Sharp Increase Noted In College Enrollment

Sharp enrollment increases struck North Carolina colleges this fall, two years earlier than expected.

A survey by the State Board of Education showed an enrollment increase over last year of 9.55 per cent in public institutions and a boost of 6.53 per cent in all public and private colleges and universities.

The U. S. Office of Education had forecast a national increase of 4.5 per cent but a sampling of 18 key institutions across the country revealed a hike of more than 6 per cent.

In North Carolina, 86,085 youngsters enrolled in all institutions of higher education for the fall term. It represented an increase of 5,281 students over the previous year.

The Board of Higher Education's report said such a large increase was not expected. Many officials were figuring on a leveling off period between the tidal wave of students of 1960 through 1962 and the full impact of the post war baby boom expected in 1965.

"The great increase came from the unexpectedly large number of students returning this year because some new circumstance enabled or compelled them to change their minds," the board's report said.

The 1962 figures caused the institutions to increase their estimates of 1970 enrollment. They had expected 114,417 and now are forecasting 120,497.

The figures confirmed predictions of enrollment trends in favor of public colleges. Last fall, public institutions enrolled 53.7 per cent of the students; this year it's 55.3 per cent.

Those With No Experience Can Apply For Job

(ACP)—Lack of journalistic experience shouldn't deter a student from joining the staff of his or her college newspaper.

A novice often has journalistic qualifications of which he is unaware. He also is the one who stands to benefit most from the discipline and experience offered by the college paper.

The beginner even may have an advantage over the student who worked on a newspaper in high school.

Although some high schools produce excellent publications, many fail to maintain high journalistic standards, and some high schools produce little more than gossip sheets.

Even the schools which strive for quality often are hampered by obsolete concepts and techniques. Since students on such papers often assimilate bad habits it usually is easier to teach journalism to students who have no previous training.
