The Difference Between a Sanitarium and a Sanatorium.

Scientific American.

The words "sanitarium" and "sanatorium" are popularly understood to have the same meaning and are generally used interchangeably, when designating (or describing) places of refuge for sick people, but there is, in fact, quite a distinction between the meaning of the two words. In answer to a correspondent on this subject the Literary Digest says:

"The distinction between these words lies in the fact that they are derived from two different Latin roots. 'Sanatorium' is derived from the Latin sanatorius, meaning health-giving. The terms relate specially to an institution for treatment of disease or care of invalids; especially an establishment employing natural therapeutic agents or conditions peculiar to the locality, or treating particular diseases.' On the other hand, 'sanitarium' is derived from the Latin sanitas, from sanus, meaning whole, or sound. 'Sanitarium' relates more specifically to a place where the hygienic conditions are preservative of health, as distinguished from one where therapeutic agencies are employed.' Hence it is the province of a 'sanitarium' to preserve health, that of a 'sanatorium' to restore it. Care should be exercised in combining the proper vowels in these two words, in order to indicate correctly the derivation."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

De Forest, Wis.—"After an operation four years ago I had pains downward in both sides, backache, and a weakness. The doctor wanted me to have another operation. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured of my troubles."—Mrs. AUGUSTE WESPERMANN, De Forest, Wisconsin.

Another Operation Avoided. New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LIZZY FEY ROUX, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

If you want special advice about your case write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

NEW YORK'S HUMAN SIDE.

Woman Forces Her Son to Make a Hero of Himself by Rescuing Drowning Man.

New York American.

The mother of John Duffy, 20 years old, 184 West Ninth street, Brooklyn, made a hero of her son yesterday by pushing him from the Ninth street bridge into the Gowanus canal and telling him to rescue a drowning man or drown himself. The boy performed the rescue.

A man running east on Ninth street and shouting that somebody was trying to kill him, jumped head first into the first thing he came to, which happened to be the canal. Joseph Shea, of 497 Smith street, jumped to the rescue. Mrs. Duffy and her son reached the shore to find that the men in the water were nearly exhausted. The next instant young Duffy went into the water impelled by his parent's strong arm.

He was a real hero when he had to be. He managed to get both men out, with the aid of Detective Donnelly, who summoned an ambulance. But as soon as all three were out of the water the first plunger turned and dived back again. Mrs. Duffy made a flying leap for her son, and he made a flying dive for the canal. He grabbed the man and got him to safety again. The stranger said he was Adolph Kommer. He was taken to Seney Hospital.

Stomach Troubles Cured by Vinol

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly—VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs—gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

W. E. WATERHOUSE, Portland, Me.

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

Try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

HOUSEKEEPERS WASTEFUL.

"Only Time We Think of Supply is When it is Limited," Says Speaker.

Phoebes Dwight in the Boston Traveler.

"The housekeeper must learn not to waste the by-products. That is a lesson the manufacturers are teaching us. They use everything, heated air and all. Housewives should. Old-fashioned soap-making is an example. Everyone's grandmother used to make her own soap. I do not say that women nowadays should do the same, for many of them in that space of time could earn more than they could save by soap making. But, nevertheless, the fat that might be refined into soap is wasted. Think of the soaps and oils that could be made from the fat thrown away yearly. I feel that there is a moral side to it.

"There is the matter of the diet," went on Miss Stern, smiling at her own earnestness. "If a person is sick or constipated or delicate, a diet is arranged for him. Just so much is cooked, and the patient is expected to eat it all. But if a person is well a diet is thought unnecessary. Let him eat all he wants. The amount varies. Hence the waste.

"It seems to me that the economical housewife should plan her meals in relation to the family consumption so that just the right amount would be prepared and then there would be no waste, no left-overs. A very excellent cook and a practical woman once said to me that she could never afford to have left-overs because it required a genius to make them palatable.

"Do you think that there is waste only in the culinary department?" I asked.

"Indeed, no," replied Miss Stern. "It is just as apparent in dress. I suppose that it is caused largely by the instability of fashion. The rich keep abreast of the constant changes and the less rich follow as closely as they can. People have grown to think that it is easier to buy a new garment than to mend an old one. Fashion encourages these ideas. There is little of what the Germans call the 'up-keep' in connection with the American wardrobe.

"Americans are so prosperous that they are free-handed. There is never any economy with us unless it is forced. The coal famine was an excellent illustration of that. The only time that we think of the supply is when it is limited. But I am old-fashioned enough to believe that a 'penny saved is a penny earned.'"

TO MAKE LAND PAY.

Intensive Farming Brings Very Large Returns.

Allan L. Benson in Delimitator.

A living can be made from land in these ways:

1. By having much land. If one has much land, and is content with a poor living, he may do the minimum of work. The surplus of the land will make up for the deficiency of labor. He can let beef cattle fatten on the grass while he loaf. He can till ever so poorly and still be alive at the end of the year.

2. By having less land and working more. Nothing except land and labor can make crops, and if the land be diminished in area, labor must be increased both in volume and intelligent purpose. The man who seeks a living from a 40-acre farm cannot sit down until the beef cattle tatten themselves into steaks. He must sow and cultivate. He must also have a glimmering of the fact that it is not well to keep the same crop in the same field year after year.

3. By having a little land—five or ten acres—and understanding the art of caring for it as an engineer would care for a great machine that he perfectly understood and wanted to drive to its capacity; by making up for a deficiency of land with an abundance of intelligent labor.

The five or ten acre farm is precisely as feasible a method of making a living as the 80-acre farm. The miniature simply must be worked in a different way. It must be devoted to crops into the raising of which can be packed the labor and knowledge thatalone can compensate for lack of land. Not much labor can be put into the growing of a small patch of wheat or a few beef cattle; therefore, the small farm must be devoted to raising of little things that bring big prices; little things that will not even grow little unless coddled and teased. Vegetables, berries and fruit require little land, but much intelligent labor. They bring good prices. Vegetables, berries and fruit are, therefore, the crops with which any man can make a small farm as profitable as he could make the largest farm that he could attempt to till with his own labor.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars, free.
