ONLY SEMI-WEEKLY IN ANSON

AFTER THE HOOKWORM.

Report of the Anson County Hookworm Campaign the First Week's Work.

The following is the report given us by Dr. Covington showing the number of examinations made at the different points in the county at which the hookworm dispensaries have been located during the first week of the campaign.

Ansonville, 12 microscopic examinations made, none infected.

Polkton, 33 examinations made, 5 infected with pin worms and three with eel worms.

White Store, 26 examinations made, 4 infected with hookworms and one with eel worms.

Morven, 22 examinations made, 8 infected with hookworms and two with eel worms.

Lilesville, 49 examinations, 22 infected with hookworms, and 3 with eel worms.

Wadesboro, 55 examinations made, 6 infected with hookworms, one with eel worms and one with the dwarf tape worms.

Total, 197 examinations, 40 infected with hookworms, 5 with pin worms, 10 with eel worms, and one with the dwarf tape worms.

At all the above points a large number were in attendance on the opening day showing that the dispensaries in this county are meeting with the usual popularity that has been the case in the various other counties in which this great work has been conducted. From the number of containers that was given out at the various points the first week it is estimated that at least a thousand examinations will be made this, the second week, of the campaign.

It should be remembered that this campaign will be conducted in the county but for three more weeks and all who have as yet not been examined should hasten to do so. Note the itinerary of the dispensaries on another page.

Ratliff-Gulledge.

The honorable home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gulledge, in Gulledge township, was the scene of a lovely home wedding yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Ethel, became the bride of Mr. G. W. Ratliff. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Reddish, pastor of the First Baptist church of Wadesboro. Miss Annie Gulledge, of Chesterfield, niece of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. John Ratliff, brother of the groom, best man. Mr. B. P. Gulledge, brother of the bride, and Miss Neale May Ratliff, sister of the groom, were the other attendants. The wedding march was played by Miss Carrie V. May, of Morven. Those who attended the marriage from Wadesboro were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Redfearn, Mrs. H. H. McLendon, and Messrs. W. C. Bivens, Bradley Teal, John Jones and Joe Capel.

Mr. Ratliff is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ratliff, of Gulledge township and is a young man of fine character. Mrs. Ratliff is a most lovely young woman and has a large circle of friends.

Last night an elegant reception was given the bridal party at the home of the groom's parents.

"Doan's Ointment cured me of eczema that had annoyed me a long time. The cure was permanent."—Hon. S. W. Matthews, Commissioner Labor Statistics, Augusta, Me.

RECORDER'S COURT.

Number of Cases Disposed of Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Recorder's Court was in session Tuesday and Wednesday. The most interesting case disposed of was that of the State against Earl Benton, a well known young white man of the town for selling whiskey. This case was first tried Tuesday of last week but the jury failed to agree. At the last trial the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The principal witness for the State was Mr. Tom Lindsey, of Lilesville, township, who testified that, some time ago he gave young Benton 75 cents and that Benton went off and brought him back a pint of whiskey. Mr. Benton went on the stand and denied that he had at any time sold, or procured for, Mr. Lindsey any whiskey. There is another case against Mr. Benton for selling whiskey, and prayer for judgment in this case was continued until next Tuesday, at which time it is expected the other case will be tried.

Ollie Gatewood, a colored woman of Lilesville; selling liquor; first sentenced to 60 days in jail; later prayer for judgment was continued until the 26th.

Jim Little, colored, keeping liquor for sale; not guilty. About four weeks ago five gallons of whiskey was found by Policeman Howell in a buggy in the rear of the Hotel Anson which Jim was driving. Jim claimed that the whiskey belonged to Mr. Eugene Morgan. Mr. Morgan has also been indicted for keeping whiskey for sale, but his case has not yet come to trial.

Will Hildreth and Earl Benton, affray, both guilty; prayer for judgment continued until next Tuesday.

Calvin Watkins, colored, selling liquor; prayer for judgment continued until next Tuesday.

Calvin Watkins, assault and battery; not guilty.

Peter Wilson, larceny; four months on roads.

John Martin, colored, keeping liquor for sale; four months on roads; notice of appeal given.

J. R. Alsobrooks, removing crop; plead nolo contendere; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

Jane Lee and Dave Lee, assault with deadly weapon; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

Wm. Bennett, keeping liquor for sale; not prosed.

Will Ingram, disposing of mortgaged property; judgment suspended on payment of one half of cost.

Marshall Gaddy, disposing of mortgaged property; judgment suspended on payment of one half of the cost.

Vernon Lockhart, secret assault; not prosed with leave.

Levy Little, assault with deadly weapon; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

Dan J. Joyce, Sanville, Henry Co., Virginia, says: "I took a cold with a cough which hung on for two years. Then I commenced using Foley's Honey & Tar Compound and cough finally left me and now I am perfectly strong and well." Is best and safest for children and contains no opiates. BROTHERHOOD OF CHRISTIANS.

Any Form of Christianity Better Than Paganism, and the Cause of Christ is Often Furthered by Insincere Men, Who Would Rather Injure It—Sermon Preached Last Sunday by Rev. W. Bruce Doyle.

Text: Phillipians 1:18 — "Notwithstanding every way, whether in pretence or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice."

Paul was in prison, chained to a guarding soldier. His liberty had been abridged, and a violent death seemed inevitable. His enemies outside desiring to add afflictions to his bonds began to preach. They thought this would greatly trouble the Apostle. But he rejoiced and said he would rejoice.

Here We See Three Things: The Sermon, the Preacher, the Rejoicing.

And what of the preacher? "Notwithstanding every way, whether in pretence or in truth." He here says that some preached Christ of envy, some of strife, some of contention, some of spite, and some of pretence.

Think of a man entering the synagogue and preaching just because he wanted somebody to envy him! Think of a man in the sacred desk preaching just to stir up contention! Think of a man going into the pulpit and preaching just for spite! That was what some men were doing in Rome, and Paul, bound hand and foot in prison, rejoiced at it.

It often happens that the avowed motive is not the true one. The motive of these preachers was evil but they preached. And without intending to do any good they preached Christ. And Paul was glad, not because of the motive but the accomplishment. They did God's work in the devil's way. And Paul was glad, not because of the way but the work.

Once Jesus spoke to a multitude and to his disciples and said, "The Scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses' seat. All things whatsoever they bid you, that do; but do ye not after their works." Then follows his scathing words to those preachers. He calls them blind guides, whited sepulchres, and a generation of vipers.

Cyrus, king of the Medo-Persian power, was a cruel heathen liar, but God allowed his people to listen, to him for he told them to return to Jerusalem and rebuild God's house.

Many beautiful songs were written by Solomon, and God bids us chant them as the songs of Zion, although we would not for all the gold live the squalid life that Solomon lived in a heathen harem nor experience his doubts and fears as they quake Ecclesiastes.

King Saul with insane folly was seen among the prophets. Balaam wanted to curse the people of God for Balack's bags of gold, but he spoke a blessing.

Jesus once sent out his twelve apostles to heal all manner of diseases and cast out demons and preach. They went out by twos and did so. Yet Judas was among those men Jesus wanted the people to hear preach.

Christ spoke of the judgment day when preachers will say to him, "Have we not prophesied in thy name? And in thy name cast out devils? And in thy name done many wonderful works? But he will profess unto them, "I never knew you." Their hearts were iniquitous but their accomplishments wonderful as their preaching good to hear. So Paul rightly rejoiced at the preaching of these base men.

And now what of the sermon? "Whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached."

Good results often come from bad intentions. The bad intention does not make the result bad. The good result does not make the intention good. The intention belongs to the intender, and the result belongs to the recipient. The Psalmist says, "Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee; the remainder of wrath shalt thou restrain."

The sons of Jacob, with murderous hearts and greedy desires, sold their younger brother and dipped the colored coat of his pride in the blood of a goat. But by his going into Egypt he saved two nations.

Truth is mighty in itself, not in the breath of the proclaimer. There is virtue in the Gospel, not always in the gospeler. There is helpfulness in the exposition, not always truth in the expounder.

INFERNAL MACHINE PARALYZES POLICE.

Masked Maniac Walks Into Station House With Box of Dynamite—Tells Officers to Send for Highest Official of Southern Pacific, Would Blow Him Up.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—Armed with an infernal machine containing enough dynamite to destroy an entire city block, a bottle of nitro-glycerine and a 45-caliber revolver, a masked maniac took possession of the Central police station today and held it for more than an hour, while hundreds of occupants of the building and those for blocks around, panic-stricken, sought safety in distance.

When Detective James Hosick knocked the man unconscious with a leather "billy" after slipping up behind him, the fuse of the infernal machine was automatically ignited. Detective Samuel L. Brown grabbed the box with its fuse sharply sputtering and hurled it into the street. Sticks of high-powered dynamite scattered over the pavement while hundreds of spectators stood apparently paralyzed by fright. Through a freak of chance there was no explosion and Brown continued kicking the sticks of dynamite and jumping on the fuse until he had broken the connection and extinguished the fire.

Manacled to a cot in the receiving hospital tonight the would-be dynamiter, who gave his name as Albert Henry Davis, is suffering with several severe scalp wounds but the police surgeons say his injuries are not serious.

Davis entered the outer office of Chief of Police Sebastian this afternoon. His face and head were completely covered with a grotesque mask and he carried in his arms a large box covered with cloth. The box was strapped around his shoulders and resembled a small hand organ.

First startled and then amused by the strange spectacle, Police Sergeant R. C. Hill, who suspected a practical joke, asked the man what he wanted.

"I've got enough dynamite to blow us all into eternity," he said, "and I want you to send for the highest official of the Southern Pacific Railroad."

The masked visitor rested the box on a filing cabinet and Assistant District Attorney R. O. Graham, who was in the office, started joking with him. "This is no joke," said Davis. "I mean business and if you don't believe it try to take this away from me. My hand is fastened in this box and if I pull it out — bang — we all die."

A hole had been cut in the box and the occupants of the room saw for the first time that the man's left hand was hidden in the box.

They began to realize that it was no joke. Davis then walked into the office of Police Secretary C. E. Snively, which opens into the private office of Chief Sebastian, and repeated his request that the head official of the Southern Pacific be summoned. Snively asked him if he had any preference in the man he desired to blow up and he replied that he only wanted the head man.

Snively then took down the telephone receiver and pretended to have a conversation with Paul Shoup, general manager of the Pacific Electric Company.

"Mr. Shoup is busy but he will be here in about 15 minutes," said Snively.

"Well he'd better hurry," replied Davis. "I'm getting nervous."

In the meantime Chief Sebastian who had had a brief conversation with the man and realized that he was in earnest ordered the street roped off for a block either way and took steps to have the 100 prisoners in the city prison removed. Upstairs in the building two justice courts were in session and both court rooms were crowded.

Realizing the necessity of keeping the man's attention engaged until the building was cleared and some means devised for foiling his plans, Secretary Snively and the detectives carried on a conversation with him.

"Why didn't you go down to the Southern Pacific and blow up the man you wanted?" he was asked.

"Well," he replied thoughtfully, "I thought the police could handle it better and I wanted to do a good job. I might have killed the wrong ones otherwise."

While the conversation was in progress several policemen and newspaper men passed through the room. A newspaper photographer even came in and took a picture of the man sitting on the chair with the infernal machine resting on his knee.

Davis finally asked that everybody be kept back.

"Curiosity has killed lots of people," he said, "and if this thing goes off there's going to be a whole lot of them go up."

While Secretary Snively carried on the conversation with the maniac, Detective Hosick tip-toed from the outer room which was at Davis' back and struck him on the head with a "black-jack." The infernal machine dropped and Detective Brown, who was at Hosick's elbow, grabbed it.

Davis reached in his coat pocket and Hosick hit him again and he tumbled to the floor unconscious.

The bottle of nitro-glycerine and the revolver were in Davis' inside coat pocket, towards which he had reached.

"Tells the Whole Story."

To say that Foley's Honey & Tar Compound is best for children and grown persons and contains no opiates tells only part of the tale. The whole story is that it is the best medicine for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and other affections of the throat, chest and lungs. Stops the grippe, coughs and has a healing and soothing effect. Remember the name, Foley's Honey & Tar Compound, and accept no substitutes. Parsons Drug Store and Morven Pharmacy, Morven, N. C. Dr. W. H. Wakefield of Charlotte will be at the National Hotel in Wadesboro on Wednesday, Dec. 4th, for one day. The doctor's practice is limited to the medical and surgical treatment of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat diseases and fitting glasses.

Gardner-Sellers Wedding.

Reported for The M. & I.

A marriage characterized by simplicity was that, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 19th, of Mr. Sidney Alexander Gardner, of McBee, S. C., and Miss Lula Sellers, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sellers, near Lilesville.

Promptly at six o'clock Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered by Miss Jewell Henry and the bridal party entered the parlor as follows: First came the bridesmaids, Misses Lora Sellers and Margaret Hough, carrying pink La France roses. Next came the groom with his best man, Mr. Paul Porter, followed by the bride, leaning on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Lula Marsh, who carried pink chrysanthemums. The bridal party stood before an altar of ferns and potted plants lighted with pink candles, which cast a soft glow over the scene. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. W. Roy Davis.

Immediately after the ceremony punch was served in the hall by Misses Bright Henry and Floy Hatcher. Here the bride and groom received congratulations.

The bride was attired in a coat suit of blue cloth with large white beaver hat and carried an armful of white chrysanthemums. The couple were accompanied to the station by a host of friends and amid a shower of rice and good wishes they left on the seven o'clock train for their future home in McBee, S. C.

The young bride is of a sweet disposition and very popular. Lilesville regrets very much to lose her. The groom holds a responsible position as engineer on the Seaboard railroad.
