FLY THE ATLANTIC IN A DAY.

London Dispatch to New York Sun.

J. B. Moissant, the aviator whose feat in bringing a passenger from Paris to London is fully recognized by experts although it was minimized in the public eye by the long delay in the last stage of his journey, made an interesting prophecy this afternoon. The occasion was the presentation of a cup given by the Daily Mail. Moissant said:

"In five years aeroplanes will be flying across the Atlantic in twenty-four hours. In less than two years there will be a monoplane, with an engine of 200 horsepower, thrusting the machine through the air at 100 miles an hour. We shall then be able to laugh at contrary gusts of wind. By then aeroplanes will no longer be flimsy structures. It will be the era of the metal aeroplane."

Moissant admitted that engine makers have a lot of trial work to do, but the goal, he thinks, is in sight. He concluded by saying: "Nobody except men who actually fly can gauge the stupendous progress that is now being made toward the perfect machine. I will compete next summer in the Daily Mail's 10,000 pound race around England in an all metal aeroplane of my own design, which I will fly in Paris six weeks hence. The world will gasp at the things that will be done in that flight."

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Iowa. — "I suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can now do my work and rest like the Pinkham remedies."

Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D., No. 3, Knoxville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

NO CURE FOR RABIES.

A Reality and Not a Dream, Says Public Health Report.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Hydrophobia is a reality and not a dream, incurable and not infallibly preventable, and is a respecter of no particular season nor species of mammal, says a Public Health Service report issued today. A. M. Stimson, its author, repudiates certain mad dog fallacies and advises those skeptical of the existence of such a disease as rabies to have their doubts dispelled at a scientific laboratory. This report of Surgeon-General Wyman's bureau admits that rabies may not be uniformly fatal, though it is almost so.

The Pasteur treatment generally prevents development. "We do know," says the report, "that artificial immunity can be conferred during the usual incubation period. The possibilities of anti-rabies serum have not been exhausted by trial. It deserves further investigation, but our present data do not warrant us to expect very much benefit from this source." Despite discouraging results of past experiments at cure by drugs, continued efforts to find an effectual remedy are urged, the most promising line of investigating appearing to be based, "not upon the physiological action of the drug, but upon its action upon the parasite."

Mad dogs are not always wild-eyed, frothing at the mouth and determined upon attacking every person they meet. The report contends that when the attack first begins to develop dogs are frequently more playfully inclined. "The rabid dog is sick; he is not necessarily running wild and furious," says the report; "he is frequently obedient up to a late stage, and often seems to have a bone in his throat or to have sustained injury to the back."

Another fallacy is the general belief that rabies are much more easily transmitted in the summer than in other months. The explanation is that more persons are moving and become subject to attacks. Nor is the malady confined to any climate or region. It is liable to occur in the Arctic or the jungles of the equator. Dogs, wolves, coyotes and skunks seem to be especially susceptible.

But not even within the canine tribe is the disease of spontaneous origin. This fact renders isolation or destruction effective. Elimination of infected animals is the only sure preventive. In this way Great Britain has eradicated the distemper. "If all rabid dogs could be prevented from biting other animals," says the report, "rabies would within a year be a historical curiosity of medicine, an illegitimate field of research for the investigator in pure pathology, a plaything for the controversialist."

The madstone and the chicken breast as cures for the madness are arraigned as real dangers because they frequently prevent persons from seeking other remedies. Lastly, human hydrophobics do not seek to bite other persons. The average period of incubation is a little more than 10 weeks, but in some persons the effect of a mad dog's bite is not manifested for more than a year.

THE STATE NORMAL COLLEGE.

A former student of the State Normal College favors the Messenger and Intelligencer with the following account of social and religious life at the State Normal College, at Greensboro:

"AS ONE GIRL PUTS IT.

"Because we are not lined up and marched two by two to church, we are almost considered heathen, certainly not church-going people. But every girl from prep to senior is allowed the privilege of attending any church she may desire on every Sunday morning, also Sunday school.

"The Y. W. C. A. of the college is a most active and efficient organization and it is impossible to estimate the great help it is to the students. It is organized with strong Christian leaders at its head, and also as Chairman of all committees. The social committee is usually the first to make itself felt, welcoming the new girls, encouraging the diffident, cheering the homesick, etc. Once each year, usually during the first week of school, it gives some simple but very delightful entertainment for the new girls. Last year its members became a famous circus, and arranged a jolly time for the whole college. After Xmas, perhaps the dining room girls and commercial girls enjoy their hospitality, and later in the spring the seniors and May students. This personal touch is very far-reaching.

"The membership committee does persistent work all the year round as will be readily seen from its report last year—only 19 girls in the dormitories were not members of the Association, a very small number in such a large student body, and when we remember some students are Hebrews and Catholics.

The Bible study committee is another active part of the Association. There are 14 Bible classes organized with an enrollment of 375 members. The subjects taught have been Acts, Old Testament Studies and Life of Christ. This committee also has charge of the morning watch service held in the dormitories, and well attended.

"The missionary committee endeavors to inform every student in the college on the subject of missions. The Association has a well furnished library and last year there were six mission study classes and two reading circles with an enrollment of 225 members. This committee also arranges to have visits and lectures during the year by returned missionaries and live missionary leaders in the home land. As a result of the work done by this branch of the Association the college has twelve missionaries in the foreign field and three are now ready to go, with eight volunteers in the student body. The devotional committee does a glorious work. It arranges for the Sunday evening services, the meetings just before the holidays, etc. Wednesday evening of each week is known as 'Big Prayer Meeting' that is, it is conducted by no special class, but the Y. W. C. A. has this in charge, and all attend. The freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes hold their prayer meetings on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the same hour. These meetings are not for the class members exclusively for all are invited, but the leader is always one of the class members. There are the Finance committee, the intercollegiate committee and the music committee. The faculty serve as advisory members on all committees, conduct several of the Bible and mission study classes, and encourage and strengthen the Association in numerous ways.

"The Association sent delegates to the following Conferences: The Cabinet Council of Eastern Carolina Colleges, Raleigh, 3 delegates; Y. W. C. A. convention at Asheville, 11 delegates; The Territorial Convention at Richmond, 5 students and 1 faculty representative; at the Rochester convention, 4 students and two faculty representatives.

From these few facts, it will be seen that the Normal girl finds time for religious worship, and is trained to a broad sympathy in all Christian work and endeavor. And, while denominationalism is not taught, still she is debtful both to the Greek and to the Gentile, and is trained to practice in the church of her choice the grand old creed of charity, nobly love, service and personal responsibility."

BALAAAM'S ASS READY TO KICK.

Raleigh News and Observer.

The extravagance of the Federal government was one of the causes of the unprecedented Democratic majorities given in the Massachusetts and New York Republican Congressional districts. This extravagance is promoted by "the interests." It gives them a big government business, and also gives a reason for the excessive and burdensome protective tariff which imposes a heavier burden upon the American people many times bigger than the cost of State, city and county government, the support of schools, building of roads and school houses and all other public expenses.

The country is tired of big taxes of all sorts and Republicans can no longer levy tariff taxes and make any sensible man think the foreigner pays the tax. They know that the big tariff tax is paid by the consumer. The tariff is not only the mother of trusts but also the mother of extravagance. The Manufacturer's Record, not a political paper, recently contained one of the wisest editorials of this decade—so full of warning against extravagance and the unnecessary taxes with which the people are now burdened that it is printed in full below:

"THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AS A BALAAAM'S ASS.

"Some day the American people will perform the part that made Balaam's ass historic. Nothing since the days of that ass has been more patient under heavy loads than the American people. Their great burden is taxation. Probably no other civilized people get as little in return for their taxes. A careful student has estimated that public expenditures, including national, State, city, town and county, have increased since 1897 from $1,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000 annually, or at the rate of 150 per cent. In the same time the population of the country has increased hardly 25 per cent. Just at present, with Congressional elections ahead of us, the individuals directly responsible for about $1,000,000,000 of these annual expenditures are pointing to this immense burden upon the people as the main reason why the people should give them further opportunity to increase the burden. To emphasize the importance of such a foothold policy, they are adding immediately to the burdens of the patient tax-payers by circulating under their Congressional franks tons of worthless literature, supposed to be the speeches they have delivered in Congress, which have been printed at great expense, but which are, nevertheless, practically worthless, except as material for kindling fire.

"Of course, public expenditures are bound to increase with the growth of the country and as a means to that growth. But there is nothing in reason justifying an increase in such expenditures at the rate of 150 per cent, with the population of the country increasing at the rate of only 25 per cent. The unnecessary burden is due to the surplussage and incompetency of the horde of officeholders supported by the taxes of the people. There is hardly a single government in the country, from Washington down, that is not conducted upon lines that would bankrupt an ordinary business undertaking in six months. The great weakness is the large number of salary-drawers selected for every other reason save qualification to render to the public proper service. Not a small part of the extraordinary increase in National expenditures, especially since 1901, is due to activities of the Federal Government, unjustified, in most cases, by the Constitution, and in some cases unwarranted by law.

"The remedy would come when the patient post-type of Balaam's ass, the American people, begin to understand how heavily they are taxed unnecessarily. They will learn that if they consent to be taxed directly, every man paying for the support of government according to his ability, instead of every man seeking some device to lay the burden upon every other man or class of men. As soon as taxes are paid in actual cash from one's pocket, the people will hold their representatives to stricter account in the expenditures of public funds.

"Quite a number of years ago Edward Atkinson, who had clear and sane views upon many vital subjects, contended that the capacity of the American people to maintain prosperity among themselves and to make large contributions to world-commerce rested upon their ability to produce cheaply, but that nothing would reduce that ability more quickly than heavy taxation. It is an annual expenditure of $2,500,000,000 sapping the productive strength of the American people? That is a question that should be asked Congressmen seeking re-election by pointing to their share in increasing taxation as an inducement for them to be given a chance to increase taxation still further. Their salaries and perquisites continue and war, no matter how heavily their constituents are taxed."

Wadesboro People Know How to Save It.

Many Wadesboro people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

W. N. Harris, of Albemarle, N. C., says: "I suffered a great deal from attacks of kidney trouble. My system was filled with uric poison and I had severe pains through the small of my back. My kidney secretions were scanty and attended with pain in passage and I had a frequent desire to void them. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and since using them, my kidneys have not given me any trouble. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

A PARADISE FOR SPINSTERS.

Former Men in Manila Just Bantering for Wives—Ten Bachelors to One Girl. Philadelphia North American.

Any fairly attractive American girl—a blonde probably preferred, but a brunette carries no particular handicap—who has no particular entanglement of the affections at present, but is willing to have some in the early future, is missing the chance of her life by staying in the United States and waiting for the right man to propose.

"Go East, young woman; go East," is the advice of the returned exiles; for there are 10 men there to every American girl; the spices of Araby float on every wanton breeze, provoking to romantic love, and they are making Manila now a veritable paradise of prospective American brides.

There are other compensations—the feeling that from the danger of becoming a wall flower you have been rescued into the glories of a lily of the field, with admiration all your own; the delight of queening it over a whole cohort of courtiers, and the knowledge that, when you reach Manila, you are no longer in an antiquated discard of aged buildings and disease-infested moats, but are coming home to a genuine American town, transformed by the magic of American science and enterprise into a place of broad highways, modern architecture and our typically national cleanliness.

CRYING NEED FOR SPINSTERS.

Of course, the Government reports don't say anything about the crying need over there in its pet possession for eligible spinsters. The United States Government learned long ago that any matrimonial proposals at all are dangerous affairs to dabble in. So it has been contenting itself with reporting on the improvements in living conditions that are being effected in Manila, and giving hints, in its census reports as to the number of unmarried women there are and how many of them are earning their own living.

The romantic part of it comes from some people who've been there, the latest observer who reports being Mrs. Florence Burton Heatt, who left her millionaire father's home and New York society a couple of years ago to marry Capt. Charles Heatt, of the Philippine constabulary and deputy governor among the Moros.

"What most impressed me when I went to the Philippines," says Mrs. Heatt, "was the scarcity of girls eligible for marriage. There are so few women that a new arrival is at first made to believe, great is the amount of attention she receives, that she was never before appreciated."

"Why, I have seen school teachers and the girl friends of officers' wives gobbled up, as it were, almost as fast as they arrived."

To anyone who hasn't the least idea of marriage—and none of the single girls who have gone to the Philippines even think of it, of course—the vision of the new Manila that is arising out of the old is worth the trip for itself alone.

It is to this new born, rejuvenated Manila, and to the rich but girlless land about it, that pretty Mrs. Heatt urges her countrywomen to go, a new paradise of the Orient for brides, near-brides and willing-to-be brides.

"And there are," declares match-making Mrs. Heatt, invitingly, "ten men for every girl—count 'em—ten!"

NEW YORK'S BIG BROTHERS.

Albert H. Hoekley in Leslie's.

Today there are 1,000 "big brothers" connected with a score of different churches in New York city and a like number of small boys who have been in trouble under their protection. The idea is not to give special aid except in extreme cases, but to make the "little brother" understand that some one has a real and sympathetic interest in him, and it is almost the universal experience among the young men who are taking part in the movement that, no matter how vicious a boy may be, once his confidence is obtained, he is as clay in the hands of the potter. The "big brother" finds out where the other lives and makes the acquaintance of the family, more often than not in a slum tenement; he later intercedes for the boy with parents who are unnecessarily harsh; he asks permission to take the boy to a ball game or a theatre; he lends him the right kind of books and encourages him to study, and one evening of each week is set apart for athletic work, the Young Men's Christian Association allowing the use of its gymnasium for this purpose. Last summer the "big brother" established a camp in the country, where each of the little brothers spent a happy fortnight.

NEWSPAPER BARGAIN DAY.

"One of the biggest bids made for business in this state in recent years by a daily newspaper has just been announced by the Evening Times of Raleigh. The subscription price of this paper is 45 cents per year, but for a period of ten days only, from October 1 to October 10 at 12 o'clock p. m., they are going to accept yearly subscriptions in advance for the sum of $2.50. This certainly is one of the most remarkable offers ever made by a responsible newspaper in this section. It is frequently done in the North and West, but the Evening Times is the first to inaugurate such a plan in this section. The idea is, according to Editor Stimus, of the Evening Times, that several thousand new subscriptions can be added to the list in these ten days and collections made on the old accounts with practically no cost, and therefore, it is best to give the benefit of the quick work. The Evening Times is Raleigh's great afternoon paper and its leased wire telegraph service and state news page among the best. The idea of getting a daily paper on a bargain for $2.50 per year in this state will be watched with much interest."

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and, as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar, which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house."
