ECZEMA CURED

Many people have tried so many remedies for eczema without being materially benefited that they have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for this most distressing disease. That this conclusion is erroneous, and that will effect a cure is shown by the following unsolicited testimonial of Mr. Venable Wilson, who for many years was a citizen of Wadesboro. Mr. Wilson says:

"This is to certify that for nine years I suffered with eczema, and during that time tried numerous so-called specifics for it, but without effect. But after a few applications of Hobson's Eczema Ointment I was completely cured."

36 CONVICTS DIE IN FIRE.

Stockade Ignited By One of Them in the Hope of Escaping.

Centerville, Ala., May 16.—Thirty-six negro convicts lost their lives early today, when the stockade of the Redfeather Coal Company, at Duclie mines, Bibb county, about 15 miles north of Centerville, was destroyed by a fire, set by one of the prisoners in an effort to gain his freedom.

Thirty-five of the convicts were burned to death and another was fatally shot by guards while trying to escape. Among those burned is the negro who started the blaze.

The fire spread rapidly throughout the structure, which, on account of the extreme dryness of the material, was quickly consumed.

It was with much difficulty that the unharmed convicts in the stockade were prevented from eluding the guards.

All of the convicts at Lucile mines are State prisoners, leased to the Redfeather Coal Company for work in the mines.

It is reported that all of the convicts at the Lucile camp were negroes. So far as known none of the workmen escaped.

Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. SOME THINGS "LITTLE BROWN CREEK" DOES NOT LIKE.

Mr. Editor: As a nation, both in state and church, are we not putting off the cloak of democracy and putting on the garb of autocracy? As a nation, we started a democracy in its simplicity, when $25,000 was considered a sufficient salary to supply the wants of our chief magistrate for one year. How about it now, when $100,000 will not keep him up to the satisfaction of the aristocratic nabobs who inhabit our national city and who get their great wealth by questionable means. One innovation after another, submitted to tamely, makes it easy for such characters to carry their point, and the time is not far distant when $1,000,000 will not be considered too much for a great, progressive nation like ours to pay their chief magistrate.

Now, the paying of this latter amount would not be a great burden if it did not come from the hard earnings of the toiling millions, who bear the burdens of all taxations. Some may say that the men of great wealth pay taxes. Granted; but where did this wealth come from? They gathered it from taxes in some form from the producers of wealth.

To remedy this growing evil, as a nation, we must get back to first principles, and send men to Congress who belong to the tax paying or producing class, who can live decently on the salaries paid our forefathers. As long as we continue to send men of questionable antecedents and character we may expect the trend of autocracy to grow until its strength will defy democracy, and the last vestige of our boasted liberty will be a thing of the far distant past. Your boasted liberty is being curtailed year by year by those you have trusted as your guardians. If you would be free no remedy is left you but to throw off their yoke and get new guardians.

I believe in paying a salary to every officer, from president to township constable, according to amount of labor performed and the responsibility involved. I do not believe it to be conducive to the best service to pay any officer in fees or commissions, it matters not whether county, state or nation, and to pay such salaries only as the labor involved would pay in any other calling. Get back to Democratic simplicity, if you can. Else, throw up the sponge and give the autocrats full sway without protest.

Now, I have noticed for quite a while the tendency of the churches to ape the autocrats of the government. In other words, we have autocrats in the churches, who would have the masses subscribe to their way, thereby circumventing the rights of those who are in the main keeping up the different churches by their means. The preachers are not the whole church, as I view it, but they are, as now constituted, the law makers. So they are virtually the whole church, for no law can be passed over their protest, and every law they now pass looks to centralization. That is, they are curtailing the power of the layman wherever it conflicts with their idea of what is best for the church from a monied standpoint. They do not now allow the churches to say who their stewards shall be. They think the preachers know better than the laymen who will likely be able to raise most money, whether he be a Godly man or not. And if one should be so silly as to kick against the innovation they would, if they dared, speedily unchurch him. You can not say whom your Sunday school superintendent shall be, nor whom you would have as your local preachers. This power has all been taken from you. The ones who are sustaining the present day churches have no voice in the counsel of the church. This is not Democracy, much less Re-

LITTLE BROWN CREEK.

The one way to remedy this flagrant injustice is for the women of the churches to stay home for awhile until the autocrats learn the source from which they get their bread. Hunger will bring most men to their senses.

The churches are fast coming to the one man rule, and sooner or later the eyes of the people will be open. Then a reaction, or distraction, which our churches are becoming too tolerant in some particulars. They allow the ones who care not how they get the dollar, so that dollar goes to the support of the church, to hold high positions in the churches. They are too tolerant in that they wish to rule the preachers' way, leaving the preachers out of it. As we view it, it takes the laity to constitute the church, and not the clergy, as they seem to think. Sooner or later this fact will be made manifest, or a disruption will take place. When men view the churches as being of God, and not man's inventions, then men will demand that they be run on Godly lines, and not, as now, too much on commercial lines.

As I have before stated, the women are the ones who attend church services, who are measurably responsible for their support, in many instances acting as stewards, making collections, etc., and this against the rules and laws of the church. And when she asks to be placed in position to legally transact this most important duty her privilege is denied by the ones she has so faithfully labored for. I leave this for the ones to decide who should, from this point of view, love her most. The ones, last at the cross, first at the grave.

A college professor who was always ready for a joke was asked by a student one day if he would like a good recipe for catching rabbits. "Why, yes," replied the professor. "What is it?"

"Well," said the student, "you crouch down behind a thick stone wall and make a noise like a turpentine."

"That may be," said the professor with a twinkle in his eye, "but a better way than that would be for you to go and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage heads and look natural."—Ladies' Home Journal.

"Horses fed and bedded down?" asked the farmer, and he took from his pocket a cigar with a gilt band about it.

"Yes, Adoniram."

TEN COTTON PICKERS.

The Price-Campbell Cotton Picker Corporation to Operate Ten Machines This Fall, Mostly in Texas.

Textile Manufacturers' Journal

The prospectus of the Price-Campbell Cotton Picker Corporation that has just been issued indicates that the officers of his company intend to proceed with the development of the machine in much the same careful manner followed by Theodore Price in the promotion of the company. They have one complete machine that has been demonstrated in Southern fields, and are now having ten perfected machines built by the Taft-Pierce Company, Woonsocket, R. I., under the supervision of Angus Campbell, the inventor. These will be completed in ample time for use in harvesting the current crop and will be largely used in Texas. In his prospectus Mr. Price states that in his opinion the machine is a complete success. He further states that "operated by one man and a boy it can pick as much cotton as forty men can by hand in the same time, and it picks a much larger proportion of the available cotton than is usually gathered by hand. In addition to picking cotton I believe the machine can be, by slight alterations, adapted to plowing, planting, cultivating and 'chopping out' the cotton, so that it should be capable of profitable employment a large part of each year."

As has been previously noted in these columns the authorized capital stock is $8,000,000 divided into $1,250,000 preferred and $7,250,000 common stock of a par value of $100. The officers are as follows: President Theodore Price; first vice president, W. H. Brown, Pittsburg, Pa.; second vice president, Ellwood Hendrick; New York City; treasurer, Russell R. Coates, New York City; secretary, William P. Wood, New York City. Among the directors identified with the textile trade are Herbert E. Walmsley, agent Wamsutta mills, New Bedford, Mass.; Stephen C. Lowe, Boston, Mass., and Frank P. Sheldon, Providence, R. I. Among the prominent stockholders are many cotton manufacturers and cotton growers. It is noteworthy that the stock of this company is not being offered for public subscription, but is being distributed in a quiet way among friends of the officers and original stockholders.

"SAID THE CHILDREN UP IN HEAVEN."

Selected.

Who wrote this exquisite poem? One who loves little girls can scarcely read it aloud, because of the lump in his throat, as he remembers Fanny, and Alice, and Josephine, and Louise, and many another darling small friend now numbered with God's saints in glory everlasting.

"And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof."—Zach. 8:5.

"Oh, what do you think the angels say?" Said the children up in heaven; "There's a dear little girl coming home to-day, She's almost ready to fly away From the earth we used to live in; Let's go and open the gates of pearl, Open them wide for the new little girl," Said the children up in heaven.

"God wanted her here where His little ones meet," Said the children up in heaven; "She shall play with us in the golden street; She has grown too fair, she has grown too sweet For the earth we used to live in; She needed the sunshine, this dear little girl, That glows this side of the gates of pearl," Said the children up in heaven.

"So the King called down from the angels' dome," Said the children up in heaven; "My little darling, arise and come To the place prepared in the Father's home.

The home the children live in." Let's go and watch the gates of pearl, Ready to welcome the new little girl," Said the children up in heaven.

"Far down on earth do you hear them weep?" Said the children up in heaven; "For the dear little girl has gone to sleep! The shadows fall and the night clouds sweep Over the earth we used to live in; But we'll go and open the gates of pearl! Oh, why do they weep for their dear little girl!" Said the children up in heaven.

"Fly with her quickly, O angels, dear!" Said the children up in heaven; "See—she is coming! look there! look there; At the Jasper light on her sunny hair, Where the yelling clouds are riven!" Ah! hush, hush, hush! All the swift wings fall! For the King Himself, at the gates of pearl, Is taking her hand, dear, tired little girl, And is leading her into heaven.

A LESSON IN THE HEAVENS.

Baltimore Sun.

Commenting on Halley's comet, our esteemed contemporary, the New York World, indulges in eloquence, "Measurements past comprehension, speed inconceivable, wanderings transcending the power of man to imagine are in Halley's comet; no more marvelous than the genius that plots its path, times its return, establishes by spectroscopy its likeness to the cold earth and the burning stars."

If these things fill our minds with wonder and amazement, how much more should we be filled with awe when we contemplate the incomprehensible Omnipotence that not only created Halley's comet and set its course in the universe, but created and inspired the human mind, which has succeeded in plotting that course and measuring the time of the wanderer's return, and which has said to that human intellect "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther!"

The old idea that comets were fearful beacons, portending disaster, has faded away; but, like the unwearied sun and the stars in the heavens, they still teach the lesson conveyed in the old familiar lines:

In Reason's ear they all rejoice, And utter forth a glorious voice; For ever singing as they shine: The Hand that made us is divine!

—A Jesuit.

A Seedy Looking Man

entered a store in Trenton the other day, and asked for assistance, backing up his request with a long tale of sickness and of employment.

With a wink at the clerk, the merchant pointed to a friend who happened to be in the place, and replied:

"Ask that gentleman. He is the proprietor. I am only a clerk."

The friend repeated the beggar's request in a sympathetic manner, and, turning to the merchant, remarked: "This seems to be a worthy case, Mr. Jones. Give him $1 from the cash register," and walked out of the store.

It was in vain that the merchant protested that it had been a joke. So insistent did the seedy one become that "do boss" directions should be carried out that it was finally necessary to do so in order to be rid of him.—Lippincott's.

Another proof, more evidence, Wadesboro testimony to swell the long list of local people who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convincing endorsement of that remarkable preparation:

John L. Matheson, of Wadesboro, N. C., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable remedy and I am pleased to recommend them. I suffered from pains through the small of my back and my kidneys were disordered. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills and it was not long after beginning their use that I was relieved.
