

Attention Sick Women

If you had positive proof that a certain remedy for female ills had made many remarkable cures, would you not feel like trying it?

If during the last thirty years we have not succeeded in convincing every fair-minded woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands and thousands of women of the ills peculiar to their sex, then we long for an opportunity to do so by direct correspondence. Meanwhile read the following letters which we guarantee to be genuine and truthful.

Hudson, Ohio.—"I suffered for a long time from a weakness, inflammation, dreadful pains each month and suppression. I had been doctoring and receiving only temporary relief, when a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and wrote to you for advice. I have faithfully followed your directions and now, after taking only five bottles of the Vegetable Compound, I have every reason to believe I am a well woman. I give you full permission to use my testimonial."

St. Regis Falls, N. Y.—"Two years ago I was so bad that I had to take to my bed every month, and it would last from two to three weeks. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. I am happy to say that I am cured, thanks to your medicine and good advice. You may use my letter for the good of others."—Mrs. J. H. Breyer, St. Regis Falls, N. Y.

There is absolutely no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to cure female diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical.

For 80 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

FERTILIZER FROM AIR.

Mr. W. S. Lee, General Manager of Southern Power Company, goes Abroad—Great Dreams About to be Realized.

Mr. W. S. Lee, Jr., vice president and general manager of the Southern Power Company, left last night for New York, where he will sail the latter part of the week for Europe. As previously stated, the object of Mr. Lee's trip abroad at this time is to inspect two of the great Norwegian and Austrian hydro-electric plants that are engaged in making of nitric acid from the atmosphere by electrochemical processes. The Southern Power Company recently announced that it had acquired two secret methods of extracting nitric acid from the air, one the Geneva and the other the Pauling process and that the machinery for a 4,000-horsepower plant would shortly arrive at Great Falls, S. C., for installation there. Much of this machinery has been erected in Europe and is very costly. A second plant of 24,000-horsepower capacity is also contemplated for this general section as soon as the first plant is gotten under way. The Southern Power Company has been working on this proposition for years and only recently announced that it had gotten to the point where it could declare with confidence its ability to handle the scheme successfully. It will be remembered that Mr. Lee, who has done much pioneer work on this proposition, announced three years ago that he expected to see the day come when every large planter living in the territory of any great hydro-electric power could make his own commercial fertilizer from the atmosphere. This dream is about to be realized. The 4,000-horsepower plant that is to be erected at Great Falls the first of the coming year will represent an outlay of about $200,000.

Mr. Lee will be joined by an expert in New York and also a patent attorney who will make the trip abroad with him. He expects to be absent from six to eight weeks.

THE MATERIAL FOR MANHOOD.

Youth's Companion.

They stood under the dome that housed one of the largest telescopes in the world, and listened to the story of the instrument, then looked through the narrow aperture at the sky, the secrets of which now and then were let down to earth through the great inquisitive tube that thrust its open eye into the firmament. They looked at photographs of double stars and nebulae and star clusters, and at pictures of the Milky Way, in which mere blurs of faint light were transformed into countless suns; and the patient astronomer told the young people, so far as he could, the meaning of it all.

He showed them other instruments that were fitted to the great telescope, and exhibited the work of each. He told them how it had become possible with the spectroscopic to declare the elements that enter into the most distant star the light of which the telescope can discover. "It grows upon the astronomer," said he, "that we live in the universe. Earth, sun and stars are made of the same substances. There might have been a million elements in creation; but there are less than a hundred, and most of them are in our own bodies. You are made of the best stuff in the universe. There is nothing better anywhere. And when you add to this the power of mind to comprehend it and to reflect upon it, and to be moved to reverence for the God who is the soul of it, still more wonderful is man, even in the presence of the whole vast universe."

"The best stuff in the universe!" That, demonstrably, enters into each of us. The material is God's best. Out of the dust of the earth, which is the same as star dust, and out of the heart of God come these human lives of ours.

There is something wonderful in the thought, and it comes as a glad relief after the feeling of insignificance that must oppress one who thinks of the immeasurable vastness of the universe. Small as we are, we are made of the best stuff God has, and with minds that can comprehend it, and be moved to reverence and worship.

Such feelings stirred in the heart of the group of young people, as they stood beside the forty-inch reflector and pondered the mysteries of the starry skies. And such thoughts were in the soul of the palmist of old, who asked:

When I consider the heavens, the work of Thy fingers, The moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained; What is man that Thou art mindful of him, Or the son of man that Thou visitest him? And the answer of the modern student of the stars is not greatly different: Thou madest him but little lower than the angels, Thou crownest him with glory and honor.

THE HABIT OF HAPPINESS.

Success Magazine.

No matter what his vocation or condition in life may be, every one owes it to himself and to the world to form a habit of being just as happy as he can. Happiness means harmony and harmony means health to all bodily functions; it means efficiency. Faculties give out their best when they are normal. To keep happy is, therefore, the best personal economy and surest investment; it insures the greatest possible output of brain and body.

Much natural ability is rendered inefficient because men and women do not know that discord, whether in fear, worry, selfishness, hatred or jealousy, is a health and happiness killer; an efficiency blighter. Many men waste more vitality and mental energy in a few minutes of hot temper than would be required in the legitimate running of their business for days.

What would we think of a banker who would open his vaults and throw all his money into the street? But when, in a fit of anger or rage, a man throws open the safety valves of his mind and flings out his energy, his precious life capital, character capital, we think very little about it. We can make ourselves happy or miserable, comfortable or uncomfortable, according to the emotions which we allow to pass through our minds. Whatever goes through the mind must reappear in the character and physical condition.

It is a law that every state of mind, whether good or bad, affects every cell in the system and is out-pictured in the body. We are thus the arbiters of our fate through our thoughts, emotions and passions. The time will come when we shall know how to refresh ourselves by mental change, by mental chemistry; that is, by holding in our minds the antidotes of the things that have wearied us or vexed us, by holding the mental attitude which will neutralize the thought enemies that have thrown our bodies into confusion.

There is nothing so deadly to happiness as mental discord. It paralyzes the thinking ability and destroys the power of concentration and effectiveness. All diseases and sicknesses of whatever kind are the out-picturing of some form of discord. If the mind is kept as happy as possible it is difficult for discord to get a foothold in the body. A happy mind is the best possible health producer, disease killer and discord destroyer.

For centuries man's happiness was looked upon by many earnest, thinking people as a condition largely beyond his control. They seemed to think that it depended mostly upon the temperament one happened to develop and that there were other things of so much more importance that we should not consider it too seriously or take precious time to cultivate it directly.

We are beginning to find, however, that even as an economical investment it pays immensely to make a business of being happy and being just as good to ourselves as possible, although not in a selfish way. We could not be good to ourselves in the higher sense by being selfish.

There is nothing better that we can do for our children than to train them from infancy to form a habit of always being happy, cheerful and hopeful, and of making this a life principle. The habit of optimism, of facing life the right way, will be worth infinitely more to them than the greatest fortune they may inherit without it.

Children should be given a bright outlook upon life. There is nothing like a sunny disposition, a happy temperament, and if they are not inherited they may be cultivated. Keep yourself cheerful, joyous, happy. It was never intended that you should be a grumbling, discordant, unhappy mortal. You were made to be joyously happy, exuberant; but do not mistake intoxicating excitement, a titillation of the nerves, for happiness. Real happiness is as calm as a summer sea; it is deep, quiet, serene. It works noiselessly, silently but powerfully. We are most powerful when most perfectly poised, when most serene.

Happiness is a great stimulator of growth. Nothing grows when discordant. When we shall have learned how to conserve our energies by getting our minds into harmony, even the hardest day's work will not tire us. It is nerve exhaustion, wasted energy through unnatural, discordant conditions, that makes us fagged and tired out, the result of friction in our machinery. If we could keep ourselves in a happy condition all day, we should be fresh at night. It is by keeping ourselves in perfect harmony that we become more efficient and get the most out of life.

MR. BRYAN BOLTS TICKET.

The Nebraskan Will Not Support Dahlgren For Governor.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 20.—In a statement in which he declares that the crusade which he feels impelled to wage against the liquor interests of the State and nation overshadows a personal and political friendship of twenty years, William J. Bryan this evening announced he had bolted the head of the Democratic State ticket in Nebraska and would not support James G. Dahlgren for Governor.

Mr. Bryan says he regrets that he is compelled to take the stand he does—his first departure from political regularity—but says he feels it his duty to do so because of the position taken by the Democratic nominee on the liquor question. The statement does not indicate that Mr. Bryan will support the candidate of any other party, but announces that he is a pronounced advocate of county option and the early saloon closing law, both of which he insists are menaced by Mr. Dahlgren's candidacy.

CAN'T ENDORSE POLICY. After declaring that it would afford him great pleasure to speak for Dahlgren if he could endorse the policy for which the latter stands, "but," Mr. Bryan says, "Dahlgren has chosen to make the liquor question the paramount issue and makes his appeal on that issue."

Continuing Mr. Bryan says: "Possibly it is just as well to have the issue clearly presented, so that it may be settled this year instead of two years hence. Troublesome as the question is now, it would be even more embarrassing if presented in 1912, when a presidential election is on hand. If Mr. Dahlgren is elected, it will be a declaration by the voters of the State against county option and against the 8 o'clock closing law. If he is defeated it will be a declaration in favor of county option and in favor of the 8 o'clock closing law. In other words, the voters now have an opportunity to decide whether the State shall go backward or forward on the liquor question. The present arguments in favor of going backward would not only contradict what I have already said on the subject, but would embarrass me in the fight that I expect to make hereafter to save our party from the odium of being the representative of the liquor interests."

Those on Whom the Tower Fell No Worse Than Others. Monroe Equivocal.

Rev. W. F. Yarborough, in his sermon at Parker Memorial Baptist church, Aniston, Ala., declared that the boll weevil destroying the cotton crop is a direct curse from God in retribution for man's failure to pay his dues into the Lord's treasury. Wonder who told Mr. Yarborough that? Once upon a time a tower fell, killing 18 people. There were in the neighborhood of the fallen tower a lot of folks who drew down the corners of their mouths, rolled their eyes heavenward, crossed their hands on their breasts and declared that the tower fell on the 18 unfortunate ones simply because they were more wicked than all others in the community. They talked that stuff every time the subject of the fallen tower came up. There came one seeing farther into the matter than man with his short vision can see; there came One whose love is broader than the measure of man's mind and when the subject of the fallen tower and the crushed out lives underneath it was brought up He plainly told the people that they were mistaken in believing that the 18 who lost their lives in the wreck of the tower of Siloam were more wicked than all others in Jerusalem. The boll weevil eating up the cotton crop in one section does not mean that the poor fellows who have tolled to make that crop are more wicked than are those where no pest bothers and where crops are fine.

DOG HELPS ITS MASTER.

Stateville Landmark.

Deputy Sheriff Wm. Clendenin, of Elmwood, and Mr. John Webb, of Chambersburg township, had an exciting experience with a bad negro and his dog Sunday afternoon. Mr. Clendenin has for some time had a warrant for Will Crawford, a negro whose home is near Elmwood, the warrant charging him with disposing of mortgaged property, but the negro had always managed to evade the officer. Sunday afternoon it was learned that the negro was at his home and Mr. Clendenin, accompanied by Mr. Webb, went to the house to make the arrest. Mr. Webb remained in the buggy while Mr. Clendenin called the negro to the door. When Mr. Clendenin told the negro that he had a warrant for him the latter turned and ran back into the house with the officer at his heels. Crawford attempted to evade the officer by slamming the door in his face but failed, and when the officer got inside the negro, who is a powerful man, seized him and tried to choke him, at the same time reaching for a gun which he kept on a rack near the door. Hearing the commotion in the house Mr. Webb left the horse and went to Mr. Clendenin's assistance. Mr. Webb pulled Crawford away and Clendenin covered the negro with his pistol threatening to kill him if he moved. He was kept under guard Sunday night and was brought to Stateville yesterday and lodged in jail.

When Mr. Webb entered Crawford's house the latter's dog attacked him and, fastening its teeth in the flesh of his leg, held on until Mr. Webb kicked him off during the scuffle with the negro. The dog then attacked Mr. Clendenin and bit him several times before he could be beaten off.

DR. B. F. DIXON STRICKEN.

Raleigh News and Observer, 20th.

His many friends throughout North Carolina and the entire South will regret to learn that Major B. F. Dixon, State Auditor, is in Rex Hospital, in this city, where he was taken yesterday shortly after noon while suffering from an attack of angina pectoris, the attack having seized him while at his office at the State Capitol, about half past ten o'clock.

Major Dixon went to his office at the usual hour and appeared to be in good health. He later went down town and returned to his office, where the attack came, and he fell in a lounge in great pain. His agony was so great that his cries could be heard throughout the building and on the capitol grounds.

Doctors Rankin, Rogers and Kitchin were called to the scene and opiate was administered, but it was some time before the pain was deadened sufficiently for Major Dixon to be removed to the hospital, where he was taken at 12:20 by Drs. Rogers and Kitchin.

In the afternoon Dr. Dixon began to improve and at a late hour last night he was reported resting well. If he continues to improve it will be necessary for him to stay at the hospital only a few days. Major Dixon's many friends are deeply concerned about his condition and hope for his speedy recovery to perfect health. On Sunday night he was at church and nothing unusual was noticed in his condition Monday morning. At first it appeared that the attack was from acute indigestion, but an examination showed that the chest was affected, especially on the left side, and the attack was pronounced angina pectoris.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Secret. Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: 'Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and, as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar, in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved as much trouble and we are never without it in the house.'
