keep it a secret from his father and mother.

There was nothing unusual in his actions noticed by his parents or any of his family. Sometime Sunday morning his mother walked into his room where he was writing in a tablet and made the remark to him that she was looking for a tooth brush and Bill looked up to her and smiled. In a short time the family and several visitors were alarmed by the muffled report of a gun. His father, Andrew Clippard, rushed to the front of the house and into the yard, and to his horror, saw his son in the last throes of death, with a 12 gauge breech loading shot gun at his feet, just in front of where he had stood. The young man never spoke, only gave a few struggles and was dead.

Young Clippard was an estimable young man of exemplary habits, about 28 years old. Had not an enemy in the world, and was sought after by young and old alike, because of a lovable disposition.

The saddest part of the whole affair is the deliberate manner in which he went about his death.

The following is what was found in the tablet in which his mother saw him writing when she went into his room looking for her tooth-brush.

Maiden, N. C.
Apr. (May) 8, 1910.
Dear Mother and All,
I am in distress this Sunday morning. I feel as I never felt before. I don't want you to trouble about me any more than you can help, but, alas, I know it will nearly run you crazy.

Mama and papa, remember your boy.

Sisters and brothers, remember your beloved brother.

Friends and loved ones, All, remember "Bill," as he is no more with you.

I have had a tough road all my life so far as myself is concerned. I now have the gun under the corner of the house and it will soon be over.

I don't mean that I was not treated with kindness at home, I love my home and my father, mother, sisters and brothers. But, oh, God! I have lost my confidence in life. Everything is dark and gloomy before me this lovely morning.

My trouble will soon kill me anyway, and the sooner the better. So, mother don't weep for me, I am better off dead than alive. I lost my all and all, so there is no rest for me.

The show man got my money, I lost my friends and my hope in life.

Alas! so I end it all.

I will tell the true story of how it was I lost our money. I fooled with another man's trick and he got all the money I had in my possession; $25 of my own and $25 each of my 2 partners.

But, still, he (the show man) enjoyed it. I had friends who were willing to help me, yet I would not except (accept) it.

Friends, I don't want you to think it was this little loss that caused me to take my life, I just mentioned it because it is fresh on my mind this morning.

I have another cause, a greater one than this, which will always remain a hidden secret.

Mother I can hardly do as I am now about to do, but I must do something and I don't know what to do, so I will settle it all.

Tell Mr. Jones and Mark to take all I have in the world in place of the money I lost of theirs, if they want it.

I am now done with it all.

Mama, good bye.
Father, good bye.
Sisters, good bye.
Brothers, good bye.
Friends, good bye.
Your ruined boy,
Harry Clippard.

This is found on the back of one of the forward sheets that he had already written on one side of.

"My nerves are all unstrung
My heart is all upset
I know not what I write
I do hope it is written so you can understand it all and what it all means."
Bill."

"I was called in by a close-listed old merchant the other day," a Boston lawyer remarked, smiling. "He wanted me to draw his will, and this I proceeded to do, following his verbal instruction. Presently he said: "To each and every clerk who has been in my employ for 10 years I give $10,000.

"This seemed like a considerable sum to me, and I ventured a slight protest, as he had a number of daughters and his entire fortune was not large.

"Oh that's all right," he said, with a little crooked smile. "You know, people have always said that I was close and hard, and I want them to think well of me when I'm gone."

"I was a little touched and said something, but he waved it aside and we continued with the draft. When it was finished and as I was about to leave the office, the old fellow smiled again his little crooked smile.

"About those $10,000 legacies," he said, "there isn't a clerk in my place who has been with me over two years—but it will look well in the papers!"—Green Bag.

LAST WEEKS COTTON REVIEW.

New York, May 13.—Unquestionably the bull's hand has been on the lever during the past week when prices have advanced $3 @ $4 a bale on the present crop and $1.50 @ $2 on the new crop. An interesting feature of the week is that even August and September have begun to wake up. July has been really the center of events, however, and the May option though undoubtedly strong has to some extent been relegated to the background. May shorts have not a great deal of time remaining in which to make large deliveries if they intend to do so. The story is that the South has been secured for cotton to send here without the success which was at one time expected. Some unbiased observers put the situation in this blunt fashion:

"The bears have been whipped and cotton is going to 17 cents." However this may be the tone of late has undoubtedly been strong. Spinners' takings have recently increased sharply. Receipts at the ports and interior towns have been small. The statistical position has steadily gained strength.

The spot demand at the South is said to have increased materially and prices there have been buoyant. At Liverpool the spot sales have ranged from 10,000 to 15,000 bales a day. At Alexandria, Egypt, prices have advanced over 200 points. The certificated stock here which was recently increasing rapidly has latterly turned the other way. Moderate decreases have taken place. The other day freight room was engaged for 25,000 bales for shipment to Europe and 0,000 to 60,000 to be sent South. On Thursday over 5,000 bales were actually exported from New York, more than 6,000 bales were sold in addition. According to the government reports the rainfall has been much below normal of late in Texas, Alabama and Mississippi as well as in Louisiana, Arkansas, Florida. Trade in England and Germany has recently improved. Fall River's sales of print cloths show some tendency to increase. Yet it is true that some of the crop reports from the South are very favorable. The outlook in Texas is said to be on the whole good. Leading bulls have been quietly selling July freely here on the rise to secure profits. The heavy covering of late has necessarily reduced the short interest materially. General speculation suffers from the fact that the market is so largely dominated by a pool. With current prices of cotton so high it is expected that the South will bend every energy to raise as big a crop as possible. The recent advance has been so sharp and rapid that some are looking for at least a temporary setback. On the whole, however, bullish influences, as may be gathered from the sharp advance, have predominated. Friday was another bull day with a big leap in prices. This was followed by a setback on heavy liquidation.

A FRAGMENT.

Uncle Remus' Magazine.

The following dialogue is not the invention of a dramatist, but a fragment of actual conversation.

"Look at that kid running an automobile! When I was his age, if I had a pair of dollar roller-skates, I thought myself a king."

"I never had more than one of a pair in my whole life, and was thankful for it!"

"I had a pair, but, by thunder, I had to steal them!"

The speakers set their jaws grimly and shook their heads gravely as they uttered these words.

They set their jaws grimly because they remembered their early struggles and limitations. No rich father gave them playthings! What they had, they got for themselves, by hook or by crook! Perhaps it embittered them, to think how their childhood was defrauded of its natural joys. Perhaps they recalled with a warrior's pride the battles they had fought and won. Such reminiscences make men's jaws grow rigid, for the fighting was hard, however glorious.

It was not, however, the grim setting of their jaws so much as the shaking of their heads which impressed us listeners. They shook their heads because they wondered what kind of a generation of men was to grow out of these boys who play with expensive toys like automobiles and motor boats for the possession of which they never so much as lifted a finger! This question is quite enough to make all grave men shake their heads. Never before in the whole history of the world has youth been subjected to more terrible tests than in our day. The greatest luxuries of the last generation have become the sheerest necessities of the present one. I know young boys who are actually incensed at their parents because they have not been given six cylinder racers!

What kind of men these lads are going to make when they either live in idleness on their father's money, or, if he loses his money, have to begin at the bottom of the ladder and dig for their daily bread, is rather a problem, even for the most hopeful.

As a matter of fact, the gravest problems of our day are those which arise from the love or the hatred of wealth. There are, indeed, two kinds of money madness, and which of the two is the worse we hardly know. In the first place, there is the madness for money, and, in the second place, there is the madness against money! The former produces luxury, idleness and vice; the latter, jealousy, hatred and possible revolution.

After listening to the brief dialogue of those three men on the street corner, our own mind settled back upon the conviction that the man who leaves a son a fortune does him an irreparable injury. Give it to your daughters; use it to endow charities; but do not entail that terrible burden on your boys. Teach them to work. Compel them to hustle. Do not, for the love of Heaven, deprive them of the pleasure of earning their roller-skates and automobiles. And yet—poverty made one of those boys steal his skates! Verily it is a hard problem and the only solution appears to be the prayer of Agar—"give me neither poverty nor riches."

DEPUTY SHERIFF GRANT.

! "Stamped" Again.

Youth's Companion.

When General Grant held the rank of captain, but then out of the government service, his father, the head of the firm of Grant & Company, sent him to Prairie du Chien to collect a large overdue bill from a man named Ammen. When he arrived, he heard that the merchant had closed his store, armed himself with a shotgun, and threatened death to any one who should attempt to enter. Grant quietly went to work getting the necessary legal papers drawn up, and then, accompanied by his lawyers and the sheriff, started for Ammen's store. A writer in Harper's Weekly tells what happened.

The sheriff commanded Ammen to open the door. There was no reply. The sheriff repeated the order three times, and then Ammen was heard to say:

"I will not open the door, I will kill you or any of your crowd if you dare to force your way in here."

The sheriff told Captain Grant and the lawyer that the old man was desperate, and was sure to kill some one.

There was hesitancy on the part of the sheriff, whereupon Grant quietly said, "If you don't want to risk it, make me a deputy and I'll try it."

The sheriff appointed him at once, and then Deputy Sheriff Grant called out, "As an officer of the law, Mr. Ammen, I command you to open this door!"

"I refuse," came the answer, "and again I warn you that death aw. its any man who breaks into this store."

Deputy Sheriff Grant stepped back a few yards, and then, running swiftly forward, he planted both feet against the door and knocked it off its hinges.

There stood the old merchant, gun in hand, but he seemed to be dazed. Grant walked past him, and went directly into the office. Then he removed his hat and called to the merchant:

"Mr. Ammen, get rid of that gun and come in here! I want you to help me take an account of our firm's part in this stock of goods."

The old man promptly obeyed. After it was all over, the lawyer asked Grant if he did not think his life had been in danger. Grant unstrapped from his waist a belt in which he carried a splendid six-shooter Colt's revolver. He said:

"My life was not in danger for a moment. Ammen's life was in grave danger."

"In the Hands of His Friends."

Youth's Companion.

A correspondent of the Companion who has observed many instances of the good understanding which prevails between the negroes and the white neighbors in the Southern States tells the story of a colored man who left his South Carolina home to become a barber in an Illinois city. Not long afterward a negro was lynched in this town, and fears of a "race riot" were entertained.

A customer entering the shop found the barber packing up his tools, and learned that he proposed to return to South Carolina.

"There's too much lynching going on in these parts," declared he. "Tain't safe round hyar."

"Well," replied the customer, "don't you know there are just as many lynchings down South as there are here?"

"Yes, sir, I 'spect dat's true," was the reply, "but if I's lynched hyar I dunno who's gwine do it, but if I's lynched down dar, I knowe I's gwine be lynched by my friends."

ITCHING OF SCALP INTOLERABLE

Nearly Wild with Painful, Burning Eruption—Half Her Hair Fell Out and Combining It Was Torture—Feared She Would be Bald.

IN DESPAIR UNTIL CURED BY CUTICURA

"Just about two years ago, some form of humor appeared on my scalp. The beginning was a slight itching but it grew steadily worse until, when I combed my hair, the scalp became raw and the ends of the comb-teeth would be wet with blood. Most of the time there was an intolerable itching, in a painful, burning way, very much as a bad raw burn, if deep, will itch and smart when first beginning to heal. Coming my hair was positive torture. My hair was long and tangled terribly because of the blood and scabs. This continued growing worse and over half my hair fell out. I was in despair, really afraid of becoming totally bald.

"Sometimes the pain was so great that when I awoke, I would scratch the worst places so that my finger-tips would be bloody. I could not sleep well, and after being asleep a short time, that awful stinging pain would commence and then I would wake up nearly wild with the torture. A neighbor said it must be salt rheum. Having used Cuticura Soap merely as a toilet soap before, I now decided to order a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I used them according to directions for perhaps six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated. But toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor. I commenced the Cuticura treatment at once, so had very little trouble. On my scalp I used about one half a cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment in all. The first time I took six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated. But toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor.
