COLLEGE

ECONOMY

There were some 233 boys and 60 girls enrolled here for this term. A new dormitory for girls expected to help some in infor creasing the number of co-eds for 1958-59, Mr. Cadle thinks, but he believes the new dorm will not have its full effect until the following year. It will not be completed until about the beginning of the new term therefore it cannot be seen term therefore it cannot be seen by present prospects. However, the director of admissions is working very hard towards fill-ing the 100-capacity new dorm with the fair sex. North Carolina and other states had a decline in number of students admitted to college this season according to a re-this season, according to a re-port from the State Board of port from the State Board of Education. The causes attribut-ed include a tighter economy, bad farm conditions (this would have the greatest effect in east-ern North Carolina), and higher standards of admission on the part of some colleges. NEA indicated the widespread reports of much larger college of reports of much larger college enrollments by 1960 appears to have been premature.

A recent statement of the Association of College Admission Councellors summarized, "The tidal wave hasn't started yet. In fact, admissions were off this year and there seems to be no significant increase for next year. If faculty men are getting tougher—and they are—because they feel their schools can be more selective, they're jumping the gun. What our colleges need right now are freshmen " right now are freshmen." Thus it would appear Chowan is doing better than holding its own, while preparation is being made for the larger influx of students a few years hence.

They added another run in the fourth and held this lead until the sixth, when Norman Phillips and Ray Rose drew walks. Harold Smith then put down a perfect bunt for a single and Joe Sum ier drove home the first and sec-ond Chowan runs with a Texas a for the Br ond Chowan runs with a Texas League single to left.
