

FINANCIAL MATHEMATICS — Extra homework session? Kay White seems to be getting the point across! Mr. Wallace teaches the Financial Mathematics.

ments. I sincerely feel that the Department of Business is superior to any other department on this campus.

My brother and I have discussed our schools and the subjects we have taken. He has attended Campbell and Wake Forest Colleges. I believe that I have received equal training."

New Location

Both students and faculty are anxious to occupy new quarters in the academic classroom building that is now under construction. The Department of Business will have all of its classes and instructors' offices on the third floor of this modern and air-conditioned classroom building.

In addition to the regular typewriting classroom, we are planning for a dual-purpose classroom for such courses as Secretarial Practice and Introduction to Transcription. There will be four specialized classrooms, the dual-purpose classroom, plus a conference room, and three general lecture rooms on this floor. The general lecture rooms will also be used by other departments when necessary.

We believe that the overall efficiency of the Department of Business will be greatly improved as a result of these well-planned quarters.

"To give a comparison of training in business at Chowan with other institutions means to give flattery. However, I will say after listening to reports from students attending the University of Delaware, Wesley College at Dover, and VPI at Blacksburg, that I feel very confident of my next two years of college life."

BARBARA JANE MORRISON, Concord, N. C., secretarial administration, will seek a job in Charlotte.

"I feel that I am better qualified to get a job and to do better work on the job now than I would have been right after high school. By spending two years in college, I have learned many things other than those I acquired from my studies. A person in any phase of life has to be able to get along with people; this is especially true in the business field, and my time here has taught me that.

"I have talked to a few friends from other junior colleges who are enrolled in business; and from what they tell me, the program here is much better and more difficult. The program here is good, but I wish that another semester of typing was taught. The office machines course could be improved by having more machines that will be used in the office."

CHARLES A. JONES, Buington, Virginia, two-year accounting, plans to attend Richmond Professional Institute.

"Chowan has afforded me an informal stepping stone from high school, which I hope to continue. It has given me a broad look at several different aspects of life through its liberal arts courses.

"As my main field of work has been in the business field, I lean more favorably toward that department. I feel that it is one of the better assets of the college, with its strength lying in the individual courses and their instruction."

ENID M. HARRELL, from Norfolk, Va., plans to attend Woman's College, University of North Carolina.

"I feel that I have received valuable training while at Chowan. I think that I have received as good an education here in business as I could have at any other college. Let me say I hold no admiration for the English and Math Depart-

The hardest tumble a person can make is to fall over his own bluff.

It's a shame that nature did not provide everyone with two additional senses—horse and common.

What this country needs is not new deals, fair deals, or even square deals, but ideals.

My love for the Lord is measured not by what I do, but by what I am unwilling to do.

Young Christians may make mistakes working for the Lord, but they will make a bigger mistake by not working for Him.

Millions of people live in a clock-eyed world.

Some people are like fences; they run around a lot without getting anywhere.

The annual field day program was held at Chowan College, Wednesday, May 8, with the freshmen students topping the sophomores 160-121.

The freshmen boys captured basketball, after two overtimes, the tug-of-war and the mile relay while the sophomore boys took softball and volleyball.

In the girls' events held before field day, the sophomores took basketball, volleyball and the 440 boy-girl relay while the freshmen girls won the 100-yard relay and the tug-of-war.

Terry Wills took three first places and tied with George Clark for another first to lead the freshmen boys unit, 77-40.

Lorene Holloman paved the way for the sophomore girls who edged the freshmen maidens, 31-23. Holloman scored three first places, two second places.

Jonnie Musser marked the way for the freshmen girls, capturing the three first place spots that Holloman didn't win and also a second in one event.

A banquet was held in the college cafeteria Friday, May 10 to award the best sophomore and freshmen girl and boy a trophy.

CHOWANIAN WINS TOP AWARD—Collegiate newspaper editors were honored at an awards banquet in Charlotte, May 10, by The Observer and The Charlotte News. The Chowanian representatives at the banquet were Carol Moody and Freda Britt, feature writers. They accepted the plaque for BEST IN MAKE-UP.
