

FRESHMAN DEBATE
IN CHAPEL NOV. 3

On Thursday, November 3, the Freshman class held a debate on "Resolved, that automobiles are more important than husbands" as a part of its first chapel program of the year. Since there were no judges, each person made his own decision as to the outcome. Marie Riddick and Rebecca Gay were the affirmative debators; Earl Barrett and Walter Dudley upheld the negative.

The affirmative contended that automobiles are more important than husbands for three reasons:

1. A woman does not have to cater to an automobile as she would to a husband. She can be herself in the presence of an automobile, because it can neither quarrel, talk back, nor get the last word. Women like to be independent.

2. Automobiles may be disposed of more easily than husbands and without undesirable publicity.
3. A woman can keep tag on her automobile more easily than she can her husband.

The negative declared that automobiles are not more important than husbands, because:

1. The husband's chief purpose and desire is to protect his wife.
2. The husband helps his wife enjoy life by providing not only necessities, but also luxuries.

SACRED CONCERT IS

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

"Come on, Edith Ray, let's go to the tea room and get some candy," called Edith Smith on Friday night, December 9. They went to the tea room and, as they entered the door, voices within sang

"Happy Birthday, Edith Ray". On the table in the middle of the room was a beautiful birthday cake with presents piled around it. Edith Ray opened the presents and found many useful gifts. After much fun and laughter she cut the cake and someone brought out some cocoa. The cake and cocoa were enjoyed by all. After wishing Edith Ray many more happy birthdays the little group returned home.

Those present at the party were Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Daughtry and children, Edith Ray, Emma, Sybil, and Margaret, Cora Felton Bass, Elizabeth Brett, Fannie Simmons Miller, Margaret Peele, Edith Smith, and Nora Mae Ward.

DETECTIVE ARRIVES

On Saturday night November 5, some Chowan girls decided it would be a good time to have a feast, as college girls are always ready to eat.

About 11:30 o'clock when everything seemed to be perfectly quiet the work began.

A number of girls gathered in four different rooms on the fourth floor to have a "mid-night feast." Everybody got busy to spread the food when they all began to laugh and talk. They seemed to have forgotten that they were supposed to be asleep.

All of a sudden a creaking sound was heard in the hall and then a voice saying, "Girls, Girls, you must be quiet" Hugh a minute, and all the girls knew that Miss McDowell was on their trail.

In another second everyone had jumped into bed and was just as quiet as a mouse until it was known that Miss McDowell was again in bed.

The girls then quietly opened the doors and gave a glance first to the right and then to the left. No one was in sight. They all slipped back to their rooms glad to know they were at last safe.

Y. W. A. BANQUET

Chowan's Y. W. A. honored its new members at a Thanksgiving banquet, held in the college dining hall on November 22 at 6 o'clock.

The hall was decorated with green ivy and white candles. On the tables flowers of different colors were placed in low bowls between lighted candles. The favors consisted of monogrammed programs and menu cards, containing the Y. W. A. ideals and motto, songolories with the Y. W. A. songs which were used during the banquet, handprinted napkins, and place cards.

Katherine Martin, president of the college Y. W. A. and hostess at the banquet, welcomed the guests. Lillian Holloman responded to a toast to the new members given by Cornelia Girssom, Miss Ethel Britt, sponsor for the college Y. W. A., gave an inspirational talk on how and why one should observe Thanksgiving. After Myrtle Ange and Elizabeth, dressed as Chinese and Japanese girls had told of the mission work done in their countries, Mr. Edwards gave a toast to the Y. W. A. to which Velva Howard responded.

The banquet was made possible by the kindness of the women of Murfreesboro in appreciation of services rendered by the Chowan students in the local church.

B. S. U. NOTESY. W. A.

A Thanksgiving banquet was given in the college dining room at 6 o'clock, November 22, by the Y. W. A. The table and dining room were beautifully decorated with green and white, the Y. W. A. colors. The program consisted of toasts, singing, and special numbers on missions. The guests attending the banquet were Miss McDowell, Miss Ethel Britt, Y. W. A. sponsor; Mr. Edwards, the faculty, and the college students.

A special mission week was sponsored by Y. W. A. during the week of December 5-12. A mission book was studied at morning watch and a special day, Wednesday, December 7, was set aside as mission prayer day. Throughout that day at each hour some girl was praying or meditating about missions.

On Thanksgiving morning at 7 o'clock a beautiful service was held in the Lucalian hall. Mr. Edwards gave an inspiring talk which was followed by a message from Katherine Martin, who led the service. The hall was lighted by candles and decorated with ivy and flowers. The service was very impressive and served to fill everyone with the real Thanksgiving spirit.

B. Y. P. U.

Chowan B. Y. P. U. is very proud of its record at the B. S. U. Convention. Of all the colleges represented Chowan was the only one which had its director and all its presidents present at the B. Y. P. U. conference, which was led by Miss Winnie Rickett. Miss Rickett congratulated our director for this splendid record.

As has been the custom, the B. S. U. will have a community Christmas tree at its last regular meeting. This Christmas tree will be in the auditorium and the gifts on it are for the poor of the town. Everyone is requested to contribute gifts of food, etc., for the tree.
