

You Can Have a Model Kitchen

as cool and white as a dairy. No smell, no smoke, no heat, no dust. No old-fashioned contrivances. The is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no soot to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke, and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Grand Excursion

The only opportunity of the season to take a trip over that famous road, the C. C. & O., and return home the same day will be given the people of Wadesboro and vicinity on on the Conductors' Excursion. This excursion will leave Wadesboro at 5:40 A. M. and will go to Spruce Pines, N. C., arriving there at 1 P. M. Leave Spruce Pines 5 P. M. and arrive at Wadesboro about 11:30 P. M. Fare for round trip, $3.00.

JULY 14TH

The most beautiful scenery east of the Rocky Mountains may be seen on this trip. It is absolutely grand, and must be seen to be appreciated.

Eleven hundred people, 15 coaches, went on this trip on the Conductors' Excursion from Monroe last year. Four excursions have already made this trip from Charlotte this season. Plenty of room will be provided and a committee of conductors will look after the comfort of passengers.

It will be for white people only and strictly high class.

ECZEMA CURED

Many people have tried so many remedies for eczema without being materially benefitted that they have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for this most distressing disease. That this conclusion is erroneous, and that Hobson's Eczema Ointment will effect a cure is shown by the following unsolicited testimonial of Mr. Venable Wilson, who for many years was a citizen of Wadesboro. Mr. Wilson says:

"This is to certify that for nine years I suffered with eczema, and during that time tried numerous so-called specifics for it, but without effect. But after a few applications of Hobson's Eczema Ointment I was completely cured."
"Thomasville, N. C., Feb. 22, 1910."

We sell Hobson's Eczema Ointment under an absolute guarantee. If it does not effect a cure you get your money back.

RIOTING IN MANY TOWNS OVER FIGHT.

Washington Was One of Worst Sufferers From Conflict Between the Races—Other Cities Also Report Great Deal of Rioting.

Washington, July 6.—Washington today is taking stock after a night of rioting between whites and blacks, which began immediately after word was flashed that Johnson was the victor over Jeffries.

One hundred and thirty-five arrests of rioters were made by the police.

Thirty-five men are in the hospitals, three of whom are negroes in a precarious condition due to beatings they received at the hands of mobs.

Fifteen riots during the evening and night were suppressed by the police. The riots generally occurred on Pennsylvania avenue, in the shadow of the white house, capitol and government buildings.

The police say that at least 200 men wanted for attacking negroes escaped arrest through interference of the mobs.

Negroes were pulled from the street cars and roughly handled before the police could protect them.

Negroes were chased, captured and beaten in many instances without apparent provocation. In a few cases negroes were attacked and maltreated because they had dared to hurrah for Johnson.

After midnight police attention was directed to "Bloodfield" and the water front, where the negroes colonized. Here riots were constantly demanding their attention. The Johnson rooters, flushed with victory and celebration funds were fighting among themselves. The alleys were like angry beehives.

Casualties resulting from race riots throughout the country as a result of Johnson's defeat of Jeffries:

- The dead: Uvalde, Ga., 3; Mounds, Ill., 2; Lake Providence, La., 2; Little Rock, Ark., 2; Cincinnati, O., 1; Omaha, 1; Houston, Tex., 1; Key-stone, W. Va., 1; New York, 1; Tallulah, La., 1; Northern Louisiana, 3. Total, 18.

- Injured: New York, 45; Omaha, 15; St. Louis, 27; Philadelphia, 19; Washington, 35; Norfolk, Va., 13; Keystone, W. Va., 10; Wilmin-gton, Del., 12; Roanoke, Va., 10; Uvalde, Ga., 8; Louisville, 7; Tallulah, La., 1; Houston, Tex., 3; New Orleans, 7; Atlanta, 7; Mount Sterling, Ky., 3; Macon, Ga., 9; Cincinnati, 4; Baltimore, 6; Clarksville, W. Va., 3; St. Joseph, Mo., 2; Pueblo, Col., 8; Pittsburgh, 16; elsewhere (estimated), 100.

PRACTICAL HINTS FOR NURSING.

Food for the Invalid.

Diet during illness is directed by the doctor, but it is well to know something of the value of invalids' dishes and their preparation. During severe illness, when the patient is not allowed to take solid food, we depend on eggs, milk, broths and gruels for nourishment. The best thing to use in giving these to a patient who cannot be lifted up is a good-sized glass tumbler, bent at a convenient angle so as to be placed between the lips comfortably, without tilting the glass enough to spill the contents. These tubes may be bought at any druggist's, at a cost of five or ten cents. They are easily kept clean by running cold water through them as soon as they are used, and occasionally boiling them in soda or ammonia water. A feeding-cup is convenient, but it is hard to keep clean, great care has to be taken to remove all particles from the spout and crevices.

Even a sick person is affected by the appearance of things. He can face detested and oft-repeated nourishment a little better if on an attractive tray or pretty tumbler, with a snowy napkin and a shining glass tube.

The most easily digested form of food is egg albumen. Unless this is ordered to be given plain, that is, with only water, it may be made a very palatable drink by the addition of sugar and different flavors, such as strained lemon or orange juice, grape juice, or ginger ale.

Egg Albumen—Put the white of one egg in a thick tumbler. Fill the tumbler half-full of water, add a spoonful of cracked ice, turn a tin shaker, or another tumbler, over the glass and shake hard till the egg is thoroughly mixed with the water. Strain through fine wire strainer and add sugar and flavoring. Do not give the froth. This holds bubbles of air, which make the patient uncomfortable. The egg may be put in a saucer and well broken up with a fork if a shaker is not to had.

Milk contains more nourishment than any other liquid form of food, and may be given in a variety of ways. For a very delicate digestion, dilution with one-third water is helpful; this separates the curds and allows the gastric juice to act upon them more easily. Milk should always be taken slowly. Encourage the patient to take it in small laps; if five or ten minutes are taken for drinking the glassful, so much better. Since the moment it enters the stomach it curdles, by taking a little at a time the formation of a large solid, indigestible curd is prevented. Hot milk is more easily managed by a weak stomach than cold, as the heat stimulates the stomach somewhat. It should not be allowed to boil. It is made more palatable for some people by the addition of salt, Cayenne pepper or celery salt.

Milk shake may be flavored with a number of different things, and the variety often makes it easier for the sick person to take it. Vanilla, almond, two or three spoonful of coffee or cocoa make acceptable flavors.

Albumenized milk is highly nutritious. This is made by adding the white of an egg to a glass of milk, and preparing it in the same manner as egg albumen.

They can hardly be called food in any sense, but in a case of acute indigestion it is valuable, especially for children. It is made by one teaspoonful of liquid rennet to one pint of warm milk. Set this in a warm place till it is solid, then break up with a fork and strain through a thin muslin cloth.

Beef juice comes next to milk and eggs in food value. As it is very perishable, a large quantity is never made at a time. It should be kept directly on ice till used. Cut one pound of thick round steak in blocks about one inch square, removing any fat. Drop two or three blocks at a time into the pan. When slightly brown press the juice out with a lemon-squeezer or a meat press. This, seasoned with salt, may be given cold, or it may be warmed by placing the cup which holds it in warm water. It should not be heated, enough to coagulate.

Broths are very low in the scale of nutritive values, something like 16 cups being required to equal one cup of milk. However, they are useful in varying a long diet of liquids. Receipts for broths are to be found in all good cook books, but for the sake of convenience one is given here which may be used for beef, veal, mutton or chicken. Chop two pounds of lean meat in small pieces, adding some crushed bone. Add one quart of water and a pinch of salt. Heat slowly and simmer for three hours—add hot water if necessary. There should be only one pint when done. Strain through a muslin rag and re-serve at once.

A delicate broth is made by thickening a stock with 1/2 cup of starch in four cups of water. Boil 10 minutes, then add three or four ounces of half-pint of broth.

Oysters and clams also make excellent broth.

Gruels are made of grains or flour. Their largest ingredient is starch, which is not easily digested unless it is well cooked, therefore the time for boiling grains should be conscientiously kept by the clock. They are best made with a certain proportion of milk, but this should not be added until the grain is well cooked in water. Some of the materials used are barley flour, arrowroot flour, Indian meal, farina, cracker crumbs and oatmeal.

The receipt for flour gruel is given here, as flour is to be found in every household, and the general directions serve for making other gruels.

One tablespoonful of flour, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, one cup of boiling water, one cup milk, one-half square inch cinnamon. Mix the flour, salt and sugar into a paste with a little cold water, add the cinnamon and the hot water. Cook in a double boiler for forty-five minutes. Put in the milk, bring to a boiling point, and strain. Serve hot. Nutmeg, almond or vanilla may be used as flavoring.

IN MEMORIAM.

Little Sarah Malissa, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Northcutt, died at their home in McFarlan June 19th, and was buried in the cemetery at Pleasant Hill church by Rev. J. J. Barker, her pastor, Saturday, the 19th. It was her birthday. She lacked about 24 hours of being one year old when the death angel bore her sweet spirit away to the Father who gave it.

Little Sarah was sick just 11 days. Her sufferings were not very long nor severe. She seemed to drift from life into death; just budded on earth, but will blossom in heaven. "For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Beloved ones, we know your sorrow and feel with you your loss, for we loved little Sarah.

Go to thy rest, dear Sarah,
Go to thy dreamless bed,
Gentle and meek and mild,
With blessing on thy head;
Fresh flowers in thy hands,
Buds on thy pillow laid,
Hastened from this blighted land
Where flowers so quickly fade.

Before thy heart could learn
In waywardness to stray;
Before thy precious feet could turn
The dark and downward way;
Ere sin could wound thy breast
Or sorrow could make a tear;
Gone to thy home of rest
In celestial sphere!

Because thy smile was fair,
Thy lips and eyes so bright;
Because thy cradle car,
Was such a fond delight;
Shall love, with tender embrace,
Thy heavenward flight detain?
No, little Sarah; seek thy place
Amid your cherub train.

—ONE WHO LOVED HER.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. It is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

STAMMERING AND STUTTERING.

Youth's Companion.

Many persons use the words stammering and stuttering as if they meant exactly the same thing. This is not so. They are in reality two distinct physical faults, having different causes behind them, which give different results.

Correctly speaking, stammering means an inability to render sounds properly, while stuttering means an inability to join sounds properly. Stammering may be due to some imperfection in the speech organs, or to a wrong use or position of the muscles.

It follows from this that the stammerer will constantly make the same mistake. A certain letter or combination of letters will overthrow him each time they occur. When the trouble is due to some organic imperfection in the organs of speech, such as cleft palate, harelip, or a bound tongue, the first treatment must be surgical. After that, especially if the patient be an adult, there will have to be lessons and practise to teach him to pronounce properly the letter or letters he has never before been able to say.

When there is no organic defect the trouble is often simply a bad habit persisted in from childhood. Almost all small children stammer, and almost all adults find the trick "cunning," with disastrous results in many cases in after life. Any speech defect that is the consequence of bad habit and laziness calls for educational treatment, and the younger the patient is the easier the cure will be. When the bad habit has been one of years' standing it is often hard, just as it is hard for most adults to learn a foreign language.

Stuttering, on the other hand, is entirely a nervous disorder, and in bad cases amounts to an absolute spasm of the speech muscles. A stammerer knows perfectly well he wishes to say, and how it should sound, only he cannot get it out. The nervous basis of stuttering is shown in many ways. Some persons stutter when they are tired, but not when they are rested; or they stutter with strangers and not with friends; or when they are in poor health, but not when they are well. They are likely to be sensitive, thin-skinned people, keenly aware of the ludicrous side of their misfortune.

Treatment cannot be begun too early, and must be patiently carried out. The much-advertised brilliant and rapid cures one hears of are very likely to relapse, and the cure of stuttering is not a matter of a few weeks.

Children should never be punished or ridiculed for stammering or stuttering. They should be taught to stop short, draw a long breath, and begin afresh. Special attention to deep, calm breathing is a most important element in the cure of stuttering.

The Face.
Youth's Companion.

The following story reminds one of Alice's mad race with the Red Queen in the country where "It takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place." They were tramping in Switzerland, and when, after a long, dusty afternoon's walk, a bed and a bath and a dinner seemed three very desirable things, they spoke to a farmer:

"Interlaken? How far is it?"
"Two miles," he replied.
The tourists marched hopefully on, but after half an hour had passed, and no town was in sight, they demanded of another peasant:
"How far are we from Interlaken?"
"Just two miles!" he shouted back.
"Keep right on."
Again the weary tramps toiled on. Another half-hour elapsed, and still Interlaken was hidden from their view.

"Are we anywhere near Interlaken?" they implored, when they met the third farmer.
"But two short miles," he replied, as had the others.
The tourists turned to each other in despair; then the fortunate sense of humor intervened.

"Well," said one, "thank heaven we're holding our own, anyhow!"

"Is Life Worth Saving?"
Mrs. Mollie McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." Pee Dee Pharmacy; Parsons Drug Co.

Probably Not.

BACK TO THE FARM.

That is the Program for Jeffries—Jeffries Has Made Nearly $900,000 Out of the Fight and Johnson About $150,000.

Reno, Nev., July 6th.—Back to the farm. That's the program for Jan. J. Jeffries, defeated ex-champion heavyweight of the world. With his conqueror Jack Johnson, the only undisputed negro heavyweight champion in the history of the ring, speeding east with the title and a realm of theatrical contracts, the holler-maker today pulled apart his elaborate training camp at Moon Springs to return to his ranch near Los Angeles.

Though chary of discussing his plans, those close to the former champion declare that he will abandon his theatrical contracts and the purposed tour around the world which, were victory his, would have been an unprecedented triumphal trip and the source of another fortune.

Jeffries in defeat retains much of his popularity—now tinged with pity that is as bitter as gall to him. In the hearts of the sporting fraternity he appears today to be held sacred only to John L. Sullivan among the men who have won and lost.

No one doubts Jeffries' sincerity in essaying to take up the white man's burden, yet even defeat has brought him a pot of money which no winner has ever gained. Of the actual returns of the fight Jeffries received only $3,534 less than the giant black Texan who vanquished him.

Counting the money each has made since the articles were signed in Hoboken last October, Jeffries has cleaned up $192,066, against $145,600 for the victor. Taking these totals the average for each minute spent in the ring yesterday is, for Jeffries $2,680, and for Johnson $2,600.

The total earned by both fighters since October is $337,666. Here are the shares as they appear on this basis:

JEFFRIES.
Sixty percent of the purse, $60,000.
Bonus, $10,000.
Share of the moving pictures, $50,000.
Total, $120,000.
Earned while training, after signing, $35,000.
Grand total, $155,000.

JOHNSON.
Forty percent of the purse, $40,000.
Bonus, $10,000.
Share of the moving pictures, $66,666.
Total, $116,666.
Earned while training, after signing, $75,000.

Grand total, $192,066.

Intimate friends of the promoters, Tex Rickard and Jack Glendon, declared today that their profits, even allowing for the $25,000 or more lost through changing the scene of the go from San Francisco, would be well above $200,000. The arena itself cost about $30,000, and the expenses of staging the bout, coupled with the cost of the training camps to the principals, makes another $100,000.

When an attempt is made to compute the total outlay by the spectators, the sums get so prodigious that doubt is engendered, in spite of cautious checking over. With seat prices ranging from $10 to $50, the average was $22.50 to each of the 16,000 in the crowd. Thousands came from the east and foreign countries. Fatigue prices prevailed in Reno. Although an average of $100 expense to each spectator, it would seem that they alone spent $1,600,000 on the big fight.

Computation of the great sums spent by newspapers and news associations to cover the fight, sending reporters and photographers from every large city, and paying heavy telegraph tolls, it is evident that the contest, first and last, cost about as much to cover as a national political convention, if not more.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, scabs or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.
