ELMOSIS

DENSE:

An old gentleman walking in a London fog heard another pedestrian approach and said, "I'm lost. Can you tell me where I'm going."

"Into the river," was the reply, "I've just come out of it."

OUCH!

"We got a remarkable brand o' pigs down our way," the Ozark hillbilly said. "Razorbacks, we call 'em. One day one of 'em found three or four sticks of dynamite an' et' 'em. A mean mule come along an' kicked the pig agin the barn. The dynamite went off, the barn blowed up, pieces of the mule came down all over the county, an' windows broke in houses fer miles around. And let me tell you, fer a couple of days we had a mighty sick pig on our hands."

AT CHOWAN:

The father was down at the college having a little visit with his son. One evening he met one of the professors his son had had in a course.

"I'm delighted to meet you. My son took math under you last year, didn't he?"

"Pardon me," said the professor, "He was exposed to it but he didn't take it."

YEAH!

Noticing that the lady next to him in church could find no money in her purse as the collection plate was being passed, the ten year old boy whispered, "Here, take my dime and I'll hide under the seat."

HOW NICE

Marion Johnson, student of journalism at the University of Minnesota found his name a constant source of confusion to his faculty and student body. The limit was reached when he received a note from the dean of women inquiring about his rooming situation, she of course thinking he was a female. He countered with this one little note:

"Dear Deanie: I am rooming over in the men's dorm and the boys are just darling. Marion."

NATCHERLY

"In what condition was the patriarch Job at the end of his life?" asked the teacher of the quiet boy who had not had a question.

"Dead," was the calm reply.

ENGLISH 101:

A young lad in English composition class was unusually graphic in a theme supposed to be written about a ball game. When the teacher came to his paper she read, "Rain—no game."

Wrong Crowd

Seaman Guard — How did you get so completely intoxicated?

Sailor — I got into bad company. I had a bottle of whisky and the other three guys didn't drink.

Dear Stephen:

I am pleased to notify you that you have won Honorable Mention in Photo Spot Newspictures in the Daily Division of the 1964 Press Awards Contest.

Checks and Certificates will be presented to contest winners Thursday evening, January 21 at 8:30 in Carroll Hall at Chapel Hill by Governor Moore.

A reception honoring the 1964 Award Winners and Governor and Mrs. Moore will be held in the Ballroom of Carolina Inn Thursday afternoon at 5:30.

I hope you will be present to receive your award in person and you will find a reserved section in Carroll Hall for prize winners.

Please remember there is to be no public announcement of 1964 contest winners until after the presentation by Governor Moore on Thursday evening.

My congratulations to you and your newspaper and I look forward to seeing you in Chapel Hill.

Sincerely yours,

J. D. Fitz
