My Lady of the North

THE LOVE STORY OF A GRAY JACKET By RANDALL PARKER Author of 'When Wilderness Was King' Illustrations by Arthur T. Williamson

CHAPTER I.—The story opens in a tent of the Confederate army... CHAPTER II.—The two messengers make a wide circuit of the hills... CHAPTER III.—Encountering a small party of soldiers in the darkness... CHAPTER IV.—The female companion of the two southern scouts is a northern girl... CHAPTER V.—One of the horses given out, Wayne orders O'Grady to get through with the dispatches... CHAPTER VI.—The Confederate officer and the Union girl thread the mazes of the woods... CHAPTER VII.—The owner of the hut, one Jed Bungray, orders and he and his wife give the captain a welcome... CHAPTER VIII.—They are led by a man claiming to be Red Lowrie... CHAPTER IX.—The disguised leader proves to be Major Brennan... CHAPTER X.—A Woman's Tenderness

Youth is never largely given to reflection, which is the gift of years... Under other conditions I might have felt tempted to enter into conversation with my guards, who, as I now perceived, were far from being the rough banditti I had at first imagined.

"Very well," he said. "Take your prisoner down there, and tell the Sergeant to press on at once toward the lower road. We shall follow you, and the lady will ride his horse." The man turned, and with peremptory gesture ordered me forward. As I drew closer where the two waited beside the open door, I lifted my head proudly, determined that neither should perceive how deeply I felt the humiliation of my position.

$50,000,000 RAISED.

Plan Envoled Whereby Farmers Will Benefit By Any Rise in Price.

New York, Nov. 21.—New York bankers who have been conferring here for the last few days with representatives of the Governors Conference and of the Southern Cotton Conference announced this afternoon that they had raised a fund $50,000,000 to be placed immediately in the Cotton Belt States for the purpose of handling the cotton crop of 1911 and enabling growers to participate in any rise in the market.

The negotiations were conducted on behalf of the South, by Governor Emmet O'Neal of Alabama; Senator Bailey, of Texas, who has been advising his colleagues as to the legal aspects of the proposition, E. J. Watson, president of the permanent Southern Cotton Congress and Commissioner of Agriculture of South Carolina, and Clarence Ousley of Fort Worth, Texas, representing the Governor of his State.

The bankers who will furnish the fund, according to the statement, are headed by Col. Robert M. Thompson of the brokerage firm of S. H. P. Pell & Co. of this city. The financial support of several of the strongest banks in New York has been given to the plan, the statement continues.

The plan proposes to advance the grower $25 a bale upon his cotton, based on the market value at the time of the loan. No interest will be paid upon the loan, the only charge being $1 a bale, which is regarded as a legitimate minimum charge for expense of grading and handling. The cotton is not held, nor taken from channels of trade, but is placed at the best advantage.

BEATTIE ADMITS GUILT.

Leaves Written Confession of Murder of His Wife—With Unflinching Nerve He Takes Seat in Fatal Chair and is Punished For Fearful Crime.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., before his death in the electric chair at 7:23 a. m. today confessed to the murder of his wife. The statement which was given out in the rotunda of a downtown hotel follows: "I, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., desirous of standing right before God and man, do on this, the 23rd day of November, 1911, confess my guilt of the crime against me. Much that was published concerning the details was not true but the awful fact, without the harrowing circumstances, remains. For this action I am truly sorry, and believing that I am at peace with God and am soon to pass into His presence, this statement is made."

Beattie's confession was followed by this statement by attending ministers: "The statement was signed in the presence of the two attending ministers and is the only statement that can and will be made public by them."

Thanks to Friends. "Mr. Beattie desired to thank the many friends for kind letters and expressions of interest and the public for whatever sympathy was felt or expressed." None of Beattie's family went to the penitentiary today. In his home in South Richmond the father, surrounded by his other son, Douglas, his daughter, Hazel, and two aunts of the condemned man, awaited word that all was over.

The shock that killed Beattie was given at exactly 7:19 o'clock this morning. Three distinct and separate times the current was turned on and at 7:23 it was shut off. Doctors W. T. and St. Julien Oppenheimer a minute later announced that death had been instantaneous. The twenty-two persons in the death chamber thereupon filed out, and the end of a lengthy and costly battle for justice had ended.

CHAMPION CORN GROWER.

Charlie Parker, of Hertford County, Raised 235 1/2 Bushels to the Acre.

Master Charlie Parker, of Hertford county, North Carolina, aged 16, is now the champion corn-grower of the world, having raised on one acre 235 1/2 bushels of corn, harvest weight, which, when dried out, made 195.87 bushels of dry crib corn, containing 12.21 per cent of moisture. It cost the farmer but only 24 cents per bushel to produce, this record-breaking amount. He had three acres and each of the other two contained practically as much as the one that was tested. Master Parker's picture will appear in the News and Observer in a day or two.

When Master Parker's report was sent in, Director T. B. Parker, of the Boys' Corn Club, to make sure that no mistake had been made, sent Mr. T. Frank Parker, assistant agronomist, and Mr. T. J. W. Broom, assistant demonstrator, to re-weigh the corn. These gentlemen were met at the home of Mr. Parker by Prof. I. O. Schaub, special agent for the Boys' Corn Club; Mr. T. E. Brown, of Hertford county, district demonstrator agent, and Industrial Agent Clark, of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. These gentlemen and others witnessed the re-weighing of the corn, after it had been cribbed and dried out a month. Every ear of corn was weighed and a part of it shelled and the result was 195.87 bushels of dry crib corn containing 12.21 per cent of moisture.
