

SNEA Important to Teaching Profession

Student Education Association
By Miss Frances E. White
The Student National Education Chapter of Chowan College was organized in 1958, at which time it became recognized as a member of both the North Carolina Education Association and the National Education Association. Mr. Thomas Ruffin and Miss Frances White were appointed co-advisers at the organization of the chapter, with Miss Audrey Marriner as president.

The student NEA was established by the NEA Representative Assembly in 1957. It replaced the National Future

Co-eds to Work With Volunteers

Four co-eds from Chowan College have been selected for the NORTH CAROLINA VOLUNTEERS for the Anti-Poverty Program and will train at Duke University beginning Sunday, June 13.

The training program will continue through Sunday, June 17th, at which time the VOLUNTEERS will be transported to their field assignments. The co-eds from Chowan College are: Nancie Allen of Williamsston; Kaye Drewry and Faye Drewry (twins) of Franklin, Virginia; and Kay Winfree of Kinston.

Teachers of America as the professional organization for college students preparing to teach.

The work of the SNEA is an important component of the teaching profession. Membership in the student NEA continues to grow at the rate of approximately 15 percent each year. The more than 93 new students combine their efforts with those of the practicing NEA members in bringing about an indelible interest upon the future instructors of the nation.

Chowan Chapter

The Chowan chapter has endeavored to maintain this interest through promoting various related activities from year to year. Some of these have been affiliated with the local school—Murfreesboro High School; such as, in observations in the classes in which the student's interest is gauged, whether in the grades or in the departments in the high school. Attendance upon Parent Teachers Association meetings and social functions in the classroom have contributed to the development of a peculiar interest on the part of the SEA'ers. Also attendance at the yearly district and state meetings has been a contributing factor in further developing a "teacher" consciousness. The members of the local chapter have been represented at these conferences each year since its inception.

Representatives

In recent years Chowan has

KENNETH SMITH
Chowan SNEA President

had a Miss Representative and a Mr. Representative at the State meetings of the North Carolina teachers. This representation is an honor for the students chosen, as they are selected upon their interest and participation in the activities of the campus organization. Their names are instated in the yearly annual of NCEA. This spring Mr. Kenneth Smith and Miss Patricia Vanderford were the chosen representatives who attended the Asheville Assembly at which time the twenty-fifth anniversary of SNEA was observed. Miss Glenda Evans and Miss White, the adviser, also attended. At the anniversary luncheon the group had the privilege of hearing Dr. Lois Edinger, President of the National Education Association. She is a North Carolina native and has always contributed greatly to the profession, holding state offices before her present position.

One of the deep regrets of the local chapter is that so few of the Pre-Education students have joined the organization. Probably it has been from lack of knowledge. It is imperative that those going into the teaching profession align themselves with the chapter that they become more conscious of their future role and more informed preparatory to their professional activities. The chapter invites each and all of the Pre-Education students to become members in the fall of 1965. The great organization needs you! You need the organization.

The 1964-65 officers are: president Kenneth Smith; vice-president Marsha Walton; secretary Becky Peeler; treasurer Nancy Brown; program chairman Patricia Vanderford and publicity chairman Carol Holt. "What does it take to make a teacher? It takes exactly what it takes in any other profession: it takes specialized knowledge and skills, and it takes dedication to make a teacher." Dr. Lois Edinger

Attend Press Seminar at Chapel Hill

The three members of the School of Graphic Arts faculty, Herman Gatewood, John McSweeney, and Bill Sowell, attended a North Carolina Press Association Seminar at the University of North Carolina on May 7 and 8. Under the sponsorship of Orville Campbell of the Chapel Hill Weekly, the program covered newspaper circulation, journalism lecture, an advertising seminar and a "backshop" seminary. Included on the various programs were Mark Ethridge, editor of Newsday; William Friday, President of University of North Carolina; Wayne Danielson, Dean of the School of Journalism of UNC; Ken Byerly, journalism professor at UNC; and UNC Chancellor Paul Sharp.

Governor Dan Moore was on the program but was prevented from attending by a recent illness of the mumps.

To see what is right, and not to do it, is want of courage.
