

Grand Excursion

The only opportunity of the season to take a trip over that famous road, the C. C. & O., and return home the same day will be given the people of Wadesboro and vicinity on JULY 14TH on the Conductors' Excursion. This excursion will leave Wadesboro at 5:40 A. M. and will go to Spruce Pines, N. C., arriving there at 1 P. M. Leave Spruce Pines 5 P. M. and arrive at Wadesboro about 11:30 P. M. Fare for round trip, $3.00. The most beautiful scenery east of the Rocky Mountains may be seen on this trip. It is absolutely grand, and must be seen to be appreciated. Eleven hundred people, 15 coaches, went on this trip on the Conductors' Excursion from Monroe last year. Four excursions have already made this trip from Charlotte this season. Plenty of room will be provided and a committee of conductors will look after the comfort of passengers. It will be for white people only and strictly high class.

ECZEMA CURED

Many people have tried so many remedies for eczema without being materially benefitted that they have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for this most distressing disease. That this conclusion is erroneous, and that

Hobson's Eczema Ointment will effect a cure is shown by the following unsolicited testimonial of Mr. Venable Wilson, who for many years was a citizen of Wadesboro. Mr. Wilson says:

"This is to certify that for nine years I suffered with eczema, and during that time tried numerous so-called specifics for it, but without effect. But after a few applications of Hobson's Eczema Ointment I was completely cured."
"Thomasville, N. C., Feb. 22, 1910."

We sell Hobson's Eczema Ointment under an absolute guarantee. If it does not effect a cure you get your money back.

TO DRAIN SWAMP LANDS.

Washington dispatch, 28th, to Baltimore Sun.

Senator John Walter Smith today took the initial step toward the reclamation of the swamp lands of Maryland when he was successful in amending the Appalachian Forest bill, which the Senate had before it. Senator Smith's amendment provides for an investigation by the Government of the feasibility of draining the swamp lands of his State. It was in the shape of an amendment offered to the bill by Senator Stone, of Missouri, appropriating $250,000 for a similar purpose for Missouri, Florida, North Carolina, Arkansas and Louisiana. As originally offered Senator Stone's amendment carried an appropriation of $150,000 for Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana. After consultation with Senator Smith, Mr. Stone thought it best to increase the appropriation to $250,000 and agreed to include Maryland. The Stone amendment had already been adopted, so the Maryland amendment was offered separately by Senator Smith and went through in the middle of the filibuster on the bill being conducted by Senators Burton and Bailey.

EXPERTS TO REPORT ON PLANS.

The amendment provides that the $250,000 shall be spent under the direction of the Agricultural Department in the six States; that surveys shall be made, engineers employed and a complete investigation made of the plan. The amendment provides for a report on the subject at the next session of Congress, with recommendations at the wisdom of the Federal Government lending its aid in the drainage of these swamp lands.

First Bale of New Cotton Brought 50 Cents Per Pound.

New York, June 27.—The first bale of the cotton crop of 1910-1911 was sold at auction here today and brought 60 cents per pound, the proceeds being for the usual charity. This bale was picked at Hidalgo county, Tex., weighed about 416 pounds and was classed as good middling cotton. It was first sold at Houston, Tex., on June 23 for $375, and was shipped from there to this city.

The cotton purchased today will be shipped to Liverpool, where it will again be auctioned.

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—MRS. ALYENA SPELLING, 1408 Clybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

"At dinner I was asked to say grace, and, not satisfied with this, the family began to repeat in turn a passage of Scripture. The brevity of the Beatitudes seemed to make the most popular appeal, and when boy's turn came I saw a twinkle in his eye, but was scarcely prepared for what followed. With a look of extreme piety he folded his hands and exclaimed:

"Blessed are those who sit on a sack, for they shall rise again."

IT'S ALL OVER NOW.

Youth's Companion.

One morning a steamer from St. Louis, having on board sixty Union veterans who had participated in the battle of Shiloh, together with wives and friends, whistled for Pittsburg Landing, and passing the head of Diamond Island, tied up at the bank under the National Cemetery.

It was 47 years to-day since the battle was fought, and most of them had not been back since. They landed, and made haste to find their old regimental positions, and they fought the battle over as they found the government markers showing where their lines had been drawn, and in many places the same cannon mounted and in place where the battle had been fought. They found the government flag draped above the door. Inside, a company about as large as their own was assembled and a program was beginning under the auspices of the Albert Sidney Johnston Post of Confederate veterans.

The first thought of the Union veterans was to withdraw, but the Confederates objected. "Stay here," they said, "and we'll mix up the two programs, and have both in one." Not more were the lines of the two armies broken and interlaced on that Sabbath day forty-seven years before than on the two programs on this occasion. Each company applauded the other's performances as heartily as did its own.

Some ladies in Alabama had sent a wreath to be laid at the base of the Alabama monument, and to the committee of Southern ladies having it charge were added one lady from Chicago, another from Iowa, and one from South Dakota.

They sang the patriotic hymns, and, standing about the Alabama monument, sang "Nearer, my God, to Thee."

Then the Union veterans proposed to return to the boat for dinner, but the men from the South objected.

"We captured your dinner that day, and we owe one," they said.

So they sat down together to fried chicken and beaten biscuit, and told their war stories, and were tearfully gay together.

"You Yanks are a fatter lot than we," said one of the men of the South.

"That's so, Johnny," said a member of the Grand Army.

"You see," continued the man in gray, "you all put us all on crutches, and we all put you all on the pension roll."

They all rose finally to receive the benediction from the pastor of Shiloh church. But some one started the song, "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there." They all sang it through. And then continuing the tune, they improvised other stanzas after the camp-meeting style, and singing walked round and shook each other's hands. Some walked erect, and some limped; some walked on crutches, and others on wooden legs. But all shook hands in love of a common God and a united country as they sang:

"It's all over now! It's all over now! When the roll is called up yonder, we'll be there."

One Not in the Bible.

Philadelphia Record.

"We were invited to dinner the other evening, my wife and I," said a Staten Island preacher, "by some people who had just moved into the parish. Inadvertently my wife had allowed the maid to go out that day, which involved the consideration of my boy, who is five years old. My wife telephoned asking if it would be agreeable to bring the youngster. Of course, the new parishioner replied that they would be delighted. So he went.

"At dinner I was asked to say grace, and, not satisfied with this, the family began to repeat in turn a passage of Scripture. The brevity of the Beatitudes seemed to make the most popular appeal, and when boy's turn came I saw a twinkle in his eye, but was scarcely prepared for what followed. With a look of extreme piety he folded his hands and exclaimed:

"Blessed are those who sit on a sack, for they shall rise again."

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY'S TREMENDOUS BURDEN.

Baltimore Sun.

The Republican party goes into the Congressional campaign handicapped by a heavy burden. The counts in the indictment which it has drawn up against itself are so numerous and serious that the Democrats will find it scarcely necessary to prepare the usual book of campaign issues. First of all comes the fatal and deadly Payne-Aldrich Tariff bill, which hangs like a millstone around the neck of the Republican party and is none sufficient to sink it to the bottom of the political sea. Since the new law was passed almost every thing we eat, wear or buy has risen in price. The "high cost of living" affects every home, takes its toll from every purse. All the Lodge reports, misleading statistics, Aldrich speeches and Taft smiles will not answer it.

It appears at the breakfast table, looms up in the clothing and dry goods stores, and cries out from the market basket. The people can no longer be deceived in regard to the tariff. They know that a high tariff means high prices. They know the tariff has not been reduced as was promised. The day of reckoning is at hand. Aldrich, Cannon, Payne and Lodge may deceive the President, but they will find that they have not fooled the people.

Another issue which cannot be defended or explained away is the Balinger scandal. It is another case in which the administration has stood by the trusts instead of the people, and the latter cannot be hoodwinked or misled in regard to it.

As if it were not enough to raise the cost of living by a high tariff and conspire to hand over the wealth of Alaska to a grasping syndicate, the Republican party seems to have added and abetted in the effort of a Sugar Trust and its friends to secure at nominal prices a large part of the Friar lands in the Philippines. Wherever the long arm of a trust has been stretched out to rob the people through taxation or to seize their property, there we find the Republican party or its agents active in aiding the spoilers or protecting them while they steal. The administration has moved heaven and earth to secure Balinger; has even gone so far as to remove Gifford Pinchot, drive out of office some of the best servants of the Government, and discharge Glavis with fierce denunciation. It has steadily refused to allow any investigation of the sale of the Friar lands or of the Sugar Trust frauds or of the Steel Trust.

Though Mr. Taft and the Republican leaders have boasted of economy and millions saved, there has been such a riot of extravagance that the appropriations of the session of Congress just closed amount to over $1,095,000,000, or about forty millions more than the highest previous record.

Even upon the legislation on which Mr. Taft specially prides himself the trail of the serpent of special interests is visible to the naked eye. The Railroad bill as passed still contains in it the new Court of Commerce and other features marks of the fine railroad hand which prepared the original bill. The system of postal savings banks to be established will be established as a great achievement in the interest of the wage-earners and those of moderate means; but its opponents declare that it will be an instrument by which the savings of the people can be drawn from their stockings, tin boxes and the local banks and drained into the great financial centers. The Wall street financiers hail it as a means to prevent hoarding of funds, rather than a provision for safeguarding the savings of the masses.

The good effect of the Campaign Publicity bill was practically nullified by providing for the publication of contributions after election, so that the voters will have no opportunity when they vote to find out the forces and interests behind the parties and candidates. With such a burden of political sins the Republican party can expect but one verdict from the American people in November.

MODERN SORCERERS.

The Times are Filled With Spiritual Impositors.

Simon "the sorcerer" was the idol of the Samaritan people. His magical art seemed to fascinate them, and they were ready to believe anything of such a wonderful worker. Too clever to permit them to penetrate his tricks, he led them to believe they were wrought by supernatural power. This talented impostor was almost worshipped by the Samaritans at the time the apostles visited that country. Then, as the record in Acts tells us, when the sorcerer saw the apostles imparting spiritual power and healing, jealous of these new rivals, he instantly offered to pay them to teach him what he conceived to be the secret formula by which they touched the souls and hearts of men. Peter's reply must have astounded him.

Today the sorcerer has his antitypes in American communities. We are living in a time that surpasses all others in the number and boldness of its spiritual impositions. On every side we see or hear vulgar offers to impart "the gift of God" for money.

Moreover, these spiritual traders have a tariff of their own, by means of which they undertake to sell salvation at fixed rates. There is sharp competition among them, and they do not scruple to cry down each other's wares, after the manner of peddling tradesmen. Those who conduct these businesses, in advertisements that bear all the earmarks of the auctioneer, describe their power in the cure of blindness, etc., "just as the Master did." This reference to the world's Redeemer in a catchpenny advertisement is the last limit of impious mendacity. It is difficult to understand how any sane and well-balanced person could be deceived by such transparent quackery; yet the business is apparently profitable. Like Simon of Samaria, they prey upon the ignorant and the superstitious, but they fairly outclass "the sorcerer" at his own game in their wildly extravagant claims and their spiritual pretensions. They are probably within the law, for ours is a land where such outrageous absurdities may flourish.

He Wanted all to be Happy.

Christian Herald.

Mark Tulley, state treasurer and candidate for re-election, was a traveling salesman for 25 years and has a fund of good stories of the road. He tells that one time he was in a town in central Kansas when a protracted meeting was going on. One of the residents of the town was named Tobey. He was a tall, gaunt man with long whiskers, and was very fond of whiskey, of which he frequently imbibed beyond his limit. This man was attending one of the meetings, and the revivalist was busy scoring every form of vice and calling down drastic condemnation upon them.

"Woe to the drunkard! Woe to the drunkard! Woe to the drunkard!" he shouted in doleful tones.

Old Tobey got on his feet and tugged at his whiskers, and the fact that he stuttered only made his interruption more marked: "G-u-ess th-th-th-at's me! I-I-I'm p-p-p-res-ent!"

The preacher went on: "Woe to the th-lars! Woe to the th-lars! Woe to the th-lars! His voice was dolorous and sepulchral.

Again old Tobey got to his feet. He motioned around the room, swinging and pointing with his arms and fingers.

"G-g-get up!" he commanded. "G-g-get up! He's callin' on s-s-ome of you fellers! I've answered p-p-present. It's your turn now. S-t-and up and be counted."

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Wadesboro People Know How to Save It.

Many Wadesboro people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

W. N. Harris, of Albemarle, N. C., says: "I suffered a great deal from attacks of kidney trouble. My system was filled with uric poison and I had severe pains through the small of my back. The kidney secretions were scanty and attended with pain in passage and I had a frequent desire to void them. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and since using them, my kidneys have not given me any trouble. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

TRAGEDY IN CHARLOTTE.

J. W. Wadsworth, of Charlotte, Bu-

Charlotte dispatch, 27th. Mr. James W. Wadsworth, oldest living son of the late J. W. Wadsworth and head of the J. W. Wadsworth Sons Company, livery concern, in this city, died at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, having sent a bullet crashing through his brain one hour earlier, in a fit of melancholy, induced by too great business responsibilities and other work, and by over-use of stimulants. Physicians believe that he was temporarily unbalanced. Mr. Wadsworth was about 36 years of age, and a member of one of the leading families of Charlotte. He had served as alderman for two years and was regarded as one of the most successful young business men in the city.

Sadder was his death by reason of the fact that an elder brother met a similar fate in Greensboro some years ago. The deceased for several weeks had shown the effects of excessive strain under which he labored to meet his business engagements, including the working out of plans for greatly extending the interest of his business, involving a large sum of money. Only this morning the deceased was compelled to return home to rest awhile, but came back to his office before the rash deed was committed.

The deceased leaves two brothers, Messrs. George and Joe Wadsworth, engaged in business here, and three sisters. He was popular and generally liked and esteemed, and his death has thrown and cast a deep gloom over the pathway of his friends here, numbered by the hundreds.

Getting at the Facts.

Chicago News.

A nurse had been called as a witness to prove the correction of the bill of a physician.

"Let us get at the facts in the case," said the lawyer who was doing a cross-examination stunt. "Didn't the doctor call several times after the patient was out of danger?"

"No, sir," answered the nurse. "I considered the patient in danger as long as the doctor continued his visits."

The Conservation of Nature's Resources

Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I., realized his condition, and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." Pee Dee Pharmacy; Parsons Drug Co.

Leaping The Loop.

Years ago, when there were only wooden sidewalks in the city of Winnipeg, Canada, holes were bored in the planks to let the water run through. In the morning twilight a policeman found a man with the tip of his wooden leg in one of these holes and hurriedly walking around it with his good leg and foot.

"What are ye doin' there?" asked the policeman.

"G'way, offshar," said the man. "Got to get home before ol' lady wakes up."—Everybody's Magazine.
